Missell Chabot, a nephew cut off in the will of his uncle with $1. protested against his uncle being buried as a pauper and instated that he be given a funeral in keeping with his station in life. The neshew finally won his point over the protests of the church people, having been advised by Judge Thomas H. FOR LONGER TERMS

Superintendent Ackerman Favors Change in Present Law.

SALIEM, Or., Oct. 28.—(Special.)—That the apportionment of p bile school funds should be made upon the basis of the number of teachers employed, and not upon the number of children in the district, is one of the most important rec-ommendations in the blennial report of Superintendent of Public Instruction J. H. Ackerman, which was made public to-day. This very radical change in the plan of distribution is suggested as a meaning of embling the sparsely settled district to employ as efficient a teacher and have as many months of school during the year as the larger and more favored district as the larger and more favored district. This privilege, Superintendent Ackerman says, is one to which the smaller district is entitled. California has such a law. Among other recommendations made in the report are: That the minimum length of the school year be increased from three to five months; that the levy for school purposes be increased from $6.23 per capita, that the inheritance taxics be turned into the preducible school fund. per capita; that the inheritance taxes be turned into the irreducible school fund, and that a part or the whole of the corporation tax be turned into the common school fund to be expended each year for school purposes. In connection with the recommendation regarding the length of the school year. Superintendent Ackerman says there are too many districts satisfied to maintain school only the minimum number of months required by law.

"There is no reason why a child in a small, isolated district je not entitled to as many months of school as is the child.

In a more favorably situated district," said be, "Mere location should not be the test of the number of months school-ing to which a child is entitled." The suggestion that the rate of levy be increased is founded upon the need of more funds in order that longer terms of school may be maintained and higher salaries paid to

Upon the subject of teachers' salaries. Superintendent Ackerman says: There is no greater problem confronting the American people than that of teachers' salaries, and honce it is one that cannot and will not be settled in a day. With the increased cost of living and ever-increasing educational demand for better preparation, the regarding teaching as more and more professional, more is demanded in a sairal way, both as to living and dress, and this carries with it, to a certain degree, a demand that the teacher shall give the whole of her time to school work and her vacations to recreation.

The Pendleton Commercial Association has completed arrangements for the entertainment of the visitors while they are in the city, at Walla Walla words, the average teacher is out of employment really one best for the entertainment of the visitors while they are in the city, at Walla Walla and all weston. The day will be closed by a banguet at the Hotel Pendleton. Upon the subject of tenchers' salaries.

words, the average teacher is out of employment really one-half the time, during which her expenses must be met; and, as I have previously said, public opinion is coming to be such that she loses caste, as a teacher to a certain extent if she engages in other work in vacation time. The salary question will never be settled right until the teacher is paid a fair wage for every month in the year. Superintendent Ackerman also recommends that County Superintendents be paid salaries sufficient to warrant them in devoting all their time to their efficial ords, the average teacher is out of em-evoting all their time to their efficia utles, and that they be given clerica duties, and that they be given clerical assistance, so that some one may be in the office while the Superintendent is out visiting schools. The report says that the state course of study has been revised and as much as possible of the subject matter eliminated.

"I presume," says Superintendent Ackerman, "there is no course of study printed that goes farther in the way of printing the subjects of obsolese matter than does the Oregon State course of study and I am of the opinion that when public opinion is a little more educated along this line it will be not only feasible, but destrable, to eliminate still more."

He says that the course of study for rural schools should include elementary agriculture, and that for city schools should include manual training.

Speaking generally of educational conditions in Oregon, Superintendent Ackerman says: "I think I am not too optimistic."

Speaking generally of educational conditions in Oregon. Superintendent Ackerman says: "I think I am not too optimistic when I say that the general school conditions of the state are quite satisfactory. They have not reached the ideal condition, and they never will, but when I say they are quite satisfactory I mean that the educational forces now at work with the enthusiasm behind them, which is increasing on all sides, and with the helpful co-operation of all the school factors which now predominate, I can see mighty changes for the better in the school system of our beloved state. State Committee Gives Notice That Work Is Being Organized Leading Up to This Situation at the Coming Election.

BOISE Idaho, Oct. 28.—(Special.)—Secretary Arney, of the Democratic State Committee, gave out the following statement on behalf of the committee:

The Mormons of Idaho will be challenged as to their constitutional right to vote in Idaho. Hon Charles H. Jackson will leave today for the southern part of the state to take charge of the organisation of the work leading up to these constitutional challenges.

leading up to these constitutional chaileages. The state committee takes the view of the situation that under the sworn testimony of the leaders of the church, given in the Smoot case, no Mormon can vote under the provisions of the Idaho state constitution.
The committee's views of the situation have been augmented lately by the positive statements made in various campaign arguments by Senator Herburn, in which he has contended vigorously that the constitution was an effectual bar, without the enactment of statute, to any one voting who teaches polygamy, plural or celestial marriage, or who placed the ecclesialitical above the civil law:

The constitution of the state provides that no person can vote who practices polygamy, who teaches polygamy, or belongs to an organization that teaches polygamy. It also provides that the Legislature may make additional qualifications for suffrage. Under the last-named provision, the Legislature of 1881 provided a test oath to be taken. This barred out all who ever had taught or practiced polygamy or belonged to a church that ever had taught polygamy. and taught polygamy.

That retroactive legislative provision was removed in 1833, in yiew of the allegation that the Mormons were dealing in good faith in their manifesto abrogating polygamy. In 1836 another change was made, the constitutional provision seing removed from the elector's oath. The point now made by the Democrats is that the church, as shown by testimony of leaders, is still teaching polygamy. It is the purpose to contest the election of Borah, if Mormon votes in the Legislature make his majority, and perhaps if Mormon votes at the polls contribute to majorities for non-Mormon members of the Legislature. The election of Congressman French may be contested on similar grounds, if his majority fall within the figures of the Mormon vote.

That there is disaffection in King Country has been conceded all along, but comparatively few have believed the disaffecparatively few have believed the disaffection serious. As a matter of fact, the interest in the campaign has oeen so listless that there is absolutely no means of estimating the extent of the disaffection or of foreteiling the election result. The city election showed a fusion majority, but that is not necessarily a criterion of an independent vote in King. The city campaign was complicated by a municipal ownership sentiment that does not affect Fair politics. In addition, we country is believed to be safely Republican. Experienced country precinct managers Experienced country precinct managers have written repeatedly that they do not need help; that their districts are safely Republican. It looks as though the only uncertainty existed in the Thirty-second and Thirty-fifth districts, but there are five rather biltier Senatorial contests in progress. Senaor Piles will probably dismiss one or two of these with the conviction that the candidates can take care of themselves, but he will likely dip into at least two districts.

Democratic politicians have opened up a nasty fight on Joe Lyons, member of the House during two seesions. The fight is rather recent, and does not seem seriously to threaten his prospects. Lyons is being fought on the ground that he has opposed the direct primary, is against the local option bills, and voted for Ankeny in 1803.
