Chamber of Commerce Outlines Policy for Deepening of the Columbia.

EXTEND PORT OF PORTLAND

Tax Enlarged District and Also Fight for Increase of Annual Rivers and Harbors Appropriation to $50,000,000.

RECOMMENDATIONS OF CHAMBER mmendations of the Chumber of Commerce as regards the work at the jetty and the improvement of the Columbia River adopted at the spe-

That the Port of Portland be inwhich money would be raised for the deepening of the mouth of the river by taxation or the basuance of bonds planned, is to include the lower river. That the Oregon Legislature make

That every possible effort be made to have the work at the mouth of the river piaced on a continuous contract

That a call be made upon the members of Congress from Oregon to support the movement to have an annual National appropriation of $56,000,000 for rivers and harbors.

That Portland itself must come to the aid of the Government in the deep ening of the Columbia River is the determination of the members of the cial meeting held yesterday afternoon recommended that by the inclusion of the Port of Portland in a larger district the Port of Portland in a larger district a fund be raised to be expended in work of improvement at the mouth of the river. The Chamber officially suggests the extension of the taxing district of the Port of Portland, and it is planned to extend the district to the mouth of the Columbia River, and in such other directions as may be deemed advisable. The navigation and transportation committees of the Chamber are jointly entrusted with the carrying out of the work outlined in the resolutions passed by the body.

"God helps him who helps himself."

This proverb fully expresses the tenor of the meeting held yesterday afternoon. About 100, or even more, of the leading citizens of Portland were there. to hear the unwelcome news that Port-land and the Northwest cannot depend upon the Government to complete the work of improvements now under way and that if the prejects are to be com-pleted within a reasonable period large amounts of money must necessarily be secured from other sources than the National Treasury.

Unite on Pooling.

Those present fully realized the seri-usness of the emergency which has arisen, and enthusiastically supported the resolution which recommended that money be raised for the despening of e Columbia River by taxation or the issuance of bonds, after the new dis-trict has been created. There was not one dissenting or inharmonious factor one dissenting or inharmonious factor in the whole meeting, which was an expression of the one purpose of the business men of Portland to expedite the work at the mouth of the river, even if they have to fall back upon their own resources to do so. If a new district is made to include the Port of Portland, the people of Portland will have to stand the heavy end of the expense, and the citizens of the lower river will have to meet their share in proportion to their wealth compared to that of this city.

The Oregon Legislature, which meets in The Oregon Legislature, which meets in annuary, will be called upon so make an appropriation of a sufficient amount to extend the portage railroad from Big Eddy to The Dulles. The Chamber made the request that the Senators and Representatives from Multnomah County support the measure which will be introduced at the next session. About $50,000 is required to make the extension of the portage road.

The members of Congress from Oregon are called upon to give their unqualified support to the movement to increase the annual rivers and harbors appropriation from $19,549,000 to $50,000,000. The resolu-tions recommended that the sum of $1000 he raised to be forwarded to the Rivers and Harbors Congress, which amount was subscribed in less than ten minutes after the meeting adjourned.

Resolutions Are Introduced.

Edward Newbegin, vice-president of the Edward Newbegin, vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, called the meeting to order at 3:30 o'clock, A. H. Devers introduced the set of resolutions, which were read by Secretary Giltner. The first speaker was J. N. Teal, who was followed by Robert Taylor, Herman Wittenberg, M. C. Moore, the Walfa Walfa banker, and J. W. Bennett, of Cook Bay.

After the addresses the resolutions were adopted by an unanimous vote. All of the speakers were enthusiastically applauded, and every one of those present evinced the deepest and most carnest interest in the proceedings. By far the terest in the proceedings. By far the greatest enthusiasm was manifested when the speakers referred to the necessity of Portland helping herself and not depend-

Portland helping herself and not depending entirely upon National aid.

"We have been brought face to face with a situation which we can neither avoid nor dodge," declared Mr. Teal.

