RULES MAKE MORE OPEN PLAY

No Mass Plays Were Attempted in

Practice Game at Corvallis.

CORVALLIS, Or., Oct. 14.—(Special.)— That the game of football has not in any sense been sacrificed by the new rules is the verdict of local enthusiasts after see-ing the new style of play in effect on Oregon Agricultural College field in the game yesterday, in which the college men defeated an Albany eleven in a score of 22 to 6. Though the play on both sides was raw and in the main by inexperienced men, enough was seen to demonstrate that football is still to be football and that the game will be fully as interestin to gridiron enthusiasts as it was before.

That the play will be more open is practically established. In yesterday's contest practically all the plays were made off tackle and close end runs. No heavy mass plays were attempted on either side. The brunt of the work fell upon the backs and ends. This precluded the use of the heavy tackle and guard formations back of the line which have been so large a feature of the play for the past few years. It established beyond a doubt that the fast and necessarily light backs and ends will be more effective and that wider and more open playing is certain to reof personal danger has been lessened. His idea is that the season's play will pos-sibly show as many cases of injury as there was before.

CLUB PURCHASES GROUNDS.

Portland Cricket-Players Will Lay Out Field.

The Portland Cricket Club has purchased a five-acre tract adjoining Monta-villa, on the south side of the Base Line Road, and will file articles of Incorporation today to form a legal body to pay for the tract and make improvements. The incorporators will be W. G. Smith, S. N. L. Gilman, H. W. Hodges, R. Roylcene, A. Sisley, P. Chappel Browne druggists, and A. W. Crocket. The capital stock is pluced at $5000, and there are 200 shares at $25 per share. Only as few of the shares remain unsold.

The five acres cost $3500. It is the in-ention of the club to build a clubhouse and improve the ground, making a fine ricket field. One end of the track will be received for a lawn tennis court for women. The clubhouse will contain women. The dubhouse will contain shower baths and other conveniences. No plans have yet been drawn up, but will be very soon, covering all these improvements, and work started on so they will be completed by May. The Cricket Club contemplates inviting the Northwestern Cricket Association, composed of about six big clubs, to Portland in 1998, as it goes to Seattle in 1997, and will have autitable grounds for the games. The tract purchased is a very heautiful one, and close to the Montavilla car line.

The campaign in New York is a warm The leading candidates are giving much time to work of "exposing" each other. Hearst says Hughes has been "a corporation attorney." Hughes answers that Hearst is himself a corporation and a trust, and undertakes to prove it by showing how the Hearst newspapers are published. He says the corporations that control them are organized on purely trust principlesdodging taxes and financial responsibility. Here is part of a speech re-cently delivered by Highes at Mount

Vernon, N. Y.:

"We have had a campaign not beginning within a few weeks, but beginning long ago, in an effort to confuse the minds of the people, to deal with important subjects in a reckless way, to supplent fair criticisms with reckless utterances, to deal not with abuses simply, but to deal generally with classes of men in a way to excite envy and hate, an appeal to reason. We are against it. We are for real reform and progress in the right way. I looked up a little matter which I explained to an audience in Brooklyn the other night which involved the case of a young woman who was a resident of this county—Mrs. Werner—who brought suit against Mr. Hearst when she claimed to have been run over by she claimed to have been run over by the driver of a wagon, and injured through the carelessness of his employe, and his answer was that it was proye, and his answer was that it was a corporation.

"And on investigation we found out that the great opponent of corporations was to all intents and purposes a corporation himself.

"We found out he was not only one corporation but he fact he was several orporation, but, in fact, he was several corporations.

"And we found he was so jealous of corporate rights that he was not willing to have a jury pass upon the ques-tion of the bona fides of his corporate organization, and when the jury gave Mrs. Werner $25,000 damages and Mrs. Werner $22,903 damages and passed on the questions submitted to it by Judge Keough—the question whether there was a bona fide corporation or a mere device to shield him from liability—he appealed, as he had a right to appeal, but he appealed because he thought it very important to establish the principle of corporate protection for all time. "When the Appellate Division decided when the Appellate Division decided against him and affirmed the judgment he took another appeal, which he had a right to take, and he took it to settle for all time that the question of the bona fides, the good faith, the necessity of such an organization, should not be passed upon by a jury, but that if the forms of law were all the forms of law were all the forms of law were all the forms. but that if the forms of law were all preserved and if the technicality of the law had all been compiled with, he was safe and the court so decided. "I thought I would carry that investigation a little further. I notice that this morning's American, after the remarks that had been made Saturday night in Brooklyn, this morning's American, which bears the name of my opponent on its face, said: He has no need to defend corporations as such, since nobody denies their utility their since nobody denies their utility, their necessity."

"We are making progress, you say.
Yes, 'Nobody denies their utility or Yes, Nobody denies their utility or their necessity. He does not deny it. He knows it too well. He knows it. He needs that utility and that advantage every day.
"But still I suppose we shall have in the future, as we have had in the past, the general talk about corporations—a corporation government: a corporation attorney—as though the word 'corporation' was itself a stigma of service and utility.
