Hearst Plans to Get 1908 Nomination.

IS A STRONG ARGUMENT

Organizing in Every Northern State to Force Democratic Convention to Yield Opportunity of Election as President.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(Special.)—A significant remark was made by William Randolph Hearst in the course of his last up-state tour. None of the newspapers have paid it any attention further than to publish it in the proper place in the speech, but it has cheered up the Glee House clique wonderfully. Here is what he said:

"We are fighting for principles, not pelf, and the fight will go on. If we are defeated now, we will keep up the fight two years from now, and continue it until we are successful."

Hearst has been greatly encouraged by his success in sandbagging the local Democratic party. He believes that, two years from now, he will be able to chloroform the National organization just as successfully.

The Hearst system here was marvelous in its simplicity. The territory above the Bronx has been without patronage for years. Democratic leaders were hungry and disheartened. Hearst came along, offered them not a loaf, but a slice, and they fell in line for him. Murphy realized that, if he turned down Hearst, it would badly damage his local ticket, and, perhaps, cause its defeat. Murphy played politics for Tammany, or rather thought he was doing so.

Same Tactics as at Buffalo. The point that was brought home at Buffalo was that, while Hearst might win, no Democratic candidate could be named who would have a ghost of a chance. The convention sacrificed principle for advantage, and now the men who were delegates are bitterly regretting it.

Hearst figures on the Democratic nomination for President by following precisely the same tactics that he did here, and argues that conditions are much the same. The Solid South represents Tammany Hall. It controls the offices, has done so for years, and will keep on doing so. The territory north of Mason and Dixon's line bears a striking resemblance on a large scale, to up-state New York. It has a shattered, disorganized Democracy and is practically barred from office holding.

Hearst formed the nucleus of an organization here by his Independence League clubs. The membership, in the main, was made up of disheartened Democrats and Republicans anxious for office but unable to obtain recognition in their own parties. Through them he reached out and gobbled up the regular Democratic machinery. Independence League organizations are now springing up all over the Northern states. You don't hear much of them in the Hearst papers, because the time is not ripe yet, but they are on deck, all right.

Leagues in Many States. In Massachusetts the Independence League forced the nomination of District Attorney John E. Moran for Governor. Moran's defeat was the result of the Democratic convention and incidentally gobbled up the organization. The Independence League is running a county ticket in Chicago and is opposing the regular Democratic nominee for Governor in California. Joseph R. Buchanan has organized Independence League clubs in every county of New Jersey, although the members, as members are not taking part in the present election.

How to Sandbag the South.

The Democratic National convention will be held in 1908, probably in June or July. It is intended to hold an Independence League National convention from three to six months prior to that time. The leaguers, of course, will name Hearst for President, just as the Carnegie Hall Democrats named him for Governor.

In the Democratic National convention Hearst will undoubtedly control the delegates from a number of the Northern States where Democrats are few and disorganized. Then the situation will be put right up to the men from the South, in about these words: "You may be able to defeat Mr. Hearst for the nomination, but you cannot elect anybody else. He will run as an independent candidate and we have enough votes to prevent you from carrying a Northern State. What is the good of accepting sure defeat, when you are almost certain to win a victory?"

It is expected that this proposition will appeal to the South. They will be told that there is a good deal of patronage and of course their leaders will have all that is coming to the South. Concisely, it is a choice between a chance of getting something, and a certainty of getting nothing. And Hearst means to press this plan

WILL EXTEND LINE SOUTH TO YAQUINA

Construction of Feeders Up Both Forks of Nehalem Authorized by Directors and Stockholders at Meeting Yesterday.

Not only is the Astoria & Columbia River Railroad going to extend its main line from Seaside to Tillamook, construction of these branches as soon as deemed advisable.

The continuation of the main line from Tillamook to Newport was also authorized. This line has been contemplated for some time, and has been predicted since President Hammond announced his intention to build down the coast from Seaside to Tillamook. It seemed the natural inference that the gap between Tillamook and Yaquina Bay would be closed up to connect the Astoria & Columbia River Railroad with the Corvallis & Eastern, the other Hammond road. With the action taken yesterday, there is no longer any doubt about the building of the connection with the C. & E.

