HENDERSON NEXT ON LIST

Lanky Twirler to Follow Mike Mitchell and Sweeney Will Probably Play Somewhere in East Next Season,

Lady fans, shed your tears, for unless the non-communicative Manager McCredle has an ace up his sleeve, you have seen the last of that sterling young pitcher Benny Henderson. Mike Mitchell goes to Cincinnati, just as The Oregonian printed on Sunday that he would. Manager Mac hasn't confirmed the deal, but then Manager Mac is not doing the confirming act much these days, for while the members of his team are being grabbed by those pot hunters from the major leagues, Manager Mac is doing a lot of silent grabbing himself. Just wait until the drifting list of class B. C. D. and the rest of the minor leagues are published. Then you will find where the fine Italian hand of the local manager has been busy. You can't hear the noise, but Manager Mac has had the Unk busy writing letters that have young pitcher Benny Henderson, Mike the Unk busy writing letters that have put the Pacific Coast League hobbles on more than one promising young player, who, on his upward journey in baseball, will be passing the veterans as they come down.

Manager McCredie, before he left last night with his pennant grabbers for his six weeks' race for the bunting, did six weeks' race for the bunting, did not confirm the Henderson rumor. Judge W. W. McCredle stated that he understood that several clubs had made inquiry about Henderson, but that no overtures had been made for his purchase. The rumor that was afloat around the dope factory where the baseball fan delights to linger had it that Conny Mack, of Philadelphia, had made a bid for Portland's handsome dark-haired twirler.

Many Have Eyes on Henderson.

Danny Long, who does the scouting for the Cincinnati Reds and who gath-ered up Bill Essick, Larry McLean and Mike Mitchell, is very sweet on Hen-derson. Undoubtedly Long placed Henderson on his eligible list and will try to draft him. Danny will have to get busy, for the recruiting agent of the Washington Senstors eent word back to the city where life is more of a hope than a realization to keep an eagle eye on Henderson. To the Washington recruiter Henderson looked good, so good in fact that inquiry was made of the local management about Benny.

It is not to be wondered at that the recruiting agents of the major leagues have been attracted by Benny Hen-derson. Manager McCredle bought him from Oklahoms and he had to pay a handsome price for him. Just what the price was is not known; but no matter what it was, Henderson proved himself cheap at the price, for he has been the team's mainstay, not only in the pitcher's box, but in other depart-ments as well. So far Henderson has won 25 games and lost six, and at least four out of the six lost he should won with the proper support be hind him. He is a sturdy, strong young fellow, with nerves of steel. There is no give up to him when things break bad. Put him in a hole and he becomes an locherg, and it is under this pressure, the kind that makes youngsters blow up, that Henderson shows his quality. Three men on bases and no one out doesn't feare him. To and no one out doesn't feaze him. To puts on more steam, uses his noodle, and if his curves are breaking for him, it's pure luck if more than one run is scored off him.

Great All-Around Player.

Henderson is a better pitcher and better all-round ball player than Essick. He is a good outfielder right now, and can in a pinch play any part of the infield. Portland fans have seen him in action around the keystone sack and know that he is almost as much at home in that position as in the box. Henderson has it over Essick in that he knows how, and can field his position. It doesn't take the oppos-ing team long to learn that they can-and Benny are not acquainted.

With Essiek, McLean, Mitchell and Henderson gone from Portland's 1936 team, and almost a cinch that B. Sweeney will be the next to answer the call to fast company, many new faces will appear on Portland's lineup next season. Gum, Califf and Moore will be all that remains of the pitching staff. In these three youngsters Mc-Credle has a splendid foundation. Of the three Charley Moore has had tough luck. He was signed to pitch, but when Tim Flood took the hurdles this youngster was called to take second, and for a lad and his first year in fast company, he did surprisingly well. Just when Moore was about to get a thorough tryout as a pitcher he had the misfortune to break a finger. This is not the worst of it. Belleving that the finger had healed, McCredie sent the linger had healed, McCredie sent him in to pitch the other day, and after he had played a couple of in-nings the old wound was broken open. Now he is suffering with what is feared will develop into blood poison-ing. Manager McCredie has great faith ing. Manager accredie has great tath in Moore, and has repeatedly stated that just as soon as Moore gets control of his underhand batt he will become a great pitcher. Moore has a world an assentment of speed and as good an assortment of curves as any pitcher in the busi-

Right now but few slabsters in the business have anything on Gum or Califf. Another season will see the end of Gum, and Califf. too, for that matter, in minor league ball. Califf is as strong as an ox and still growing. This season he was nothing more than a growing lad and was naturally a little loggy. A Winter's rest and proper care of himself ought to make him next season one of the best pitchers in the Coast League. Gum is about as good as they make them right now He is another fellow who not only pitches ball with his arms, but he uses his head. He can mix them up better right now than half of the veterans who are drawing down salaries. Seekright now than hair of the veetralise who are drawing down salaries. Seekers for material will pass over Gumbecause he looks frail. He is not the kind that fill out much, but when he does, just watch him, that's all.

MAHAFFEY GETS A CONTRACT

Umpire Patches Up All Differences

Portland yesterday morning, hung his name on the register at the Portland Hotel, met and fixed up matters with Umpire Mahaffey, then disappeared President Bert had a talk with Mahaffey, and in a couple of winks all of the tangles caused by a cross-fire of correspondence were straightened out. Mahaffey soon had a contract which will send him through the rest of the season; also a return ticket to Seattle. Now Hodson and a few more of those bad "umps" that the league had down California way can take to the bushes California way can take to the bushes Mahaffey left last night with the Portland feam. In the morning Seattle and San Francisco passed through and Portland will begin the final chase for the pennant against the Seals on Wednesday.

"SPEC" HURLBURT, LOTHARIO

Ex-Portland Ball Player Elopes

With Topeka Society Girl. "Spec" Hurlburt, who once disgraced a Portland baseball uniform, has eloped with a Topeka society girl and the State of Kausas is in a turmoil. Society dames in Topeka must be of the simple-minded cult, at least the one who showed her willingness to take chances with a man of Huriburt's characteristics. The young woman who is said to have eloped with the ballplayer is named Hazel Mulvane and her parents are wealthy. She met Spec while he was playing ball, and it was a case of love at first sight. Hurl-burt must have played better ball in To-peka than he did in Portland, to have peka than he did in Portiano, to attracted the attention of any one.

Another reason why the elopement has shocked Topeka is the fact that Hurlburt owner in an unlicensed saloon. is half owner in an unlicensed salcon. The fact that this rowdy baliplayer has a wife and a child is only a secondary consideration in the scandal in Topeka's social set. No cards of condolence should be sent to the bride. Repentance will be here before many days. hers before many days.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24 .- (Speial.)—James J. Jeffries, as brown as a Malay, dropped into town today from Oregon, where he has been on a hunting trip. Everyone had out a glad hand for Jeff, for the San Francisco sports are suffering from a prolonged drouth of things pugilistic. Jeff had genuine surprise in store for his friends. He announced that he would re-enter the ring, and would take on the first man who offered himself.

"I've decided to take another try at said Jeff. "Ill take on anyone who offers. It's true I said that I had retired, but I've come back. It isn't a case of looking for the money, but simply the desire to get in the game again. I'm stronger today than I ever
