Will Move St. Johns Postoffice.

While Mayor Valentine is having trouble with the municipal affairs of St. Johns in his official capacity as Post-master, he is having trouble in handling the mails. Now everybody likes the ling the mails. Now everybody likes the Postmaster, and they would like to see him succeed, but they do want to get their mail a little more promptly than they do under the new administration. Residents say they expected Postmaster Valentine to be slow at the start, and were willing to stand the delay, but they think the time has come when delays should cease. Business men say that important letters are delayed, and there is always a large crowd walting for the mail morning and evening be-cause the force does not hand out the mail fast enough. These waits exhaust the patience of the public. There are also delays at the money-order window. Mr. Valentine will move the postoffice to a larger room in a brick building that is being built on Jersey street. This will enable him to handle the mails
