

BLOW OVER HEART
KILLS pugilist

Jack McKenzie Dies Ten Minutes After Terry Martin Strikes Him.

FIGHTS WHILE HE IS DYING

Persuaded to Fill Place of Absentee, He Goes Into Ring in Poor Condition and Fifth Round Ends Life.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 24.—A boxing match at the Portland Auditorium tonight between Terry Martin and Jack McKenzie, of Philadelphia, came to a sudden termination in the fifth round with the collapse of McKenzie and his death ten minutes later.

Just before the close of the round Martin delivered a hard blow over McKenzie's heart. McKenzie staggered back, but immediately recovered and returned two blows before the gong rang. He went to his corner and, while his seconds were administering restoratives, he suddenly became unconscious and died just after being carried to the dressing-room.

Martin and his brother, who acted as his second, Steve Mahoney, of Boston, McKenzie's manager, Jack Sheehan, of Boston, the referee, and John Caudley, the manager of the contest, went to the police station immediately after McKenzie's death and remained there to await the action of County Attorney Eaton.

Martin is one of the best-known welter-weight fighters in the country and has been quite successful in his bouts. The contest was before the Casco Athletic Club of this city.

Martin was scheduled to fight Herman Miller, of Baltimore, but the latter did not appear, and the management induced McKenzie to go into the ring in his place. McKenzie was in poor physical condition when he came into the ring, but seemed able to stand up under the heavy blows of his opponent until the fifth round, when the fatal blow was struck.

SOUNDLY SPRINTS IN FIFTY

Equals Spokane Track Record on Opening Day of the Fair.

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 24.—(Special.)—Ridden by Little Kirschbaum, the track record here was equaled by Soundly on the opening day of the races here, when he swept around in 59 1/2 seconds. The day was windy and dusty. The play in the betting ring was light, as the horses did not get away until 4 o'clock. The harness events failed to attract much notice. It was a bad day for the favorites, only one getting under the wire first. Miss Provo and Golden Buck were disappointing in their performances. The results: 230 class, trotting—Geeble won, Mayo second, Black Diamond third, best time, 2:23. One-half mile, ranchers' best race—Tom and Rose won, Rocky second, Daisy F. second, Moxie and Dandy third, best time, 1:30. Six furlongs—Beautiful and Best won, Golden Buck second, Glendening third, time, 1:54. Four furlongs—Soundly won, Miss Provo second, Peter J. third, time, 6:30. One mile—Charlie Green and Golden Light second, Major Tomps third, time, 1:46.

KILLS FIVE PASSENGERS

Switch Engine in Train's Way Causes Bad Wreck.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 24.—Five persons are dead and 15 or more are injured as the result of a collision between a passenger train and a switch engine in the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad yards at New Prague, Minn., today. The train was en route to St. Paul. D. Demarais, Minneapolis, traveling salesman. F. E. Brown, St. Paul, salesman. George E. Klinkertus, St. Paul, salesman. Frank Wratbeck, New Prague. Arthur Kilmayor, Albert Lea, freeman of freight engine.

LUMBER TRUST ALARMED

Federal Investigation Expected to Result in Reduction of Prices.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 24.—(Special.)—The Federal grand jury will commence its investigation of the lumber trust operating in the United States District Attorney Devlin has completed his investigation of the great combine and its methods, and he is satisfied that a trust exists. The Attorney General in the possession of the Government prosecutor will be turned over to the grand jury Tuesday, its next meeting. The lumber trust is a combination of witnesses when commence in earnest. There are many witnesses to be examined in the case, and these will be subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury. The course of the investigation.

ANOTHER WRECK ON ISTHMUS

Life Lost, Three Injured, Equipment Smashed Through Disobedience.

COLON, Sept. 24.—Another serious head-on collision between a Panama freight and a Colon passenger train occurred yesterday with a fatal result. Friday's smashup at Mamel, Panama, in the loss of one life and three persons being seriously injured, and the wreck of two new passenger cars, and several freight cars. The result is said to have been with the freight train, which was trying to reach Mamel instead of giving the right of way to the passenger. This is the third wreck during the past week.

WARSHIPS TO AVERT WAR

Dewey's Argument for Enlargement of American Navy.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Admiral George Dewey has returned to Washington from Richfield Springs, N. Y., where he was with Mrs. Dewey for the summer, and resumed his work at the Navy Department. Because of the great activity of the American Navy in Cuban waters the naval officials at the Department are especially busy, and Admiral Dewey took up the work today with great interest. Not being familiar with the conditions which now prevail in Havana, Admiral Dewey was unwilling to express any opinion as to what action this country should take, but pointed out that the present emergency proves the need for more ships and said that, when the rest of the world is busy constructing warships, the United States should devote itself to naval construction and not permit other nations to outstrip it in naval equipment.