"Under the present basis of appropriations made by the Government, there is not a child in Portland who will live long chough to see the mouth of the river improved as it should be improved.

It is a fact that the wastage over vect. It is a fact that the wastage every year caused by the elements is barely taken care of as conditions now stand.

The people of Portland and the Northwest apparently have no idea of the cost of deepening the mouth of the river. That they have been unintentionally de-ceived there can be but little doubt. Last ceived there can be but little doubt. Last year, at the meeting of the Trans-Missis-sippi Congress held in Fortland, among the resolutions passed was one which stated that the work of improvement could be completed by an expenditure of 1950,000. The recent report of Lieutenant-Colonel Roessler, of the United States Engineers, states that the jetty alone cannot be completed with less than $2,500,-500, and provided that it is available immediately. I want to say right here that mediately. I want to say right here that t will cost no less than $5,000,000 to deepen the mouth of the river. "The work can be done, but there are two things vitally essential. One is the general increase of the National appropriations to $50,000,000 annually, and the other is that we help ourselves. The Port of Portland may have to aid in the work at the bar, even if it is necessary to extend its district to raise money by taxation. No money equid be put out by work at the bar, even if it is necessary to extend its district to raise money by the very first dose. This is what is said taxation. No money could be put out by hy all who try Carter's Little Liver Pills.

the people of Portland of greater benefit to themselves than through the expendito themselves than through the expendi-tures of the Port of Portland.

Improve Entire River. "My opinion is that a policy to center all

My opinion is that a policy to center an of the Congressional appropriation for the Columbia River district to the mouth of the river would do more harm than good. Portland from a seitish consideration cannot afford to isolate herself from the other sections of the Northwest by adopting such a policy as we need to other sections of the Northwest by adopting such a policy, as we need to stand together in securing National aid."
Mr. Taylor expressed the conviction that the annual appropriation of $50,000,000 for rivers and harbors would never become a reality until Congressman Burton should cease to be chalrman of the Rivers and Harbors Committee of the House. He described him as the watchdog of the Trensury, and said he was in the rivers and harbors business for political ends. He declared that a sentiment must be aroused among the people of the United States to become powerful enough to force Congress to increase the appropriation bill. In this connection Mr. Teal priation bill. In this connection Mr. Teal stated that Congressmen Burton and Jones favor increased appropriations for rivers and harbors improvements.

"I want to line up with Mr. Teal," declared Mr. Wittenberg, who delivered what was perhaps the most enthusiastic talk of all. "If we are going to wait sintil the Government improves the river, you and I and our children will have passed away before it is done. The money could well be expended by the City of Portland for the deepening of the bar, and at the end of that period we would have more money than we we would have more money than we have now.

"Let us do it ourselves," he fairly shouted. "Let us get down to brass tacks and quit waiting for someone to help us. Let us get the different communities together and do something. The three states of Oregon, Washington and Idaho should be taxed to improve the above the beautiful the mouth and alone it. river, both at its mouth and along its course. The curse of Portland has always been inactivity and the lack of agconversely but now as never before is time for us to do things."
We cannot let the people of Port-

"We cannot let the people of Port-land think that we of Eastern Washing-ton take less interest in the improve-ment of the Columbia River than you do," declared Mr. Moore, of Walia Walla. "It must be admitted that we are more vitally interested in the opening up of the upper river than taking the cork from the bottle, as the bar is sometimes described. We have not done our share, but our people are awakening to the realiza-tion that if we had an open river that tion that if we had an open river that would have lower transportation

Coos Bay Is Interested.

"We are just as much interested in the deepening of the mouth of the river as are the people of Portland," stated Mr. Benuett, of Coos Bay. This hearty expression from the Coos Bay man made pression from the Cook Bay man made the members feel good, and he was hon-ored with a heavy round of applause. "When I say that the people of Cook Bay are more interested in the improve-ment of the Columbia River than they ever were before, I am repeating the sen timent of every person in my section of

When the meeting concluded, Mr. New-When the meeting concluded, Mr. Newbegin reminded the members that it was an old-fashioned way of the Methodists to come right up with their offerings at the conclusion of their meetings, referring to the $1000 to be raised by the Chamber to be sent to the Rivers and Harbors Congress. The members made a rush for the subscription list which Mr. Giltner had in waiting, and in less time than it takes to tell it the amount had been subscribed.

