FARMER KILLED INSTANTLY

Mutilated Body of Thomas Hansen Is Picked Up 65 Feet From Spot Where He Was Eating Dinner With His Wife.

OREGON CITY, Or., Nov. 1 .- (Special.) -Thomas Hansen was instantly killed and his wife was seriously injured by the explosion of 50 pounds of giant powder that completely wrecked their home, two miles south of Macksburg, in the south end of this county, at noon today. Hansen was preparing the powder for use in blasting stumps on his farm, and was seated with his wife at the dinner table

The force of the explosion threw Hansen's badly mutilated body 25 feet way, while the wife was found in an unconscious condition 15 feet from the scene of the accident. While Mrs. Hansen's condition is considered critical, it is possible that she may recover. Coroner Holman, of this city, was notified and held an inquest, the jury finding no one to blame for the catastrophe.

By the time the Coroner had reached the scene. Mrs. Hansen had sufficiently recovered her senses to give a fairly intelligent account of the accident. She explained that her husband, upon coming to the house for dinner, placed 30 pounds of the explosive in the oven to dry, leaving a lox containing 30 pounds more be-side the stove. Mrs. Hausen is of the opinion that there was more of a fire in the stove than was supposed, a fact that was unnoticed during the eating of

The room in which the explosive was being thawed was but a little more than 10x10 feet, and, as a result of the explosion, the entire building was reduced to rollinters, particles of the building being scattered for 10 yards in every direction. That Mrs. Hansen did not share the fate of her bushand is considered miraculous. of her husband is considered miraculous. Hansen was aged about 58 years, and survived by his wife, one son and two

BOARD OF TRADE FOR RAINIER

Judge Doan Calls Meeting to Effect an Organization.

RAINIER, Or., Nov. 1.-(Special.)-Addition. Or. Nov. 1.—(Special)—Judge J. P. Doan, at the request of a number of the leading business men of the city and surrounding country, has called a meeting for November 9 at his called a meeting for November 9 at his called a meeting for November 9 at his called a meeting for the formation of a Board of Trade. It is felt that a business men's association of some kind is now a necessity in Politics that sity in Ruinier that cannot longer be de-layed, and the progressive party states that important questions will come immediately before such an organization.

Inside of the last year the population of Rainier has about doubled, new mills and factories are rising from all sides, a local telephone company is in working order, San Francisco and other capitalists are here buying lumber and looking into the possibilities of the place, a syndicate is about to ask for a franchise for an electric railway system, new enterprises are daily discussed, and it is generally concluded that some representative body must take the situation in hand at once.

W. C. (Al) Lee is getting out the piling for his new dock, which he says will be independent of the millowners. The waterfront and dockage question is getling to be one of the most important matters now in the city. All the water-front has been bought up or taken under option by a few people, who may at any time combine and have all the smaller shipping people at their mercy. Lee says lie will prevent this. Those and other matters can later on come before the matters can later on come before the Board of Trade, who may also advise the Council or many of the questions that may arise and come before them.

TAX EXEMPTIONS ALLOWED

Washington County Goes Against Supreme Court Becision.

SALEM, Gr., Nov. 1.—(Special.)—Washington County has allowed tax exemptions this year, notwithstanding the plain decision of the Supreme Court that such exemptions are unconstitutional. There is every reason to believe that as a consequence there will be interested. every reason to believe that as a consequence there will be difficulty in collecting taxes in Washington County if anyone wishes to take the trouble to refuse payment and stand the cost of litigation. In an injunction suit brought by a New Hampshire man against the officers of Klamath County the Supreme court held that there is no valid authority for the allowance of an exemption and the officers were enjoined from granting exemptions because such action would be an injustice to property-owners who are

The assessment summary from Washington County was received today at the bilice of the Secretary of State. It shows a total valuation of $12,043,725, from which exemptions to the amount of $650,005 are deducted, leaving taxable property to the amount of $11,232,696. If the tax rolls of that county have been so keep that the smooth of $11,325,600. If the tax rolls of that county have been so kept that the levy can be made upon all the property, the County Court and the several municipalities and school districts may yet remedy the eiror by making the levy upon all property, ignoring the exemptions noted by the Assessor. Unless this is done it seems probable that the selections to the country of the is done it seems probable that the col-lection of the whole tax could be en-joined upon the ground that it is not such an equal tax as is required by the

NORTH YAKIMA, Wash., Nov. 1.—
(Special.)—H. F. Nichols, receiver of the North Yakima land office, died suddenly, at about 5 o'clock this evening, in the office of C. H. Hinsman, in the First National Bank building. Mr. Nichols had been off duty for two or three weeks as the result of congestion of the brain, but for a few days he was on duty.

Mr. Nichols was past 40 years old and left a wife and two children. He was appointed to the office here last Summer, in the place of H. V. Hinman, who died while in office. Mr. Nichols was for years connected with the Northern Pacific. He had charge of the station at Chebalis,

FAVORS A DEMURRAGE LAW.