ARREST AWAIT CAPTAINS

Whalers Charged With Not Providing Crews With Lime Juice.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—Secretary Mead, of the Department of Commerce and Labor, has ordered Customs "Collected" at Juneau, Port Townsend and San Francisco to arrest upon their arrival the masters of the whaling steamers Bowler, Kaskas, Natchez, and Alexander and Bonanza, vessels which were ice-bound all winter at Point Barrow. The masters will be charged with having neglected to provide the crews with lime juice and other anti-scorbutics and medicines prescribed by law for the health of their crews.

LOW RATES TO NEW ORLEANS

Account National Convention Knights of Pythias to be held at New Orleans in October, the O. R. & N. Co. will on October 1 and set rates for tickets from Portland at rate of $21.50. For further information in regard to limits, stopovers, etc., apply to the address of the Stinger, City Ticket Agent, O. R. & N. Co., Portland.

STENSLAND WILL BETRAY OTHERS

Value of Imports and Exports Abroad and to Islands.

TRADE IN FARM PRODUCTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The Department of Agriculture in a report issued today on the trade with non-contiguous possessions in farm and forest products, says that the value of exports of farm products to foreign countries, including the Philippine Islands, in 1905 was $328,394,777, or, with the Philippine trade eliminated, $290,000,000.

The shipments of farm products from the United States to the non-contiguous possessions, including exports to the Philippine Islands, were valued at $100,000,000, or 1.8 per cent of the value just given for domestic exports to foreign countries, including the Philippine Islands. The value of shipments to the non-contiguous possessions was $90,000,000 more than the total value of the domestic exports of farm products to South America and Africa combined, and $40,000,000 more than the shipments to Spain for the same year.

Leaving out the Philippine trade, the total value of the imports of farm products from foreign countries was $41,247,000, while the value of the shipments of farm products to the United States from its non-contiguous possessions, including the Philippine Islands, was 11.4 per cent of this total value.

In every instance, except where specifically stated otherwise, United States includes the country proper, together with Porto Rico, Hawaii, Alaska, Guam, Tutuila and Midway Islands, but not the Philippines.

UNIFORM BADGE OF HONOR

ROOSEVELT GIVES CASH TO DEFEND SAILORS' RIGHTS.

ROOSEVELT BAY, Sept. 24.—President Roosevelt has contributed $100 to be used by Rear-Admiral Thomas in a legal suit instituted recently at Newport, R. I., to determine whether or not a man may be excluded from a public place of entertainment because he wears the uniform of the United States Army or Navy. The President today made public the following letter, which he has sent to Rear-Admiral Thomas:

Oyster Bay, Sept. 24, 1906.—Dear Admiral Thomas: I enclose $100 to be used in that suit which, thanks to you, has been so wisely undertaken to test the legality of excluding any man from any public place of entertainment because he wears the uniform of the United States Army or Navy. I feel that it is the duty of every citizen to endeavor in every shape and way to make it plain that he regards the uniform of the United States Army and Navy as a badge of honor, and therefore, entitling the wearer, so long as he wears it decently, to respectful treatment.

There is no finer body of men in all our country than the enlisted men of the Army and Navy of the United States. I cannot sufficiently express my indignation and contempt for any man who treats their uniform with disrespect to which it is entitled. If a man behaves himself, then no matter what uniform he wears, he should be dealt with accordingly; but if a man wears the United States uniform should be accepted as presumptive evidence that the man thus discriminating is all wrong.

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT," Rear-Admiral Thomas is reported to be paying half the expenses of a suit for $500 brought by Chief Yeoman F. J. Bunelle against the Newport Amusement Company, of Newport, on the ground that he was excluded from the beach while in uniform. Bunelle is on duty at the naval-training station at Newport. The suit will not be tried until October 2 or later.

WORKS FOR FULL CONFESSION

At the conclusion of an important conference between Mr. Olsen and Stensland at police headquarters tonight, Olsen sent a telegram to State's Attorney Healey, of Chicago, making two suggestions. The first was that the State's Attorney mail to Cleveland or Toledo the forged notes, aggregating $60,000, in which forgeries Stensland and Cashier Hering are alleged to have been involved. The second suggestion was that the State's Attorney send a telegram to State's Attorney Healey, of Chicago, making two suggestions. The first was that the State's Attorney mail to Cleveland or Toledo the forged notes, aggregating $60,000, in which forgeries Stensland and Cashier Hering are alleged to have been involved. The second suggestion was that the State's Attorney send a telegram to State's Attorney Healey, of Chicago, making two suggestions.

BANK CLERKS KNOW MUCH

In reference to the suggested examination of the bank clerks, he said his talks with Stensland had convinced him that the clerks, or certain of them, knew more concerning what led to the wrecking of the bank than they had already told.

