CENTENARY CHURCH PROSPERS.-Rev. W. H. Heppe has begun his third year's pastorate at Centenary Methodist Church under favorable auspices. For the past year collections for benevolences amounted to $2000, larger than ever before in the history of the church. Total sum raised, including benevolences, expenses, etc., was $7000. Women's Foreign Mission Society raised $500 and the Ladies' Ald $400. This latter organization raised in two years $1200. Departments are in good condition and workers are enthusiastic. Congregations were larger Sunday than for months. The "East Water-Street Mis-sion." on East Washington street, has been started by the Sunday school and Epworth League and promises to be important. Monday evening the official board will give a reception to the memberahip at the church. It will be called the "Fall Into Line" gathering. Refreshments will be served and plans of work laid.

LATERALS COME NEXT.-Councilman Rushlight, of the Seventh ward, where the Brooklyn sewer is under construction, says that he has asked the City Engineer to prepare a general system of laterals so that work can be started on them inside of a year. These laterals of course, will only be laid in districts where their need only be laid in districts where their need is imperative. In about six months resolutions for the needed laterals can be introduced, and then it will be another six months before work will be started on them. By that time the main conduits will be nearly completed. Inspection will come only when stone and brick are being laid, and that will be some time to come. Mr. Rushlight says that there will be at least three inspectors, and when the time comes they will be authorized by ordinance.

Warrants for the arrest of H. W. Lemcke and J. E. Barker were issued by Deputy City Attorney Fitzgerald late yes-terday afternoon, upon complaints signed by Patrolman John A. Gottz, charging dolation of the ordinance which prohibits violation of the ordinance which prohibits the placing of advertising signs in cement sidewalks. Mr. Lemcke was arrested during the evening. He gave ball in the sum of $100 and was released to appear in the Municipal Court this morning at 9 o'clock.

Major William C. Langfitt.

COMMANDS ARMY EN-GINEERING CORPS IN CUBA

Major William C. Langfitt, of the United States Army, who was sta-tioned in Oregon in charge of the Columbia River improvements for several years, has been sent to Cuba in charge of the engineering corps. A letter has been received from him by a friend in Portland, saying that he was to sail for the island October 3. Major Langfitt, who is now commandant of the school, has entire charge of the englneering squad during the present Cuban expedition. His force consists two companies of engineers from Washington Barracks. They are fully equipped and will have charge of bridge construction and such other engineering work as may be necessary. Major Langfitt is well known in Portland and the Northwest, having been stationed here for about four years. When he was transferred to Washington a little more than one year ago he was succeeded by Lleutenantfiled against me in the Supreme Court of the Portland Tile & Mantel Company, for disbarment. I received official no-tice of this action of the committee on yesterday. The notice states that "It was decided by the committee that charges should be preferred against you in the Supreme Court based upon the charges preferred against you before the grievance committee and the commit-tee's special prosecutor was instructed to prepare and file charges in the Su-preme Court."

The charges against me before the grievance committee were based solely on the ground that I had pleaded guilty in the United States Court to an indictment for perjury growing out of the proceedings against the late Senator iell by a United States Grand Jury all of which is now a matter of public history. I appeared before the grievance committee and presented the pardon granted me by President Roosevelt, who was made familiar with all the details of this unfortunate affair and I urged upon the committee that in view of the musual and extraordinary conditions under which the offense was committed, in the first place, and the further fact that a complete and unconditional par-don had been granted me, the charges should be dismissed and the matter should not be referred to the Supreme Court, I did this conscientiously believ-ing that the pardon by the President had wiped out the offense and done away with whatever of guilt may have attached to the matter originally. This belief was based on decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States and of the Supreme Court of the States of Oregon. In one of these decisions Mr. Justice Field was this largering as to the tice Field used this language as to the effect of a pardon: Such being the case, the inquiry arises as to the effect and operation of a pardon, and on this point all the authorities concur. A parion reaches both the punishment prescribed or the offense and the guilt of the offender; and when the pardon is full, it releases the punishment and blots out of existence the guilt, so that in the eye of the law the offender is as innocent as if he had never committed the offense. If granted before conviction, it prevents any of the penalties and disabilities consequent upon conviction from attaching; if granted after conviction, it removes the penalties and disabilities and restores the total alties and disabilities, and restores him to al his civil rights; it makes him, as it were, a new man, and gives him a new credit and capacity. (See Ex Parte Garland, 4 Wall.

This language is quoted with approval in an opinion written by the late Judge L. L. McArthur in Wood vs. Fitzgerald. Or., 576. However the committee, after full hearing ordered charges filed in the Supreme Court.

The committee consists of high-minded and honorable members of the profession, and I cannot but regard their action in the matter as an intimation that, not-withstanding the unusual circumstances under which the offense was committed, and notwithstanding the pardon of the President, I am not a fit person to remain among them. I have no means of knowing to what extent this feeling or sentiment may be shared by the bench and bar of the state, and for this reason, although not incumbent upon me to do so, I deem it a duty which I owe to the legal profession as well as myself and clientage, to make this public an-nouncement of my retirement from prac-tice, until such time as the charges against me may be finally disposed of by the Supreme Court.

In thus taking leave of my profession, even though temporarily as I hope it may be, I wish to express to my professional brethren of the bench and bar of the state my profound gratitude for the uniform courtesy and kindness shown me during the more than twenty-five years that I have mingled and strugled with and against them.

To my patrons and clients, and to the friends who have stood by me with their sympathy and words of cheer in an orwas in its flood, I extend my grateful acknowledger A. H. TANNER.

