FAMILY FOUND DESTITUTE

PROBATION OFFICER DISCOVERS SAD CASE.

Sick Mother, Four Hungry Children and Unemployed Father in Squard Home on East Side.

Probation Officer S. D. White yesterday reported to the juvenile Court what he declares to be one of the most pitiful cases of poverty in the city. While at work rounding up boys and girls who were in the habit of playing "hooky" from school, Mr. White entered the abode of Winfield Oliver, 70 Grand avenue, and there found a sick mother, with four half-starved children about her and a husband, who was a sad sight and made my heart sick," said Mr. White, in talking about the matter. The family are living in two small rooms, the combined floor space of which is not over 1200 feet. The mother has not been well for several months. Poverty starves the visitor in the face from every nook and corner in the so-called home.

REFUSE TO ACCEPT ANSWER

Attorneys Hold Out for Default Order in Circuit Court.

Attorneys Piggott and Finch yesterday refused to accept the service of an answer to a complaint filed by them in the Circuit Court several days ago. The lawyers wanted a default order issued and when Presiding Judge Sears refused to grant their request, they hurried into the office of Chief Deputy County Clerk

Smith and demanded that he enter a default in the case. Mr. Smith chose to obey the court rather than the anxious attorney.

This queer state of affairs arose at the opening of the Circuit Court yesterday morning, the case in question being that of Nora Armstrong against the Portland Railway Company. When experts motions were being heard by Judge Sears, Dan J. Malarky, attorney for the railway company, stated that he would like to have three more days in which to prepare an answer to the complaint. Hearing this request, the attorney for the plaintiff at once demanded that they be allowed a default order in the case, declaring that the time had expired for the filing of an answer.

Mary Stocker Given Divorce.

The course of true love ran in many crooked paths in the Stocker home, so crooked that the wife grew weary of straightening them out and appealed for aid from the Circuit Court. Yesterday afternoon, Judge Sears took a hand in the matter and settled the issue by allowing Mary Stocker a divorce from Louis Stocker, whom she married during January, 1889. Mrs. Stocker was also granted the custody of their 8-year-old daughter and 3-year-old son. She alleged non-support.

Cases to Be Decided.

Presiding Judge Alfred F. Sears will decide the following cases this morning: State of Oregon vs. A. E. French et al. State of Oregon vs. G. Plass, and other cases of the same nature. These decisions will be on the demurrers filed on informations against many voters charged with fraud in the Sellwood precinct during the recent election. The decisions this morning will deal with the defendants charged with perjury.

DESOTO'S GREAT-GREAT-GRANDSON PAYS A VISIT TO CITY OF PORTLAND

Mining Man, in Whose Veins Blood of Explorer Flows, Also Has the Wandering Instinct.

ALEXANDER D'SOTO, of New York, great-great-grandson of Ferdinand Desoto, the Spanish explorer who first discovered the Mississippi River, is a guest at the Hotel Portland. He is one of the five living direct descendants of Ferdinand Desoto. The explorer instinct which flows in his veins crops out in him and he spends a large part of his time roving about the world investigating mining properties. He has extensive mining interests at Council City, Alaska, but this Winter will make a trip through Siberia to investigate the mineral resources of that country. Alexander Desoto came to the United States from Spain when 22 years of age and served through the Civil War as a surgeon in the Federal Navy. For the last 20 or 30 years he has devoted his energies to mining and is credited with being immensely wealthy. He bears a marked resemblance to the pictures of the noted explorer. He is dark and swarthy with deep, black eyebrows which extend far out from his forehead. He wears a beard and he has those penetrating, piercing eyes so common to the Spanish. Although 66 years of age he is a man of great muscular strength. He speaks the fact that he is small of stature.

He has a brother, a Catholic bishop, who makes his headquarters at Rome, and a sister who lives in Spain. He has two cousins living and these complete the direct descendants of the noted explorer who are now alive. Ferdinand Desoto is something of a philanthropist and is the founder of the Wayside Hospital at Seattle and one at Council City. His hobby is hospitals and upon the two he has expended many thousands of dollars. He established the Wayside Hospital at Seattle when the reaction of the Klondike rush set in which resulted in great suffering. For several years he was compelled to give large amounts to maintain it but now it is conducted by Seattle and King County. Mr. Desoto installed the first successful dredge on the Seward Peninsula three years ago. It cost him $48,000 but it has been running day and night since it was put in motion and is paying big profits. The dredge is worked on the river near Council City. He is now in Portland figuring on the purchase of a dredge to get pointers from some of the mammoth dredges there before he places the order. During the Summer months he employs several hundred men in his mining operations.

"No, I am not an explorer myself," laughed Mr. Desoto when seen at the Hotel Portland last night. "I must admit, however, that I do not like to remain long in one place, and I keep moving around from one country to the other. That is my enjoyment and I make it my business, as I always have my eye open for anything which will make me money. I love the out-of-door life and an never quite so happy as when out in the wilds."

LOTTERY JOINT IS RAIDED

Three Chinese Arrested by Patrolmen Mallet and Kienlen.

"Who is the boss man?" asked Inspector of Police Bruin of Chock Kee, proprietor of a Chinese lottery establishment at 414 Second street, which was raided last night by Acting Detectives Mallet and Kienlen. "No, no," replied Chock Kee, who was waiting before the captain's desk at police headquarters to give bail for himself and two others. "Have you fixed bail for them yet?" asked Inspector Bruin of Captain Slover. "Not yet," replied Captain Slover. "Your bail is $50, Chock Kee—do you see that?" said Inspector Bruin to Chock Kee. "I am not long before he had a friend at his command to bring in the required amount. He was then released on bail to appear in the Municipal Court this morning.

Many Frightened by a Runaway Horse

Women Faint and Children Flee For Safety From Maddened Animal Dashing Over Lawns and Walks.

WOMEN fainted, children screamed and men scurried to places of safety at 2 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, along streets traversed by a large white horse that broke from a light carriage at Seventh and Burnside, after throwing the occupants to the pavement. The animal dashed along sidewalks and through lawns, followed by Mounted Policeman "Joe" Keller, who finally caught it and placed it in a stable. It was the most sensational chase a policeman has ever made in Portland after a runaway horse, and people of the neighborhood through which the animal ran were greatly excited. Several women fainted, thinking their lives in danger. So far as the police were able to learn, no one was injured, but numerous children, homeward bound from school, had narrow escapes.

The police were unable to learn the names of the man and woman who were driving the horse that ran away, as they left the scene immediately and did not report the affair. Their carriage was demolished.

Mounted Policeman Keller was at Sixteenth and Kearney streets when the large white horse came galloping toward the sidewalk toward him. It dashed past him in an instant, and he started in pursuit, following it many blocks and at last catching it at Twentieth and Washington streets.

Policeman Keller took the horse to a stable at Ninth and Burnside streets, after which he went to headquarters and reported the runaway to Captain Moore. "I never saw anything like it," said Keller. "As the horse dashed along streets and over sidewalks, women and children screamed and rushed onto porches or to any place they could see to get out of the way. I heard several of them faint, but I was riding so fast I had no time to investigate. I was determined to catch the horse, which I did, after a chase of many blocks."

Adhesive, invariable, harmless. Bait, side powder is made in 4 alluring tints. 25c.