Meetings of both stockholders and directors were necessary yesterday to amend the charter of the Astoria & Columbia River Railroad, so as to permit the building of the additional mileage. The original charter contemplated the extension of the Astoria & Columbia River Railroad to Tillamook, and no additional authority was necessary to permit this construction. However, this was not the case with the branches up the Nehalem, nor with the building of a branch to Yaquina. The construction of these branches will mean the development of a country that has long been isolated. The Nehalem Valley is known to be one of the most fertile districts in the state, and all it needs is rail transportation.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The announcement that William R. Hearst, who heads the Independence League and Democratic state tickets, as well as other candidates, would address a meeting held under the auspices of the Independence League tonight served to draw a crowd that put a premium on standing room in Madison-Square Garden. Hearst made the principal speech in the garden. His arrival and his appearance upon the platform were signals for enthusiastic demonstrations, and the applause and cheering was renewed frequently.

Hearst had much to say concerning corporations and something to say about his opposition on the Republican ticket. He believed, he said, that he would be elected Governor by a majority of 150,000. Hearst told how he had fought the trusts in the interests of the people. He fished out and killed the gas and fuel trust and next tackled the ice trust and put the ice trust Mayor out of business. He then made war on the beef trust and the rebating system. "You have been told," said Hearst, "that I have made corrupt political deals,

LEGISLATURE WILL HAVE HANDS FULL

Session Promises to Be Busy One.

MANY BILLS BEING PREPARED

Fight Expected on Measure to Reapportion State.

SENATORS TO BE CHOSEN

Chief Interest Centers in This Duty of Lawmakers, Although Election Promises to Be Perfunctory Because of New Law.

Numerous matters of legislation will come before the Oregon lawmakers next January and February. Already they loom up so abundantly that the session beginning January 14 gives promise of brisk activity.

After election of United States Senator—an office that apparently will go to Jonathan Bourne, Jr., for the long term, beginning March 4, 1907, and to F. W. Mulkey, for the short term, ending on that date—the next matter of political interest will be a bill for reapportionment of Legislative members, on the basis of the state census of 1905. This is likely to stir deeply the delegations from the various counties, whose members may not think they are receiving sufficient representation.

For example, under the new apportionment, Multnomah County will be entitled to seven or eight Senators, in place of five as now; Baker will be entitled to one, in place of one joint with Malheur and Harney; and Benton will be entitled only to a joint Senator in place of its present member. The ratio of apportionment will be one Senator for every 15,434 inhabitants. Multnomah County, by the last state census had 129,116 inhabitants. Multnomah now has twelve representatives, on an apportionment of one for every 7,717 inhabitants. Baker will be entitled to one more representative and Marion to one less.

Other Important Subjects will be:

- Water rights, for irrigation and manufacture, defining the uses to which water of state streams may be put. Regulation of state banks, through an examiner, requiring frequent reports, limiting loans, fixing cash reserve, etc. Railroad Commission, to compel railroads to supply cars and to enforce reciprocal demurrage. Prohibition of railroad passes, on plan of initiated bill enacted at the polls last June, but defective for want of enacting clause. Better regulation of salmon industry and re-enactment of cannery license law, declared unconstitutional by Judge Hamilton. One Board of Regents for all Normal Schools. Re-enactment of law for taxation of migratory stock declared unconstitutional by Judge Ellis. Appropriations for rivers and harbors, including $50,000 for extension of Celilo portage railway to The Dalles. Establishment of jute mills at Salem for manufacture of grain bags by convict labor. Diversion of interest perquisite of State Treasurer to State Treasury and placing State Printer on flat salary. Free text books in public schools, advocated by Representative Beveridge, of Multnomah, and General Miller, of Linn. Creation of Board of Immigration, with appropriation of $100,000, advocated by Representative Chapin, of Multnomah. Amendment of local option law, so as to declare law a criminal act, and to eliminate option by counties and groups of precincts. New tax code, as recommended by State Tax Commission. Taxation of franchisees. Law Regulating Labor. New labor laws, limiting workday of women to 10 hours, raising age limit of child workers from 14 to 15, limiting all labor to 8 hours, limiting hours of trainmen, making arbitration of labor disputes compulsory, regulating boiler-inspection, etc. General act to regulate method of amending charters under home rule for municipalities. Amendment to Constitution. Use of voting machines. Better protection of forests from fire. Improvement of streams for logging and regulation thereof. Promotion of good roads. Amendment of gross earnings tax laws, applying to telephone, telegraph, express, sleeping-car and oil companies, so as to reduce tax. Creation of State Board of Control for state institutions. Appropriation of money for Jamestown and Seattle fairs. Amendment of game laws and possible repeal of hunters' license. Creation of Cascade County, with Hood River for the county seat (defeated in last Legislature). Establishment of school for feebleminded. A number of bills involving the interests of the State.

