OREGON A.O.U.W IS NOT IMPAIRED

Trouble in the East Not Felt By the Order in Oregon, Officials Say.

EACH STATE INDEPENDENT

Local Members Assert That Jurisdletion in This State Is Prosperous and Will Continue to Meet All Its Obligations.

In spite of the financial troubles of sev In spite of the financial troubles of sev-oral of the Eastern lodges of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, and conse-quent defections in the ranks, prominent officials and workers in the Oregon juris-diction of that order positively and em-phatically assert that the standing of local lodges have in no way been im-paired, and that the Oregon jurisdiction is more than ever fully equipped and prepared to take care of its obligations and members.

Within the past few months reports from Eastern jurisdictions have shown that several of them are in a bad way. In fact, the A. O. U. W. of Wisconsin has gone into bankruptcy; Indiana, New York, Ohio and several other states have York Onlo and several other states amounced their inability to meet their sleath losses, and the latest to fall into this line is the jurisdiction of Illinois. It has been admitted there that the organization in that state has been unable to be seen to pay its obligations for the mant five months and officials of the grand lodge of Illinois have had no besitancy in say-ing that the necessarily increased as-sessments have brought out loud and vigorous protests, and that many of the members have either withdrawn or threa-tened to do so.

Order Was Too Generous.

Generosity and liberality in the matter of terms of policies, together with a high death rate, is said to have been at the bottom of the financial difficulties in Illinois. Meetings of the supreme lodge of the state have recently been held in Chicago for the purpose of formulating some plan of relief and continued existence of the state organization, but so far nothing definite has been announced. Local members of the order of A. O. U. W. look upon the Illinois incident, as well as others, as the inevitable result of the recent action of the supreme lodge in making each jurisdiction practically stand on its own feet, and this action is conceded to have been of distinct advantage to the local jurisdiction. One of the prominent members of the order who, however, does not which his name to be used, said yesterday:

"Illinois is one of probably 10 or 12 jurisdictions that are now in the serious predicament of not being able to take care of their obligations, but this fin no manner affects the standing of the A. O. U. W. in Oregon. This situation may be aumined up and explained in this way; prior to the meeting of the supreme lodge of the order, held in Montreal last June, a general assessment was made on all members to cover death losses—in other of the order, held in Montreal last June, a general assessment was made on all hembers to cover death losses—in other words, if a member belonging to a New York lodge died the members of the Oregon Jurisdiction had to share in the payment of the death claim. Oregon, like many other states thought this was an injustice, since while many of the jurisdictions belong in what is termed the low rate class, that is a low death rate class, yet they were put on the same plane as the high death rate jurisdictions and consequently had to bear an unjust burden.

Each State Stands Alone.

When the supreme lodge met this matter was brought up and it was finally provided that thereafter each jurisdiction specialed that thereaster season instanction shall pay its own losses, aside from the fact that each jurisdiction would con-tribute an assessment of 15 cents per member towards a fraterial fund which could be used towards the relief of such prisdictions as could not alone fulfill their obligations.

"Yes, this has the effect of taking away "Yes, this has the effect of taking away a good deal of the national feature of the order. The only ties binding the purisdictions together now are those arising out of fraternal brotherhood and the actions of the grand lodge. These latter, however, are limited, being confined almost entirely now to the transmission of the passwords and the handling of the fraternal fund. Hitherto the supreme lodge handled the reserve fund of each fraternal fund. Hitherto the supreme lodge handled the reserve fund of each jurisdiction, but now this has been placed within the hands of the jurisdiction itself. To a very large extent the A.O. U. W. now consists of state organizations acting almost entirely as independ-

"This, of course, is a big benefit to us. Under the old way we would have had to step in and help such jurisdictions as Wisconsin and Illinois, while there is but ittle possibility of their over having to help us. Oregon is more than self-sur-porting; we have a good sized surplus on hand, it is growing constantly and we have a very low death rate."

Family Trunk Precedes Dr. Short to Coast

REV. F. BURGETTE SHORT, paster of the Taylor-Street Methodist Church, feeling run down from over-exertion in his pastoral duties, yesterday started for Genrhart to take a much-needed rest. Dr. Short is still in Portland, but his trunk is Short is still in Portland, but his trunk is now representing the Short family at Gearhart. Dr. and Mrs. Short and the baby made a flying exit from the train when it started from the Portland Union Depot, believing that their trunk ind been left behind. After they had alighted they found that they were the ones who had been left behind, and not the trunk.

They were all on board the morning train for Astoria when Dr. Short became uneasy about the trunk. He made way to the baggage car and was told that his trunk was not there. Now, that trunk contained cichtee for the baby. Admittedly, a baby without plenty of clothes is a serious charge, so when Dr. Short returned to his wife they held a hurried consultation.

They decided that the baby must have clothes, and decided to defer their trip. By this time the train for Astoria was speeding down the yurds, but Dr. Short grabbed the baby, assisted his wife in making the daring jump, and they all landed safe and sound without a scratch. Dr. Short was not in a too pleasant trains of mind when he entered the bag-gage-room at the depot and demanded to show why the trunk had not been put on the train. He was told that the baggage and its contents were speeding on toward Gearhart. The family reunion with the trunk will take place today at Gearhart.

Announcement was made yesterday that the plant of the Ross Wool Manufacturing Company at Sellwood will begin operations December I. with a force of about 40 employes. Within several months after the plant has been started the force will be increased to 75 or 100 men. The factory at Sollwood represents an investment of about $100.000, and will manufacture woolens. Thomas Ross, who is president of the company, came to Portland a year ago last April from Las Vegas, N. M., where he had engaged in the wool business for years, Las Vegas ceased to be a wool center because of the building of a new railroad, which turned the business to other cities. Mr. Ross set about to find another location, and decided upon Portland. He believes that this city is destined to be one of the greatest wool centers in the world. He at first intended to install a large wool-scouring plant. Little Girl Dies of Burns.
