WOOL MARKET QUIET

Small Lots Left in This State Not Pressed for Sale.

HOLDERS WANT ADVANCE

Trading in Oregon Wools in the East—Values Are Very Firm. Movement at Pendleton This Season.

WOOL—Small remaining lots taken from market.
WHEAT—Farmers offering more freely.
HOPS—Growers fear continuance of rain.
FRUIT—Normal prices not yet restored.
EGGS—Market higher and advancing.
POULTRY—Undertone of market easier.
BUTTER—Firm and scarce.

The Eastern Oregon wool market has been very quiet in the past week. Only a small quantity of wool remains unsold, but the holders of these lots are practically out of the market. Most of them are holding for higher prices than are at present offered, evidently being influenced in their views by the firmness lately manifested in the Eastern markets.

Advices from Boston indicate a fair degree of activity in No. 2 Eastern Oregon wools in the past week with the sales involving several hundred bales. The price was in the neighborhood of 25 cents. The scoured cost was estimated at 63 to 65 cents.

Some statistics of the wool movement at Pendleton this season are furnished by the East Oregonian, which says:

Of the 1906 crop of wool there have been already baled in Pendleton 5,000,000 pounds, or 133 carloads, estimating 75 bales of an average weight of 500 pounds, to the average car. Of the above amount the Judd & Root Company has baled 2,500,000 pounds and has at this time not less than 650,000 pounds on hand unbaled. The Furnish Company has also baled 2,500,000 pounds, but has none, or at least very little, on hand unbaled.

The aggregate for both establishments, of 5,000,000 pounds, has been shipped almost to the last bale, and practically all went to Boston and to Hartford, Conn.

The Judd & Root Company handled from 800,000 to 900,000 pounds from Wallowa County, the balance coming from Umatilla, Morrow and Gilliam Counties, for the most part. Of course the larger part of the balance of about 1,600,000 pounds was raised in Umatilla County.

One million pounds of the wool put through the Furnish baler was raised in Umatilla County, the balance in Baker and Wallowa Counties, and considerable from Asotin and adjacent counties in Washington. The latter is generally called "Lewiston" wool.

In addition to the above as the record for this uncompleted season, the Judd & Root Company has scoured 2,500,000 pounds.

The season lacks approximately a month of being at an end, but none of the managers would venture an estimate of the amount of wool that will yet be brought in.

Reviewing market conditions in Boston, the Commercial Bulletin says:

It is a firm market on the whole. Neither in the talk of leading merchants nor in the sales as reported is there any evidence of weakness. Strong efforts to break prices have been and still are being made, but so far without success. Wools suitable for worsted purposes are held with especial confidence, and holders refuse to consider seriously some of the bids that are being submitted. There are cited instances where bids within half a cent of asking prices have been turned down on good-sized lines. Bids a cent too low, according to the views of holders, are scorned.

CLUB WHEAT OFFERED MORE FREELY.

Premium of Four Cents Is Paid for Bluestem—Weekly Statistics.

With the decline in wheat prices, a fair amount of business has developed and were buyers more disposed to take hold a good deal of activity would follow. The dealers, however, want to know where they can place the wheat before they take on much. The spread between club and bluestem is widening and now amounts to 4 cents. This is due principally to the fact that very little bluestem is being sold, while club is being offered more freely.

The weekly wheat statistics of the Merchants' Exchange follow:

EGGS MOVING UPWARD.

Market Advances Another Cent and Promises to Go Still Higher.

Eggs advanced another cent yesterday afternoon and promise to go still higher. Receipts were moderate and the demand exceedingly strong.

There was not much change in the poultry market, but the undertone was inclined to be weak. Receipts continue to show some gain each day, but it is expected the established prices will be maintained for the remainder of the week.

The butter market is very firm and an all around advance is looked for. All the city creameries are at 27½ cents and most of them are short. On Front street a few brands are offered at 25 cents, but the general price is 27½ cents.

CHEAP FRUIT STILL ABUNDANT.

Peaches Are the Only Firm Article on the List.

The congestion in the fruit market is being relieved somewhat each day, but normal conditions have not yet been restored. Jobbers fear that should the weather become stormy for a few days conditions will be even worse than they have been. Another large lot of overripe Bartlett pears were on hand yesterday and as they had to be moved prices were no consideration. The best were let go at 25 cents and the poorest at 10 cents. Some scrubby cantaloupes were sold at 10 cents, but choice, marketable stock found sale at $1 to $1.25.

