

CITIES CAN NOW ENACT LOCAL LAWS

Counties and Other Judicial and Municipal Districts Need Enabling Act.

U'REN GIVES HIS OPINION

Intention of Amendments was to Leave Regulation of Cities as Free as Possible From Interference by the Legislature.

OREGON CITY, Oct. 22.—(Special.)—An enabling act by the Legislature is not considered necessary to make effective the constitutional amendment adopted last June giving cities and towns power to initiate local laws; but such an act is necessary and should be passed by the Legislature to enable counties and other judicial and municipal districts to exercise power over local and special legislation. This is the opinion of W. S. U'ren, of this city, who was a member of the committee by which the final revision of these amendments was made. In discussing the subject today, Mr. U'ren said: "The amendments to the constitution adopted last June, referring to city charters and further curtailing legislative and referendum powers of the people to the legal voters of every municipality and district as to all local, special and judicial legislation, should be construed together. The word 'municipal' was used in its technical sense, including counties as well as cities. Reading them, together, it is generally agreed that they are self-operative.

Hon. W. C. Bristol, Seneca Smith, Hon. Thomas N. Green, and J. C. Yeasle formed the committee which made the final revision of these amendments. I was present at some of the meetings, though not all, and gathered from the discussion that it was the intention to leave the people of cities as nearly as possible wholly free from interference by the Legislature in their purely local city legislation, except as it might affect the criminal laws of the state. This applied to the manner of exercising the initiative and referendum, and was intended to be covered by the sentence, 'the manner of exercising said powers shall be prescribed by general law, except that cities and towns may provide for the manner of exercising the initiative and referendum powers as to their municipal legislation.'

The time within which referendum petitions must be filed after the passage of an ordinance, in which initiative petitions must be filed before a city election, the calling of a special election for city referenda, and the percentage of signatures required, as I understand the committee, were considered to be governed by the phrase, 'manner of exercising the initiative and referendum powers,' and the only limitation intended to be placed on the cities was the percentage of signatures that could be required not more than 10 per cent for the referendum on city ordinances, charters and amendments.

This seems to be the general understanding by the lawyers at Astoria, Baker City, Coquille, and perhaps other towns have already taken steps to submit amendments to their charters at their municipal election. As to the plan of revision in Astoria, Mayor Wise wrote me last summer that the Council formed a commission, consisting of one member of the Council from each ward, the Senator and Representatives elected to the next Legislature, Mayor, City Attorney, Auditor and Treasurer; three representatives of the labor interests, and five large property-owners, who are considering the question by section, and if any change is to be made a resolution must be introduced in writing, lay over for one week before final action is taken, and if any change is to be made the people at large to send in their suggestions, if they may have any, in writing, or else attend our sessions in person. All amendments receiving a majority vote of the entire commission of 19 members will be submitted to the people at the city election to be held next December, and every amendment receiving a majority of the votes of the people will be a part of our charter, and will be a great improvement over former charter tinkering, which was never done in the open, but smuggled through by means of cunning, crafty, and unscrupulous means between the residents of the community.

The committee believed it would be difficult if not impossible to draw a general enabling act for the city use of the initiative and referendum powers that would apply to the best advantage and give complete local control to all cities and towns. But if the people in every city were allowed to provide their own method they could easily amend and repeal laws which had worked out a satisfactory method for their own ordinance and charter amendments. The fundamental idea seems to be that self-government—municipal, as well as state and National—is yet in its experimental stage, and the smaller the scale on which experiments can be tried the more rapid is likely to be the general progress toward successful methods.

The local and special legislation provisions of the amendments to the constitution, notes of the Legislative Assembly applying to a district composed of a part of a county or parts of several counties, as for instance, irrigation districts, and also to a city or more counties, as for instance, judicial districts or the Port of Portland district, and two single counties, as for instance, laws regarding the regulation of county officers. An enabling act should be passed by the Legislature or by the people for the operation of the initiative and referendum powers as to such local, special and district legislation.

Such an act will probably be much the same in general as the enabling act passed for the operation of the initiative and referendum on general laws enacted by the Legislature in 1905. Amendments to the constitution will be offered in the coming Legislature, embodying the experience of the past four years, as it seems to be generally admitted that the practice of the past few years will be very much simplified and improved.

HOME FOR FEEBLE-MINDED

Bids for Sale of Land in Vicinity of Salem Are Opened.

SALLEM, Or., Oct. 22.—(Special.)—The State Board of Public Building Commissioners today opened bids for the sale of land for a home for the feeble-minded. The call for bids announced that the state desired to purchase a tract of about 100 acres within 20 miles of Salem, and invited landowners to offer their land either separately or jointly in tracts which would aggregate the required amount.

