No Bad Feeling Over Senatorial Contest-Heyburn Indorses Effort to Run Down and Punish Steunenberg's Murderers.

BOISE, Idaho, Sept. 14.- (Special.)-BOISE, Idaho, Sept. 14.—(Special.)—
The Republican campaign was opened here this morning with a rousing meeting. The meeting was notable particularly for two speeches. One of these was by J. H. Brady, cnairman of the state committee, in favor of Mr.
Borah, the candidate for Senator, whom he has been charged with plottime to defent. The other was by ting to defeat. The other was by Senator Heyburn, who made a strong ples that the hands of the Governor and others be upheld in their efforts to bring those to justice whom there is reason to believe are guilty of the assassination of Governor Steunenberg. Chairman Brady introduced Edgar Wilson as chairman/of the meeting. In his remarks Mr. Brady referred to the published charge that he was conspiring to bring about the defeat of Mr. Borah in the Legislature and said: "It is useless for me to speak of this to those of you who know me, but let me say once for all, to all the world, that I am going to use every hit of the ability and energy I possess, from now until the polls close, to elect-W. E. Borah to the United States Senate. I consider him the choice of the party for this exalted position. Any Chairman Brady introduced Edgar party for this exalted position. Any Republican member of the Legislature who does not work for his election and vote for him is no friend of mine, and is not a true Republican."

Mr. Borah's address was short, devoted mainly to a refutation of the charge made by Senator Dubois that Mr. Borah got his nomination through a deal with the Mormons. Senator Heyburn was the principal speaker. His address was mainly on National issues, but he went into state matters at some length Touching upon the Caldwell murder case, he said the people had faith in the ability and desire of their officials to run down and punish those who violated the law. Taking up the charge that the federation officers arrested had been denied some rights, the Senator challenged anybody to show in what respect their rights had been violated. There was no ground, he said, upon which to charge that the officials had violated the law, or that the accused men would not be dealt with in abso-lute fairness.

DEAD OF THE NORTHWEST

Miss Emma Hedges.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 14.—Miss Emma Hedges died in Seattle September 11, at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. B. Chap-man, of tuberculosis. Miss Hedges was man, of tuberculosis. Miss Hedges was a member of one of Oregon's earliest and most respected pieneer families. Her father, Absalom F. Hedges, crossed the plains in 1844, and settled near Oregon City. Dr. John McLoughlin, Governor George Abernethy, General Morton M. McCarver, Amos Lawrence, Lovejoy, William Holmes, Simpson S. White, Berryman Jennings and others were his second Jennings and others were his neighbors. He was a farmer, but, in addition engaged in various other lines of business, as was the common custom among the first settlers of Oregon. He married Miss Jane Barlow, who came to the country in 1845, with the well-known Barlow famof which she was a member. They had a large number of children, Emma Hedges, born in 1880, being one of them. Except for a short time in Wyoming, Miss Hedges' life was spent in Oregon and Washington. At Oregon City the was a school teacher for several years. Miss Hedges was buried in Oregon City.

IMPROVE MOUTH FIRST

attention.
Colonel Roessler is not partial to the work at the mouth of the Columbia other than that he believes that, like when erecting a building, there should first be a foundation. He believes that the ob-taining of greater depth at the mouth is the most apparent and feasible foundation for the great work of improvement of the Columbia River, and that after it is completed the other composite parts to form the whole should be put in

For many reasons it is desirable to complete the south jetty, where all the plant is now collected, before beginning the north jetty, and it is my earnest hope that Congress will provide the entire $2,500,000 at the coming session, either by appropriating the full sum required or by authorizing a continuous contract.

"The importance of providing the entire aum at one time cannot be overestimated. The stone must be conveyed to a jetty over a pile trestle, and this trestle is exposed not only to the fearful-breakers of that locality, but to the teredo, whose ravinges will make uncreosoted piles as brittle as pipestems within a period of Il months. The only possible way to do this work with reasonable promise of success at moderate cost is to wait until the entire sum has been made available and then rush it to a finish as rapidly as possible. To attempt to construct the outer 6500 feet at different times under two separate appropriations would result in a great waste of time and a great waste of money in renewing and maintaining severaj miles of costly pile tresties."

Colonel Roessler also declared that the most pressing item to be provided by the next Congress is an appropriation of $200,000 for a new dredge to replace the dredge Wm. S. Ladd, now relied upon ex-

Ransdell Arouses Enthusiasm.

Thursday night, when Congressman Ransdell arrived in Portland, he stated in an interview that he was in the North-west to do what he could to arouse enwest to do what he could to arouse en-thusiasm over the importance of river and harbor improvements. His trip has been fruitful of results judging from the enthusiasm he aroused at the meeting last night. He opened the eyes of those who heard him deliver his spiendid speech and before he had concluded nearly every person there was as much of an enthusiast on the subject as the Congressman is himself. He declared that the greatest problem now confronting the civilized nations of the world was that of transportation and win out in the race for commercial su-premacy. The improvement of the waterways, in his opinion, is the secret of it all. He said that railway transportation is six times more expensive than by water. He is for fighting for an annual appropriation by Congress of $50,000,000 for river and harbor improvement and urged upon the people of the Northwest to band together with the people of other parts of the country in bringing this about. He declared that Oregon was getting its share of the appropriations, but that it would not receive all that is needed until sufficient pressure can be brought upon Congress to make it recognize the importance of the demands of

FINE HORSES ON PARADE

MONOPOLIZE INTEREST AT THE SALEM LIVESTOCK SHOW.

Large Crowd Assembles on Fair Ground to Look Over Equines of Blue Blood.

SALEM, Sept. 14.—(Special.)—A live-stock parade, of which horses made up by far the greater part, was the chief feature of the State Fair today. And the horse show was well worthy of the interest it received from the large crowd that assembled on the grounds to in-spect the animals as they were led in procession around the circle and down through the judge's pavilion where the spectators' stands on either side was packed to its full capacity.

For the first time in many years, the ponderous bulls and matronly cows attracted little attention. The stamping draft stallions, with manes and tails gaily decked with ribbons, the nervous, impatient trotting stallions, and prancing colts led beside their anxious mothers, all came in for the first place in public notice. Expressions of admiration for the German and French Coach horses, show that farmers are looking for a combination of roadster and work horse.

At the same time, the general interest in the Clydes, Percherons and Belgians in the Clydes, Percherons and Belgians evidences a wide recognition of the large demand and comparatively small supply of the heavy horses needed for the truck and dray work of the cities. If the market for heavy horses should remain as strong as it is now, the horse show will continue to be the principal feature of the fair.

ADVOCATES BIG PROFITS

PRESIDENT OF MASTER PLUM-BERS GIVES ADVICE.

Tells Delegates of State Association at Tacoma They Should Make Thirty Per Cent.

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 14 .- (Special.) --The Annual Convention of the State Asociation of Master Plumbers opened today, the gathering being called to order by State President H. Sweeney. About 50 delegates were in attendance. President Sweeney congratulated the association on its rehabilitation, and expressed the hope that it would increase in strength and nower. He urged that the convention pass resolutions pledging its members not to accept work on which less than a 25 or 30 per cent profit could be made. In regard to the conflict with the journeymen's state organization, Mr. Sweeney regretted that the journeymen were endeavoring to control the labor market, and raise the prices of work and wages. He advised that some action be taken by his organization tending to reach an agreement whereby the interests of both parties would be satisfied. The president also recommended that certain fixed rules in regard to the acceptance of apprentices be agreed upon, his suggestion being that one apprentice be admitted to each shop for every four