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

CAREER OF PAUL STENSLAND

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—(Special.)—Paul O. Stensland, president of the Milwaukee Avenue Bank, who was brought here today from Tangier, where he was arrested on September 3, is without a doubt the king of the bank-wreckers in the United States. His defalcations and misappropriation of funds amount to more than $2,000,000. He must answer to more than a dozen charges of forgery, embezzlement, larceny and receiving deposits when he knew that the bank was insolvent.

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

STENSLAND'S FLIGHT AND CAPTURE

A detailed movement of Stensland's wanderings is as follows: July 12—Left Chicago and went direct to New York City. July 14—Sailed on White Star liner for Liverpool. July 20—Arrived in Liverpool and prepared for further flight. July 22—Left Liverpool on P. & O. boat for Gibraltar. July 25—Reached Gibraltar and immediately took the steamer for Tangier. July 27—Arrived at Tangier on boat Olive; entered the city gates and, avoiding prominent hotels, went to Grand Hotel Oriental, a second-rate place, registered as P. Olsen, Norway. July 29—Staid in room all day; complained of cold on the lungs and asked for cablegram. July 30—Aroused suspicion by exhibiting contents of sealed envelope containing $12,000 in American bills, English and French notes. July 31—Measured by acceptance of deposit, became careless and began looting the city, and was kept under a close watch on him, thinking him a criminal. August 2—Became confidential with hotel proprietor and told him he intended to build a villa; received a cablegram. August 4—Appeared on streets in blue suit and patent leather shoes and began rounds of the cafes. August 6—Visited Cafe Imperial and Cafe Turquesa, his favorite haunts. This was the day the bank was closed. August 7—Formed the acquaintance of Mme. Yette, his favorite chanteuse. August 8—Met, favorita Vittoria, a Spanish dancer, the Cafe Imperial. August 9—Met University of Cambridge professor and planned a trip to Southern Spain with him. August 14—Left for Gibraltar, in company with the English professor. August 15—Messages for Stensland reached Tangier; supposed to have been from Chicago and to have related to closing of bank. August 16—Reached Hona, where he witnessed a bull fight. August 18—September 2—Traveled in Spain, visiting all the large cities. September 2—Reached Gibraltar on return trip, in the time of the earthquake. September 3—Captured at the British postoffice in Tangier. September 12—Sailed from Tangier with captors for New York. September 24—Arrives at New York and starts for Chicago.

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

STENSLAND'S FLIGHT AND CAPTURE

A detailed movement of Stensland's wanderings is as follows: July 12—Left Chicago and went direct to New York City. July 14—Sailed on White Star liner for Liverpool. July 20—Arrived in Liverpool and prepared for further flight. July 22—Left Liverpool on P. & O. boat for Gibraltar. July 25—Reached Gibraltar and immediately took the steamer for Tangier. July 27—Arrived at Tangier on boat Olive; entered the city gates and, avoiding prominent hotels, went to Grand Hotel Oriental, a second-rate place, registered as P. Olsen, Norway. July 29—Staid in room all day; complained of cold on the lungs and asked for cablegram. July 30—Aroused suspicion by exhibiting contents of sealed envelope containing $12,000 in American bills, English and French notes. July 31—Measured by acceptance of deposit, became careless and began looting the city, and was kept under a close watch on him, thinking him a criminal. August 2—Became confidential with hotel proprietor and told him he intended to build a villa; received a cablegram. August 4—Appeared on streets in blue suit and patent leather shoes and began rounds of the cafes. August 6—Visited Cafe Imperial and Cafe Turquesa, his favorite haunts. This was the day the bank was closed. August 7—Formed the acquaintance of Mme. Yette, his favorite chanteuse. August 8—Met, favorita Vittoria, a Spanish dancer, the Cafe Imperial. August 9—Met University of Cambridge professor and planned a trip to Southern Spain with him. August 14—Left for Gibraltar, in company with the English professor. August 15—Messages for Stensland reached Tangier; supposed to have been from Chicago and to have related to closing of bank. August 16—Reached Hona, where he witnessed a bull fight. August 18—September 2—Traveled in Spain, visiting all the large cities. September 2—Reached Gibraltar on return trip, in the time of the earthquake. September 3—Captured at the British postoffice in Tangier. September 12—Sailed from Tangier with captors for New York. September 24—Arrives at New York and starts for Chicago.

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."

Slave of Cashier Hering

Stensland also implicated the cashier, Hering, in the theft of money. Hering gave himself up here several days after the bank closed and has been in jail. Stensland declared the cashier was reckless. "He openly took what money he needed and did as he pleased," said Stensland. When asked why he did not bring Hering in, Stensland replied that he could not do that as Hering had him in his power. "He knew I was becoming more and more involved," said Stensland, "and I knew I had to get along without notes and as the price of my silence he kept a lot of stock forgeries on hand to be used as the occasion required. I was his slave and could not get along without him. If he had not done that and honest I would not be here."