The policy outlined by the Chamber of Commerce, which will be followed by the Commerce, which will be followed by the transportation and navigation committees of the body, will be to work for large appropriations from Congress, but not to insist that they be centered upon the work at the mouth of the river. It is believed that the only way in which to obtain the granting of a continuing contract for the mouth of the river is by inducing Congress to adopt the $20,-000,000 bill.

Until this can be done it is hoped that the Port of Portland, or rather the new district, will furnish financial assistance so that the jetty can be rushed to completion. Just how much the new district will be requested to furnish will depend upon the appropriations of the next Con-gress. The two committees of the Chamber will have charge of the movement best methods of attempting to follow out the recommendations of the Chamber. The following resolutions were passed:

The Resolutions.

First-That, while appreciating the great of the locks and canal at Cellio, the freelug of the upper Columbia River from obstruc-tions, the acquiring by the United States of the locks and canal at Oregon City, the im-provement of Coos Bay and all other harbors and waterways in this state and the Norm-west.

Second—That in our judgment it would be neither wise nor proper for the people of this city, or any other portion of the state, to attempt to adopt a policy having for its purpose the concentration of all appropriations made by the General Government for this made by the General Government for this section on the improvement at the mouth of the river, and to permit all other projects to remain in abeyance pending its completion; that each project should stand on its own merits and the improvements of the Columbia River go hand in hand, to the end that this great river and its tributaries should be freed from all obstacles to navigation from its mouth to its furthermost navigable point. Third—That, while the National Government has assumed the improvement and control of

Third—That, while the National Government has assumed the improvement and control of the rivers, harbors and waterways of the country, the exigencies of the case demand affirmative action on our part.

Therefore be it further resolved:

First—That we recommend to the trustees of this Chamber that this Chamber contribute the sum of $1000, to be raised by subscription as far as possible, toward the work of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, and that this sum be forwarded through the proper channels to the secretary of said con-gress within ten days.

$50,000,000 Annually Needed.

Second.—That we call upon our Senators and Representatives in Congress to endeavor by every means in their power to have annual appropriations of not less than $50,000,000 for every means in their power to have annual appropriations of not less than $50,000,000 for rivers and harbors.

Third—That this body pledge its unqualified support and ald in such effort.

Fourth—That, owing to the extraordinary conditions existing at the mouth of the Columbia River and the enormous additional cost necessarily resulting from intermittent work, that every effort be made to got this work placed upon a continuing contract basis.

Fifth—That we heartily recommend to the Legislature that the tire make an appropriation of a sufficient amount at the next session of the Legislature to extend the portage railway from Big Eddy to The Dalles, and request the Benators and Representatives from this county to support such measure.

Sixth—We recommend that by taxation or by issuance of bonds a fund be raised to assist in the deepening of the mouth of the Columbia River and completing the improvements to the entrance to said river. In this connection we would suggest the advisability of the extending of the limits of the taxing district of the Port of Portland so that such district may extend to the mouth of the Columbia River, and in such other directions as may be deemed best.

Seventh—That the navigation committee and transportation committee of this Chamber be jointly charged with the carrying out of the Sevents—That the navigation committee and transportation committee of this Chamber be jointly charged with the carrying out of the work outlined in these resolutions, and that the chairman of the committee of this body on rivers, harbors and navigation be excificio chairman of such joint committee in connection therewith, and that this Chamber pledge its loyal and undivided support to the cause.

Oregon Bar Association Plans Important Campagin.

TO HOLD MEETING TONIGHT

Repeal of Obnoxious and Useless Laws and Enactment of New Statutes to Be Demanded of Legislature.