The peach market was firm. Receipts were fairly large, but there was a strong demand which will doubtless hold up until the end of the season. Quotations ranged from 75 cents to $1. Tomatoes continue to be a drug on the market and now bring only 12½ to 25 cents.

HOPGROWERS ALARMED.

Change in Weather Causes Apprehension. Market Dull.

The showers that began falling yesterday evening were welcomed by everyone except the hopmen. Much will depend on the weather in the next fortnight. A day or two of rain may not cause much trouble except to delay picking, but what the growers fear most is that if a good hard rain once starts, it may continue for too long a time.

A report was received from Aurora yesterday that lice had been found on the vines there, having bred during the cloudy weather. This report caused some apprehension that the pest might spread under the present conditions.

There was nothing done in the local market. A cable sent to London offering hops at 17 cents brought the response that lower prices must be quoted before offers would be considered.

YIELD SHOWS A SHORTAGE.

Hop Crop Is Coming Down Light in Clackamas County.

OREGON CITY, Sept. 5.—(Special.)—A. McConnell and William S. Flynn, of Wilsonville, report that the yield of hops in that section will fall 25 per cent short of an average crop. They say the disastrous effects of the long dry Summer are disclosed to a surprising degree as the picking of the crop proceeds. The yield is exceedingly light and this is attributed to the long period of hot weather, with absolutely no moisture, at a time when rain was essential to the proper growth and maturing of the vines.

An unusually large number of chattel mortgages, covering this year's hop crop, are being filed in the office of the County Recorder here. It is significant in this connection that rarely is a contract filed. This is taken to indicate that growers are largely abandoning the contracting business, and for harvesting money are resorting to this course as a means for raising the necessary funds. The mortgage usually bears 8 per cent interest and the bank or individual making the loan is protected from possible loss through dishonest practices on the part of the borrower in secretly disposing of the crop and pocketing the proceeds, by a provision in the instrument which stipulates that immediately following the harvesting of the crop the bales are to be delivered at a designated place. While the sale of the crop is optional with the grower as to time and price, still the sale cannot be closed without the knowledge of the man making the loan, who is in this way reasonably certain of getting his principal and interest without any inconvenience to himself or possibility of losing in the transaction.

CALL MONEY SOARS

Rate Advances to Forty Per Cent in New York.

SPECULATION IS CHECKED

Stocks Resist the Influence of the Money Stringency, Showing Confidence That Relief Will Be Promptly Forthcoming.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The continued stringency of the money market kept the speculation in stocks in check today, as is shown by the shrinkage in the total of shares sold during the day at the stock exchange. There was some depression in the market, but its moderate proportions, in view of the unpropitious circumstances, was accepted as negatively favorable.

First loans on call were made at 17 per cent and the rate ran up almost immediately to 24½ per cent, and in the afternoon to 40 per cent. Many of the banks asked 20 per cent as the renewal rate on standing call loans. The local banks were practically out of the money market in the sense of extending any new credits and the supply for fresh borrowers came almost entirely from out-of-town banks.

The resistance shown by stocks to the influence of the money stringency during the mid-session was due to the confidence that relief would be promptly forthcoming for the money market. This professed confidence was based mostly on conjecture. The favorite measure pointed to in the current surmise was action by the United States Treasury Department. The prevailing stringency in money was urged as justifying action by the authorities to release the idle surplus funds at the command of the Treasury. Hopes were expressed that the Secretary of the Treasury would resort again to the measure employed last April for facilitating gold imports when Government funds were advanced to National Banks which intended to make gold imports, thus saving interest charges during the period of transit, but the Secretary's order to that effect did not become publicly known until after the close of the market. Today $1,800,000 was transferred to San Francisco.

On the side of the foreign exchange market, the influences were mixed. Some of the engagements reported yesterday of gold shipments to New York were contradicted today. Time loans for 90 days advanced to 8 per cent and the six months' rate was 6½ to 7 per cent.

A strong rebound in American Smelting, on the appearance of the annual report, sympathetic strength in Amalgamated Copper and a fresh rise in Union Pacific were the sustaining features in the market and the late advances were fairly well sustained until the closing, in spite of a rate of 40 per cent for call money.

Bonds were irregular, total sales par value, $2,262,000. United States 2s advanced ¼ per cent on call.