through, whether he wins or loses. If he is defeated by a narrow margin it will be almost as good as a victory, for he can cry fraud, as he did during the Mayoralty campaign a year ago. Defeat by a couple of hundred thousand might change him, but it is doubtful, for he is determined to carry his political position.

The poor will be poorer and more discontented two years from now than they are today. It is the theory of the Glee House clique.

Voice Cries in Wilderness.

The only party organ that has realized the plight of the unhappy Democratic organization is the New York Times, and that has only a mere inkling of the conditions that are contemplated. In answering an editorial in the Charleston News and Courier, the writer of which could not see that the election of Hearst would be a disaster, the Times replies, also editorially:

South Carolina, we beg to remind our Charleston contemporary, has never elected to the Governorship a man of this type, whose shadow stretched from Boston to San Francisco. The disgrace of Mr. Hearst's election would be felt most keenly here in New York, where we know him, where he has some friends and some state in the safe and honorable administration of our public affairs. But the disaster of his election would be visited upon the whole Union. It would instantly be felt wherever men are already taking thought about 1908.

Mr. Hearst is preparing his Presidential candidacy. He has practically at his command an immense fortune, sometimes estimated at $100,000,000. He has about him men skilled in turning to his account every phase of discontent, every available class interest, every movement of political upheaval, disintegration and overthrow. He is the most dangerous demagogue with which the country has had to deal in recent years. If it were possible for him to secure an election to the Governorship in New York the country would be started by the probability that he might win the Presidency in 1908.

These are some of the reasons why we think the election of Mr. Hearst would be a disaster.

but a number of feeders are to be built into the coast country that will develop the fertile valleys of that region that are now shut off from the outside world because of the complete lack of transportation.

At meetings of stockholders and directors of the Astoria & Columbia River Railroad yesterday at the Portland offices, the building of a number of extensions was authorized in addition to the mileage announced some time ago by President Hammond himself. These feeder lines will total not less than 150 miles.

From the main line to Tillamook, branches will be built up both forks of the Nehalem River to their sources. This was definitely determined at the meetings yesterday, and the officials of the road voted to proceed with the Other branches to tap the long-neglected coast country will follow these already ordered.

The fact that a special meeting was called to authorize the necessary changes in the charter to permit of the construction of this mileage is proof that active steps are to be taken toward building the new lines at once.

Rose Must Pay His Fine.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The Supreme Court of the United States today refused to assume jurisdiction in the case of Mayor Rose, of Kansas City, Kan. A fine of $1,000 was imposed against Rose by the Supreme Court of Kansas for assuming office after he had been deposed on the charge that he failed to enforce the state liquor law. The Supreme Court's action will be to leave the sentence of the state court in effect.

McCabe, Democratic state committeeman of Albany County, announced tonight that Democratic headquarters at Albany had been seized this afternoon by certain dissatisfied Democrats of the state, headed by ex-Mayor Thomas M. Osborne, of Auburn.

The information of the alleged seizure of the headquarters was brought to this city tonight by Mr. McCabe, who commiserated it to W. R. Hearst. A hurried conference was called, which included Messrs. Hearst, Conners, McCabe and Ihmsen.

An active anti-Hearst campaign is to be made throughout the state by the dissatisfied Democrats. Ex-Mayor Osborne was one of those who, with District Attorney Jerome and other Democrats, met in conference at Albany before the Buffalo convention. The conferees were opposed to
