Two Armed Terrorists Arrested in Palace Grounds at Peterhof.

SERVANTS IN CONSPIRACY

They Smuggled Would-Be Assassins Through Guards Into Their Quarters - Many Suspects Taken Into Custody.

BT PETERSBURG, Sept 28.-A well-laid plot against the life of the Emperor, and one with all the chances of success on its side, was uncovered today by the arrest of two armed terrorists, a man and a woman, in the quarters of one of the servants of the Alexandria Palace, Peterhof. His Majesty's closely-guarded resi-dence on Cronstadt Bay. The servants and a lackey named Klemm Klepnikoff. ere concerned in smuggling the ter rorists through the guards, were arrested

Emperor Nicholas has been expected to return to Peterhof this week, and it is presumed that the terrorists intended to shoot him while he was promenading or playing with his children in the palace grounds.

Part of the great park at Peterhof is protected on one side by the waters of the bay, and on the other sides it is in-closed by a high wall surmounted with iron spikes. This wall is constantly pa-trolled by trusted Cossacks. Inside the palace grounds the only buildings are the unpresentious nalace and two or three palace grounds the only buildings are the unpretentious palace and two or three smaller houses for the servants.

The ramifications of the conspiracy, in which arrests have been reported almost daily since September 15, when a lackey and several others were arrested, are extensive, and may possibly have included two or more subdivisions, one directed at the Emperor and the other against Grand Duke Nicholas.

The arrest of the lackeys explains the manner in which threatening letters were introduced into the apartments of the Emperor.

the house for tonight's meeting. Congress Meets in Despair.

It was in a spirit of utter apathy that a joint session of the Senate and House received the resignations of the President, the Vice-President and the members of the Cabinet this afternoon. This attitude was due in a great measure to despair that any action would result in making American intervention less probable. After a brief but confused debate Congress decided on the final and forlors hope of an appeal to Senor Palma to reconsider his decision to retire. Although the session had been called for 2 o'clock, it was nearly 3 before the members began to arrive, and at that hour the improvised gallery in the long bare chamber, formerly a workroom in a big tobacco factory, contained only a sprinkling of spectators. Over the President's rostrum hung the faded and tattered folds of the original Lone Star flag that was first raised by Carlos Cespedes in the ten years' struggle for independence. It was now a witness to the closing scenes of the brief life of the first Cuban republic. From the broad street upon which the house is situated a small crowd of loungers and workmen gazed silently at the windows of the

Palma's Resignation Read.

The assembly was called to order by Senor Dolz at 3:20 o'clock and a roll call revealed a quorum, 14 Senators and 46 Representatives being present. The resignations of the members of the cabinet to the President were then read. Thereon Senor Zayas entered a protest, declaring that the President had no right to accept the resignations of the Cabinet without appointing successors. Representative Mandulay declared that the President had acted entirely within his rights. The resignation of Mendez Capote, the Vice-President, was then read without com-ment. Following this and amid a profound silence, the resignation of the President was read. It was as follows:

It was as follows:

To Congress: The condition to which public order has been reduced since the initiation of armed rebellion in the Province of Pinar Jei Rio and the fact that there is now in operation in this capital an American commission, said to be one of peace and representing the Government at Washington, and that in consequence the executive has practically lost all authority, while the rebels continue in arms and in a threatening attitude, and the writer, on the other hand, desiring sincerely and ardenly that the country should form to its natural state of order and tranquillity, and as it is absolutely impossible to accept the conditions which the said commission purposes as the only means of terminating the rebellion. I have resolved, considering it to be patriotic and decorous, to present formally to Congress, and in irrevocable form, my resignation from the Presidency of the republic, to which office I was elected by the citizens and the vote of the electoral college. May 16 last. Trusting this will be at once accepted, I extend my thanks to both legislative bodies, to whom I offer this testimony of my highest consideration.

As soon as the clerk had finished readdulay began an impassioned address in which he declared that Senor Palma was the only man to whom the Republic could look for salvation. With eloquence he urged Congress to cast to the winds al considerations of partisanship and to unite in an appeal to the President to reconsider the resignation. He also urged an appeal to the American commissioners

Hundreds of lady scalp specialists and hairdresers use and recommend Newbro's Herpicide, instead of products of their own manufacture upon which a much larger profit could be made. They claim that Herpicide makes friends for them and gives much better satisfaction. Some hairdressers use Herpicide for obstinate cases only, but why not use the best first?

Herpicide is a delightful dressing that can be used when there is no disease of the hair or scalp, and as an actual remedy for dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair it stands in a class singularly

Many ladies object to a gummy and sticky hair dressing, or one that is full of sedimentary chemieals intended to dye the hair. The marked preference for a clean and dainty preparation, particularly one that overcomes excessive oiliness and leaves the hair light and fluffy, is reflected in the enormous sale of Newbro's Herpicide. Discriminating ladies become enthusiastic over its refreshing quality and exquisite fragrance. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

He urged that Congress had no legal right to present such an appeal to the President Senor Mandulay retorted that in the present crisis, with the life of the nation at stake, it was the duty of Congress to disregard such technicalities. Congressman Diego Tamayo declared that Congress was face to face with the death of the nation, and that only Palma's continuance in office could save the republic. A long argument ensued, to which many Representatives and Senators paid little eed. President Dolz chatted with some friends who gathered about his rostrum. Finally he terminated the question of the right of Congress to appeal to the President for reconsideration of his resignation by putting the matter to a vote. The result was 47 ayes to 13 noes. On the mo tion of Senor Mandulay the house then took a recess to permit the Moderates and the Liberal Nationallists to visit Senor

He voiced his deep regrets, but reiterated that his decision was irrevocable. He was deeply moved, and spoke with tears in his eyes. He said:

I would never have hesitated to make any sacrifice asked for by my country, whose liberty. I fought for during 40 years, exposing my life and wrecking my health. But you ask me to sacrifice my personal dignity and that of the government now imperiled by armed forces, without any prospects of a practical result in securing peace and the stability of the nation. If I could believe that the sacrifice of my personal and official dignity meant peace and stability and rightful liberty, you could count on my compliance to that extent. But since my authority has been curtailed by armed force and as I have been notified officially that I am occupying my position by fraud, I beg you not to insist on asking me to withdraw my resignation, which has been presented to Congress and which represents my irrevocable resignation. spoke with tears in his eyes. He said:

Embraces and Tears.

Senor Dolz broke the ensuing silence, saying that the Moderates would not press the request, and ended the interview by embracing President Palma. The President and several others wept freely and the delegates in turn grasped his hand and withdraw to the residence of Senor Dolz. There they entered into a long conference.
The tendency at first was to endeavor to meet the Liberals by agreeing on General Menocal for Provisional President. This, however, was soon abandoned, because it was recalled that Mr. Taft had intimated that Senor Palma's continuance in office would be the only arrangement sufficiently satisfactory to the United States to prevent intervention. Considerable ill feeling was exhibited toward Governor Nunez.

Dolz Bitter Against Americans. Senor Dolz said the problem before the Moderate party was one that it was useless to try to solve, as American intervention was an accomplished fact. He said this was the true reason for Senor Palma's resignation, and instanced as proof of his assertion the landing of American forces at Cienfuegos at the request of the American commissioners to oring the Cuban government.