The bids opened have not been arranged according to locality, and as the character of the land and improvements cannot be readily ascertained, it is impossible to say what kind of a purchase the state can make. In general it may be said that prices ran the way from $10 to $15 per acre, and that values are placed higher than the board expected to find them. An average price is about $65 an acre, which would make the land for a home for the feeble-minded cost the state about $6,500.

Among the places offered, usually in connection with adjoining tracts, are the Mark Skiff farm, north of Lake Labish; the Gester and McCormack farms, between the Asylum farm and the Penitentiary; the Gilbert & Patterson farm, at Bojai, the Ben Hayden farm, between Pola and Independence; the Putnam farm, in the hills west of Salem; the Geer farm, at Mackley; the Timon Ford farm, south of Salem on the Sidney road; the Walt and Frank Baker farms, south of Salem on the Jefferson road, and the John Hughes Company farm, south of Salem on the river road.

HITS CHILDREN IN BUSHES

Duck Hunter Near Laurelhurst Fills Boy Full of Shot.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 22.—(Special.)—Percy Dobson, duck hunting near Laurelhurst, fired through a thicket of bushes into a group of children, seriously wounding Alton Hurley and slightly wounding his sister and Johnnie Lemus. Young Hurley may lose the sight of his right eye and physicians have picked 22 fine bird shot from his body. Eight shot were found in the girl, who has a lamb child is not so seriously injured.

The children were with a party walking with H. D. Hurley and his wife in the latter's "The children were ahead of Mr. and Mrs. Hurley down the road and disappeared from sight. A moment later several ducks rose on the water and Dobson fired, hitting the children.

When the cries of the children notified Mr. Hurley and the hunter that they were injured, Dobson ran to the shore and met Hurley as he knelt beside his son. Dobson surrendered his gun and offered to give himself up. Later he assisted in getting the three children to their homes and left his address with Hurley.

RATES AFFECT POCATELLO

IDAHO TOWN WILL BECOME A JOBBING CENTER.

Salt Lake and Ogden Lose Business From a Very Productive Center.

POCATELLO, Idaho, Oct. 22.—(Special.)—Under the new joint freight tariff adopted by Western railroads, Pocatello is granted a sweeping reduction in rates from Chicago and Mississippi and Missouri river points. The new tariff goes into effect November 24, and extends to Southeastern Idaho. The low rates now obtain from Eastern points to Salt Lake and Ogden, which have heretofore dominated this commercial territory by virtue of their lower freight rates.

The Utah common-point rate will, after November 24, extend as far west as Pocatello and as far north as Idaho Falls, and on most commodities will place this city on an equal footing with Salt Lake and Ogden, which cities have heretofore dominated this commercial territory by virtue of their lower freight rates.

The cut in freight rates is from $3.50 per 100 pounds to $2.85 from Chicago, and from $1.50 to $1.15 on first-class freight from Missouri river points. The effect of the reduction will be to constitute Pocatello the commercial distributing point for a territory bounded on the east by Keams Fork, on the south by Chicago Junction, on the north by Idaho Falls and on the west by Mountain Home.

Salt Lake and Ogden can no longer compete for the trade of this region. The effect of the announcement of the reduction was noticeable today, when local merchants announced their intention of increasing stocks on hand and entering the jobbing business. This afternoon options were taken on much vacant ground along the line of the new Short Line warehouse tract on the East Side, and it is confidently expected that several big wholesale houses and jobbing establishments will be erected within the next few weeks.

St. Johns Votes for School Bonds.

ST. JOHNS, Or., Oct. 22.—St. Johns voted today almost unanimously to bond the school district for $20,000 to erect a new school building and procure grounds in North St. Johns. Little or no interest was manifested, and the vote cast would hardly reach 25 per cent of the voting population, as taken from the June election. Although it will be several months before actual work on the structure will begin, the location of a site will be completed at once. It is imperative to have the new structure ready before the next school year, as present facilities are taxed to the utmost. At the same time it is being urged to issue the bonds to pay for the addition built to the present school building this summer.

James Dorris Calls Young Scotchman a Liar and When Struck Replies With a Bullet From a Revolver.

ENTERPRISE, Or., Oct. 22.—(Special.)

James Dorris, associate editor of the Lostine Ledger and Democrat, shot and fatally wounded "Scotty" Sims in front of the Hotel Esplan, at Lostine, last night. The trouble arose at a dance held Saturday night. Dorris and Sims became involved in a quarrel over the music furnished by the orchestra. Sims was renewed and Dorris took exception to some statement made by Sims, and called him a liar.

Sims responded by slapping Dorris in the face, and the latter immediately drew his revolver and fired, striking Sims in the abdomen. Examination by physicians showed the intestines were pierced in three places, and there is little hope for the recovery of the wounded man.

Dorris is a young man who came here recently from Portland. He has borne a good reputation. He gave himself up at once, and is held in jail, pending a hearing.

MORE POLITICS THAN RELIGION

Sarcastic Comment at Meeting of Tacoma Ministerial Alliance.

