DISMISS LADD IS PLEA IN COURT

Riddell Says He Should Be Removed as Administrator of Johnson Estate.

FORTY REASONS ARE GIVEN

Charges of Neglect, Mismanagement and Breach of Trust Are Revived in Argument on Behalf of Dead Man's Heirs.

H. H. Riddell, attorney for the heirs of A. H. Johnson, says there are 40 rea-sons why William M. Ladd should be removed as administrator of the Johnson removed as administrator of the Johnson cestate. Mr. Riddell began his argument in the County Court yesterday afternoon. He pointed out to the court that early in the year 1834 A. H. Johnson was worth nearly $1.000,000, and knowing he was going to die made arrangements to settle his indebtedness, and also to provide for his wife and children.

his wife and children.

Mr. Johnson wished to obviate expensive probate proceedings. He sent for William M. Ladd his principal creditor, and as the result of a conference executed a trust deed to Mr. Ladd covering much property and also stock in the Union Meat Company. The claims amounted to $276,000, which included the claim of Ladd & Tilton for $189,129,94.

Mr. Johnson was in a critical condition and his sole object was to pay his debts and leave his wife and children the remainder of his property. He died April 11, 1894, and n his will named his wife, Cordelia Johsson, as executrix.

"Not until after her husband's death."

"Not until after her husband's death," said Mr. Riccell, "did Mrs. Johnson know the estate as well as the trust property was to be held liable for her husband's debts. Not meet the debts. Not until she was so told by her attorneys."

Mr. Ridiell explained that being informed the estate was to be held for the debts as well as the trust property, Mrs. Johnson in making up the inventory of the estate, wisely included the trust property as wall as the other property because she concluded that if the estate was to be held the trust property was as much a part of the estate as any other property. Notwithstanding the title was

Mrs. Johnson died in August, 1838, and Mr. Ladd in his inventory did not include the trust property of which he assumed to se the absolute owner as part of the estate and appraised the estate property at only $154,000.

Mr. Ladd made no report to the County Court concerning the trust property, said Mr. Riddell, and violated the laws of the state by not having done so and was liable to have his letters of administration revoked.

William M. Ladd sold $158,000 worth of property of the Johnson estate and got the money. He made no reports to the County Court, and was subject to re-moval as administrator for not having done so. Mr. Riddell reviewed numerous charges of mismanagement and neglect which he has made against Mr. Laddj He has not yet completed his argument.
At the morning session C. E. S. Wood and S. B. Linthicum, attorneys for Mr. Ladd, called witnesses in rebuttal to prove that the Springhill farm has been well taken care of and la in good con-dition. Witnesses also testified in favor dition. With Spring Hill Farm Neglected.

Among the witnesses called was C. N. Johnson, one of the heirs of the estate. Mr. Johnson said that in 1888 he pur-chased from the other helrs a 420-acre tract of the Spring Hill farm, which, wholly, or in part, he rented for a number wholly, or in part, he rented for a number of years. One year he rented the entire tract, and from this derived a return of $169. Mr. Johnson also stated that one year the Spring Hill farm produced 12,000 bushels of grain and 600 tons of hay. Now, according to the testimony brought out, the place is practically unproductive. The witness declared that within the past few years some fence has been built by James Nichols, one of the latest tenants W. M. Ladd had placed in charge of it. this fence having oak sapling posts is already falling to decay. He said that al-most any of the posts could be pushed over now, and that within a short time it would be level with the ground. He stated that the conduct of the tenants generally was not such as would keep the

Mrs. C. N. Johnson told of frequent visits of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Cordelia Johnson, to the office of Richard Will-lams, attorney, who informed her on each occasion that the estate was steadily becoming less solvent. At one time Nichols thought of buying the Spring Hill farm, but later concluded that since he had to make no repairs he would do bet-ter as a renter. She once heard Nichols remark that Ladd would not get enough off the place to pay the taxes.

off the place to pay the taxes.

Other witnesses testified that the Spring Hill farm was originally rich, but through neglect had lost value. James Nichols, the evidence showed, had all but abandoned the raising of grain on the place and only raised fodder for his cows.

Mr. Nichols, Mrs. Ford and others testified to the good condition of the farm.

Director of National Association for Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis Declares Proper Precautions Check It.

Dr. S. A. Knopf, of New York City, who bears an international reputation as a tuberculosis specialist and who lived in Portland during his student days, 22 years ago, arrived in the city yesterday. Dr. Knopf is a director of the National Association for the study and prevention of tuberculosis, of which President Roosevelt and Grover Cleveland are honorary vice-presidents. Several years ago at a meeting of medical men from all parts of the worth held in Berlin Dr. Knopf was awarded the international prize for an essay entitled "Tuberculosis as a Disease of the Masses and How to Combat It." Eighty-one eminent doctors took part in the contest. The prize was given by the German government, Dr. Knopf's article has since been translated into 21 different languages and published in book form.

