HOOD RIVER, Or., Oct. 11.—(Special.)

The meeting of the Oregon Irrigation Association today brought out the fact that delegates from all parts of Oregon are working in harmony to secure better irrigation for the state, both through national and state appropriations and by whatever means it can be accomplished.

The meeting was called to order at 1:30 by President Lowell. On motion of Addison Bennett of The Dalles all who were in attendance at the meeting were given the privilege of delegates. Mayor Flowers, of Hood River, was then introduced by the president and delivered an address of welcome in behalf of the city to the delegates, offering them the freedom of the city.

Judge Lowell responded and then introduced Tom Richardson, of the Portland Commercial Club, who told the Portland delegates that the city of Portland was doing for better irrigation, saying it was raising a fund of $100,000 for that purpose and that it expected contributions from all sections of the state.

Fulton Strong on Irrigation.

Judge Lowell in calling upon Senator Fulton, the next speaker, spoke of the great importance of the irrigation act and what Oregon's representatives in the Senate were doing to forward it. The Senator, after paying Hood River a tribute on its fruit fair, said: "I do not hesitate to say that there has been no act before the people's representatives at Washington more important than the irrigation act."

Senator Fulton called attention to the great benefits that would be derived from the Klamath and Harney projects, saying that they must be put through and explained the same in the Senate in regard to the Harney project, which provided for the draining of lands in Idaho, and stated that he would oppose any measure that would encroach on the reclamation fund, and remarked in closing:

"I want to say a word about river and harbor improvements in Oregon, which I am vitally interested. I am in favor of all these improvements—Columbia, Coos Bay, Tillamook, the mouth of the Willamette and any other enterprise that will develop our state. While I am heartily proud of my Army and Navy, which I think the equal of any in the world, although I know it ranks as only third, I am in favor, if necessary, of retrenching in the appropriations for these arms of the Government and using the money in river and harbor improvements. If it cannot be raised in any other way, I will even in favor of issuing bonds for it, the same as has been done for the Panama Canal."

Discussion After Papers.

After considerable discussion on Jesse Stearns' paper on "Irrigation Under the Carey Act in the Deschutes Valley," the meeting adjourned until the evening session. On reassembling, the committee on nominations made its report, which was accepted, and officers were elected for the ensuing year.

The committee also recommended the adoption of the Portland Board of Trade Journal as the official organ of the association, which was carried.

STEIN-BLOCH SMART CLOTHES FOR MEN

The last stitches taken in a Stein-Bloch coat are those that attach the label to its place. And they mean the most to you, for they signify that every other stitch has been made in honesty, upon pure woolen fabrics well cut, and formed to fit with style.

You will find the label inside each coat underneath the flap below the collar. Look for it.

Woman's Nightmare

No woman's happiness can be complete without children; it is her nature to love and want them as much as so it is to love the beautiful and pure. The critical ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass, however, is so fraught with dread, pain, suffering and danger, that the very thought of it fills her with apprehension and horror.

The way of the transgressor is Lard

The wise housewife specifies Cotto-lene every time in place of lard. Any one with a particle of respect for his stomach would prefer a pure vegetable product to one made from hog fat.