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 22.—(Special.)—There was a hint thrown out in the Ministerial Alliance meeting this morning that certain preachers have been endeavoring to use the alliance for a griststone for the whetting of political axes. Dr. J. A. Keener was in the chair and said he considered it a good opportunity to say that he thought more of the ministers should attend the meetings.

"When I came here last Spring I found a good bit of politics around and there were a lot of ministers here at every meeting. Now the politics have quieted down and we do not see the number so great."

Dr. J. P. Marlett, president of the alliance, agreed with Mr. Keener. "Since I have been in the chair," said Rev. Marlett, "I have noticed generally very few of the pastors of our central churches are here. One minister has not been here since we began, and he came with some political resolution he wanted to get through."

General Manager Blackwell states that on their return the engineers will prepare estimates of the cost of construction between Moscow and Lewiston. He gave the impression that his company will very likely decide to build. The men were in conference with Mayor Heald and other members of the city government, and expect to make a proposal to the city soon for rights of way and terminal grounds.

MRS. MACK MUCH WORSE

FAITH CURE VICTIM BECOMES VERY VIOLENT.

Mrs. Moring, Her Daughter, Still in Hypnotic State, and Follows Insane Suggestions.

HILLSBORO, Or., Oct. 22.—(Special.)—Charles Moring, of Farmington, this evening telephoned County Judge J. W. Goodin that his wife and her mother, Mrs. Mack, are much worse, the mother being violent and his wife declining to take nourishment. He asked the court for advice and wanted to know if he could send the two afflicted women over to the State of Washington, as another daughter of Mrs. Mack arrived today and wants to take her relatives home with her.

The County Judge informed him that it would be better for him to come to Hillsboro in the morning and confer with Deputy District Attorney Tongue. This he promised to do.

Mrs. Mack and her daughter, Mrs. Moring, are the two women who are the victims of the faith cure. Mrs. Mack's mania increases in violence each day. The daughter with whom Mrs. Mack lives is still in her hypnotic or cataleptic state, and follows suggestions from the mother, who is conceded to be violently insane. Mr. Moring is about distracted over the situation, and has consequently appealed to the authorities for advice.

POISON IN HER TEACUP

MRS. WAGSTAFF SAYS HER HUSBAND TRIED TO KILL HER.

ALBANY, Or., Oct. 22.—(Special.)—This afternoon in a courtroom packed to its capacity with curious spectators the trial of Edmer E. Wagstaff, accused of attempting to poison his wife with arsenic, was begun. It was a hard afternoon for court, attorneys, jury and all. The atmosphere of the courtroom was stifling, and the court did not adjourn until 6 o'clock. Numerous sharp legal clashes between attorneys for the state and for the defense punctuated the session.

The afternoon was consumed in selecting a jury, opening the case for the state and defense and the examination of Mrs. Wagstaff, the woman against whom the alleged poisoning was directed and who is the star witness for the state. The jury was selected with great care by attorneys for both sides. The state devoted considerable attention to lodge and church affiliations of the jurors. The examination of the defendant was along the line of second marriages, divorce, family infidelities, etc., indicating the line of defense. The jury was finally selected in the early part of the afternoon.

Mrs. Wagstaff was subjected to a trying examination, remaining on the witness stand for two hours. There are nearly 50 witnesses to examine yet, and the trial will probably last two days longer.

Mrs. Wagstaff says she saw her husband place rat poison in her teacup. She alleges that she found the poison by accident in her pocket at night and watched the attempt to kill her next morning.

One of the most exceptional of the remedies of known quality and excellence is the ever pleasant Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., which represents the active principles of plants, known to act most beneficially, in a pleasant syrup, in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to contribute their rich, yet delicate, fruity flavor. It is the remedy of all remedies to sweeten and refresh and cleanse the system gently and naturally, and to assist one in overcoming constipation and the many ills resulting therefrom. Its active principles and quality are known to physicians generally, and the remedy has therefore met with their approval, as well as with the favor of many millions of well informed persons who know of their own personal knowledge and from actual experience that it is a most excellent laxative remedy. # WORK WEAKENS THE KIDNEYS

Doan's Kidney Pills Have Done Great Service for People Who Work in Portland.

Most Portland people work every day in some strained, unnatural position—bending constantly over a desk, sitting on jolting wagons or cars—doing laborious housework; lifting, reaching or pulling, or trying the back in a hundred and other ways. All these strains tend to wear, weaken and injure the kidneys until they fall behind in their work of filtering the poisons from the blood and carrying them out through the jarring and jolting of riding on the cable cars. At least, that was the only way I could account for it. It was very annoying and worried me a great deal. Being induced to try Doan's Kidney Pills through the recommendations of the remedy I found quick relief and a fine cure. That was over three years ago, and there has been no return of the trouble since.