The Multnomah Bar Association will old its first meeting tonight since the courts adjourned, in Department No. 1, at the Courthouse, and it is expected that the feature of the occasion will be disussion of the crusade the bar plans to inaugurate for code reformation through legislation to the Legislature. This important step was determined upon soon after the organization of the association, and it is now contemplated to appoint committees at the meeting this. evening with that object in view, and report at some meeting to be held in the near future.

It is claimed that a codified system of practice or procedure is badly needed. In several of the states the practice and methods, and forms of procedure are uniform throughout the several districts where courts are established. It is found o be a great help in stimulating the business of the courts, is simpler, and reduces the business of the courts to a minimum. A uniform system of divorce laws throughout the country has been proposed to Congress. The several states are expected to voice their standing upon this question, through their Legislatures, and the association proposes that Oregon shall lead in expressing her sentiment in favor many obnoxious and useless laws. They are in fact burdened with matter that is no longer needed. The association and its kindred associations throughout the state will demand the repeal of these laws Many of them are fully covered by subsequent legislation more nearly meeting the demands of the changed conditions in the state. Some few laws are needed, the state. Some few laws are needed, and needed badly, and it is proposed that the bar associations throughout the state, shall demand their enactment.

Rules and regulations for the better conduct of the members of the bar have been established and are being zealously en-forced, to the end that the high stand-ard of the profession may be main-tained. Matters of local and of general import are discussed at its meetings and import are discussed at its meetings and already much good is manifested through membership were referred to a special examining committee for investigation and report, and these reports will be read at this meeting. There was exhibited quite a fight upon the proposed schedule of fees, which will come up for final adjustment and adoption this evening.

TO OCCUPY STREET.

Portion of East Alder Sought for Building Purposes.

The East Side Improvement Associa-tion has discovered that an attempt is to be made to occupy a portion of East Alder street between Twelfth and Thir-teenth with buildings. The portion of the street in question is the direct avenue from Twelfth street to the Central school and new East Side High school buildings, and has been used by the school district for over 25 years. When the school grounds were bought it was acreage prop-erty and East Alder street was not dedicated or opened as a public thoroughfare from Twelfth east to Fourteenth. In fact, the school district owns the street be-tween the two schoolhouses and the old Central schoolhouse was built upon the street purposely so as to prevent its ever being used. Since the old building has been torn down and two new ones have been torn down and two new ones have been built, the street is open ground, but belongs to the district just the same. It is now asserted that the owners of the property adjoining East Alder be-tween Twelfth and Thirteenth are claim-ing the unused street and are preparing to creat buildings upon it and the Imerect buildings upon it, and the im-ovement Association will endeavor to event this by making an effort to have the street condemned by the city and imthe street condemned by the city and improved all the way through, including that part owned by the school district.

If a part of the street is to be covered with buildings it will close the old avenue to the school grounds. Some legal questions may arise before the matter is actued as it is not known that not ter is cettled, as it is not known just now who holds the last title to the street, for it was never dedicated when the lots were platted. It was originally in the James B. Stephens donation land claim, but was sold by Mr. Stephens in acreage gracts. The school district bought its property from a widow named Smith, who is long since dead, and it is possible that her heirs may come forward to claim that portion of East Alder street which is engineered the deal which secured the school property but three are known to be allve now. They are: M. C. George, Joseph Buchtel and Claude Thayer.

PORTLAND is attracting more attention than any city on the Pacific Coast and is undergoing a MIGHTY TRANSFORMATION and in the fiext ten years will likely make more PROGRESS than it has in its entire past. The EAST SIDE has the most HOMES, has the GREATEST population, is growing the most RAPIDLY, and the GREATER PORTLAND MUST and WILL be there.

Holladay's Addition

Is the geographical center of the city, and is the most DESIRABLE residence district, and much of this will become BUSINESS property. Do not everlook these FACTS when making investments, and call and inspect the property, for seeing is believing. The Oregon Real Estate Company 88% Third St., Room 4, Portland, Oregon