City Councilman John P. Sharkey, who is a member of the H. W. Chief of Police Gritzmacher was chastrined when he read in The Oregonian yesterday morning that the big sign had been worked into the sidewalk between the hours of 8 P. M. Friday and 3 A. M. ### NARROW ECCLESIASTICISM

What Is the Matter in Portland, Anyway?

PORTLAND, Oct 9.—(To the Editor.)—I was much interested to read recently that The Oregonian is considered a Unitarian organ. On that assumption it seems rather remarkable that a brief report of the sermons delivered in the Unitarian Church should not be printed occasionally in the Monday's issue, as is done in the case of the other churches of Portland. Possibly the Unitarian pastor does not ask to have it done, but on the assumption just mentioned such a trifling neglect on his part ought not to be construed to his discredit or to bar the public from legitimate items of news. Of course sheemakers children go barefoot and a Unitarian organ naturally is interested in preachers of other denominations.

To be sure the editor says The Oregonisi inations.

To be sure the editor says The Oregonian is not a Unitarian organ nor is it interested in Unitarian sm, but then the editor may be in the Unitarian position and not know it. The advocate says so and if there is anything the orthodox don't know it has not been singled out for publication.

With the permission of the editor I wish to mention something which will doubtless be news to many readers of The Oregonian. It was mentioned in an aside by Mr. Eliot in his Sunday sermon. His sermon was a plea for sincerity in religion, and he took the ground that subscription to dogmas which were the creations of ages not superior to our own in learning or wisdom was not conductive to that sincerity without which all other virtues are worthless. In speaking of a discussion which he had once attended in a ministers' meeting in an Eastern city he alluded to the fact that he was not permitted to be a member of the Ministers' Association of Portland, He was not permitted to be a member of the Ministers' Association of Portland, He salso referred to the author of that beautiful hymn which is sung in every church—"Nearer My God to Thee"—and eaid that if she were living she could not be a mem-

The Kind You Have Always Bought ber of the Young Women's Christian Association, nor if she were a minister could she be a member of the Ministers' Association of Portland, because she was a Unitarian. There is no doubt but that the Ministers' Association of Portland, because she was a Unitarian. There is no doubt but that the Ministers' Association of Portland very properly decides on the qualifications of its members. There can be no criticism made of that action. But what shall be said of a cosmopolitan town like Portland that supports the churches who hire the ministers who are so full of narrowness and intolerance that they will not work with other ministers nor consult with them because they do not conside them orthodox?

The Oregonian has recently said that the Unitarians are decent folk, Edward Everett Hale, chaplain of the United States Senate, whom President Roosevit says is the best-known American in the Nation, is a Unitarian minister. If he were to come to Portland the Ministers' Association would not recognize him as a co-worker.

Is Rabbi Wise, whom the leading men of the city and state will nonor by public expression of their esteem before he goes to New York, a member of the Ministers' Association?

ciation? One of Portland's most popular preachers One of Portland's most popular preachers said Sunday: "I have known some Methodists in this city who were so litter in their opposition to the Baptist Church that they inreatened to make their daughters leave home if they joined it. I talked with a Presbyterian one day, who could not have shown a more narrow or bigored spirit in his opposition to the devil ffiat he presented in his opposition to the Eaptist Church." And yet what is the attitude of the Ministers' Association toward Unitarians, Universalists, Reformed Jews and other liberals? What's the matter with Portland, anyway? Do her people recognize the absurdity of the situation? Is this spirit worthy of the new century? Perhaps the people don't know the facts and the ministers forget them. If so this communication may deserve space as a matter of news.

Poo Bah of Holbrook Defies Arrest

Postmaster of Little Town Is Far Too Important in His Own Village to Permit Himself to Be

D. STEVENS is postmaster at Holbrook, Or., and that means a whole ot. it seems. He was placed under arrest yesterday by Constable Lou Wagner of Justice Reid's Court for having game birds in his possession, but, when told to "come along," he said no.

Not he; nit. He is postmaster, and that means something at Holbrook. "This postoffice is far too important to be left without a man in charge," said Postmaster Stevens, "I can't accommodate you, young man, by going with you; I'm awful sorry." Constable Wagner scratched his head, effected a moment, and decided that he reflected a moment, and decided that he agreed with Postmaster Stevens, of Holbrook. Certainly, the Holbrook postoffice ought not to be left without a man in charge. It was so thoughtless to overlook that, thought Wagner.

So Postmaster Stevens, of Holbrook, gave Constable Wagner $25 for bail money, and remained at Holbrook.

Now the perplexing problem is, "How are they, going to get Stevens to come are they going to get Stevens to come into court?" He is postmaster at Holbrook, and that means something, it some are inclined to think Postmaster Stevens of Holbrook, will refuse to leave his office to appear before Justice Reid, but one thing they are agreed upon—his ball can be forfelted, if he falls to appear when the case is set for trial.

GOGORZA AND SCOTTI.

"Another viewpoint of the world of great achievement is commanded by the young and gifted baritone, Gogorza," writes the critic of the St. Paul Dispatch, "His brilliant and dramatic high baritone ans all the refinement of tone and expression that belong to the tenor. Indeed, Gogorza's voice is as flexible and artistic as Scottl's, and in all matters of phrasing, enunciation and brilliant effects, the ounger man is as great as Scottl Younger man is as great as Scottl. Gogorza's song recital is under the di-rection of Lois Steers-Wynn Coman, and, although it is the first concert of the year, it would attract just as much at-tention at the fag end of a long sea-son, for Gogorza created almost a sen-sation when he sang here last year with Elames.