In Vaudeville Houses

BY A. H. BALLARD

THE FINE vaudeville bill booked for the Grand this week has been transferred to the Star, together with the entire force of assistants formerly employed at the larger house. The feature of the bill, which, by the way, is entirely good, is Laura Howe and her lively collection of animated Dresden dolls. This act is something unique and should be seen to be appreciated. Another splendid act is the Russian brothers Kalinowski, in an acrobatic hand-balancing act similar in some respects to the Beauclaire brothers at the Grand last week. Dick Lynch, a dever frish comedian, furnishes much amusement with his clever witticisms, and in addition contributes a dancing turn much on the George Primyres order. on the George Primrose order. Arthur Rigby, in blackface, and Ada Jewell, in operatic ballads, are clever, and the moving pictures showing a crowd of girls from a near-by seminary badgering a farmer of their neighborhood round out an excel-lent evening's entertainment.

Sapho is really a clever piece of mechanism. Others on the bill at this popular house are Truxedo and Robinson, who return with new songs, new dialogue and new wardrobe, and are better than ever before; Beverley and Danvers render a clever sketch entitled "I'm a Married Man Myself." which is really amus-ing. The musical Spraguelles contribute their musical specialty in the most pleasing manner. The Great Wallace, as he is billed, is a contortionist of no mean abil-ity. Jack Leonard sings "Just Plain Folks" with his usual presence, and has made quite a hit. The moving pictures depicting the pleasures of a straw ride in the dead of Winter furnish an amusing contrast to the present-day conditions, which winds up an interesting entertain-jean octor's ideas, together with an abundance of fresh air and a great deal of rest. Persons afflicted with the dissee should be careful with their expectoration, says the doctor. If this is properly looked after there is little possibility of the spread of the germ.

Expectoration is what causes the spread of the disease.

"People suffering from tuberculosis should live in the open air as much as possible—24 hours out of the 24 if pos-sible," Dr. Knopf said last evening at the Hotel Portland. 'In addition to the common-sense method and constant medical supervision which all cases should be under, if the consumptive is careful with his expectoration, there is little chance of the disease spreading among others.

Consumption Is Curable.

onsumption is curable. It is not to be forgotten, of course, that it takes from six to 12 months to complete cures in early stages. Understand me, the warfare against consumption is not against the consumptive. If the patient is careful and conscientious it is safe for other people to associate with him. Exaggerated fear of the measure of consumption, technically called phthisiophobia, is a great injustice to the honest consumptive.

"The education of the masses against tuberculosis should begin in the common schools everywhere. The principles of prevention should be taught to the teachers and the children as well. All school children should be examined periodically for signs of tuberculosis and riodically for signs of tuberculosis and inspected for infectious and communicable diseases as well. To this end schools should have well-trained physicians to make daily inspections. Workshops and factories should be inspected as to their sanitary condition workshops and inclories should be inspected as to their sanitary condition every so often. No one should expectorate, whether he be a consumptive or not, except in cuspidors.

"Climate is of secondary importance,
Hygienic and dictic treatment I consider to be of primitative importance.
The climate of Portland is particularly City Should Have Sanatorium.

"Every city should have hospitals and a sanatorium for the treatment of tuber-culosis." The early cases should be cared for at the hospitals, and the hopeless and advanced patients taken to the sanatorium. This would be a great help to the fact now going on arginst the disease fight now going on against the disease and would prevent the infection of peo-ple in the districts occupied by the poor. "The expectoration of a consumptive contains a germ known among the mem-bers of the profession as tubercle bacillus, which is alone responsible for the spread of the disease.

of the disease.

"Consumption is not directly inherited. But the infections in children usually take place shortly after birth, from careless and consumptive parents. The only thing which is inherited is the predisposition. This can be overcome by intelligent parents, who bring up their children in accordance with the laws of health and Nature.

Nature.

"Poverty and want and bad housing are also predisposing causes which render people susceptible to tuberculosis. Therefore, no matter how many institutions a municipality may create and maintain for the treatment of consumption, it must see that the laboring population is properly housed. Unsanitary conditions in the tenement districts must be done away with.

deep interest which prominent laymen of Portland have taken in the tuberculosis problem. Those who have established a sanatorium near the city for consumptives were to be given due credit for doing something for the benefit of all mankind, he thought.

Dr. Knopf, who has made a life study of his work, is also of the opinion that the social aspect of the disease is as important as the medical one. Only by the united action of the laymen everywhere, he declares, together with the members
