FUNERAL OF O. F. PAXTON

FRIENDS PAY LAST TRIBUTE TO POPULAR LAWYER.
Service Held at First Presbyterian Church, and Body Taken to the Crematorium.

The funeral of O. F. Paxton was held from the First Presbyterian Church yesterday afternoon, Rev. E. P. Hill officiating. As the organist began a low dirge the honorary pallbearers, J. C. Almsworth, F. I. Fuller, Joseph Simon, Judge Frazer, E. M. Brantick, F. H. Page, W. F. Hurrell, H. W. Goode, C. R. Whitlow, C. A. Dolph, Wirt Minor and H. C. Bowers, entered, followed by the casket containing the body of the dead lawyer, borne by the strong hands of eight young men. The casket was crowned with a profusion of choicest flowers, and the altar on which it rested was surrounded by floral offerings, a touching memorial of the esteem in which the dead attorney was held. The church bell tolled for the departed, and before its tolling ceased, Rev. E. P.

Two Big Bears Guest of E. H. Harriman

On Board Train That Reaches Portland From Seattle This Morning, Bound for New York Zoo.
TWO UNUSUAL passengers will be aboard the Northern Pacific train which will arrive in Portland this morning from Seattle. They are a couple of the bears which started out last night to take the long trip from the Sound to New York, their ultimate destination being the zoological park at that city, where they will join the colony of bears and birds that furnishes amusement to the sight-seers of the great metropolis.
The bears are the property of E. H. Harriman, who is presenting them to the park and who is taking a personal interest in seeing that they shall want for nothing in their journey across the continent. At his request special instructions have been wired to the O. R. & N. officials here to see that they are provided with proper food and forwarded without delay. The orders are that they shall have plenty of bread, crackers and milk, and a liberal supply of drinking water.
The animals are being shipped here by the Pacific Express Company and will be forwarded by the Wells, Fargo Company. They will probably not require Pullman accommodations, but with this exception they will travel with all the ease of first-class tourists, and will receive as much attention from the transportation people as two children would taking the same trip unattended.

Bull in China Shop Outdone by Rat in Department Store

Salesgirls Climb Counters, Ladders and Stools When Terror-Stricken Rodent Flits Through Door Pursued by Dog
vader was immediately scaled by the shop girls, who were joined in the aerial excursion by women patrons of the place. The very latest styles of hosiery were displayed with almost disregard for the several male witnesses, who feigned to be watching the chase being carried on by the dog and the rat. The dog finally proved victorious in the hunt for the fugitive and the remains of Mr. Rat were carried to the street and dumped in the gutter, after which calmness regained its sway over the emotions of the erstwhile frightened shop girls.
During the progress of the rodent's career in the store the screams of the occupants of the various counters, tables, chairs and shelves attracted the attention of "Broadway Hank," who visited the store with a view of investigating the cause of the disturbance, and in referring to the display that met his gaze, he said, "It was a shame to take the money."
The owner of the terrier was required by the policeman on the beat to remove the dead rats from the streets, which was done in spite of the aversion that personage had to performing the task.