Senator-Elect Johnson Would Make Railroads Take Own Medicine.

CORVALLIS, Or., Nov. 1.—(Special.)— Senator-elect A. J. Johnson, of this city, favors a law requiring railroads to pay demurrage when they fail to supply cars to shippers within a reasonable time. "The shipper has to pay demurrage to the rallroad," he said today. "If the car isn't loaded within 24 hours after it is placed at the disposal of the shipper a demurrage fee is exacted, and the same is true if freight is not removed from a loaded car er a station warehouse within 24 hours. There is even a demurrage charge for leaving baggage for more than 24 hours, notwithstanding the fact that the passenger sometimes fails to get his trunk week when he or she is in dire need of it.

"I see no reason why a shipper should be answerable for delays, and the railroad not be. What is a fair rule for one is fair for the other, and I am in favor of a law to make the railroad companies pay demurrage when they fail to provide cars within a reasonable time."

Mr. Johnson is building a brick building for a new bank that he is to establish in this city. Operations on the structure have been paralyzed for two weeks because of the nonarrival of granite from California, due to the car shortage.

When young Larkins was captured last night his clothing and bedding were thoroughly searched, but nothing was found to indicate that he or his partner. Lake, who was killed during the fight, were implicated in the store robberies which occurred Tuesday night.

Searching for Burglars.

The Sheriff and possa were hunting for the men who entered the Kennewick store, when they were fired upon by Lake and Larkins, which naturally leads the authorities to believe that these men are wanted somewhere for a serious crime. It is also believed that these men were hanging around Kennewick with the in-tention of holding up the Northern Pacific train, as they were well supplied with rifles and pistols. Then men of the bridge crew who are working near that city declare that their rallroad velocipede was stolen the night of the robbery by men answering the descriptions of Lake and Larkins. Lake was a man about 30 years of age and had evidently been keeping the 16-year-old boy with him by promises of big boodle. It is said by the bridge men who witnessed the shooting yesterday afternoon that Lake fired but one shot, after which be fell from a wound received from one of the officers, after which the boy. Larkins, continued firing until he had shot every one of the officers.

Larkins' Story of Shooting.

around his neck. Threats of a Lynching.

Several hundred armed men were gathered in town and were prepared for a lynching, but the deputy Sheriff piaced a strong guard of determined men around the jail, and when it was announced that Foster Perry had died, the crowd quieted down, as they had apparently seen all the bloodshed they wanted for one day. Soon after 2 o'clock this morning, the attention of Officers Croner and Purdy was called to the side of the juil by the was called to the side of the jail by the former's dog, which was watching intently through the iron fence, and cocking its head from side to side, showing so much interest that the officers began investigating. It was so dark that they could not see anything at first, but they could hear scratching and other sounds within the walls, and, as their eyes became used to the darkness, they caught sight of a small hole through the outer wall, which was rapidly getting larger. Officer Croner stood guard while Purdy rang up Sheriff Fisk, and Deputy Hammond, who lives within two blocks of the jail, arrived in a few minutes, and fearing that the prisoners might make their escape, he and Croner entered the jail, where they found but two of the 11 inmates within their cells. Hugh Saxon, the 15-year-old boy held for the murder of the old soldier at Cottage Grove, and of the old solder at Cottage Grove, and Debois, charged with abduction, were working hard to complete the removing of bricks from the jail wall. They had worked out a clean-out hole two feet square in the first three walls and a hole over 12 inches square through the outside

Sheriff Fish soon arrived and put the prisoners into their cages. He left a deputy on guard until daybreak, when repairs on the jail were begun.

At first an attempt was made to free young Reeves, the boy accused of the murder of the old soldier at Cottage Grove, from complicity in the plot, but now all agree that "the whole bunch was workin" at it." The active part of the plan began some

The active part of the plan began some time yesterday afternoon, when the dungeon door was taken off its binges and used as a pry in breaking off two bars from each of three cells, so that they could be removed at will, making a passage large enough for the prisoners were confined in these three separate cells, which were locked separately at night, but which were thrown together in the afternoon, giving a better chance for exercise.

After the steel bars were broken of the breaks covered with soap, so that nothing unusual was noticed by the Sheriff or deputy, who were in the jail at 9 o'clock last night. The bars are heavy triple steel, such as a saw would have no effect upon. By removing two, there was a large enough hole to crawl through

After geiting outside of the cells, the iron shutters were removed from the inside of the windows and were jabbed into the brick and cement wall until enough of the wall had been removed to allow the removal of one brick at a time, after which the work to the outer wall was a comparatively easy task. All during the night the prisoners were quite noisy, in the leope that their voices would conceal the work of the diggers at the wall.

The prisoners had no money, nor had is for the escape, except that they had carefully rolled up all the bedding to be found about the jail, made it into packs that would go through the hole in the wall, and strapped it ready to carry on their backs. Everything was in readiness, Debois, who was to go through the first, said that they would have been over the iron fence inclosing the jail yard in less than five minutes if it had not been

The Scientific Treatment of Weakness

Dosing the system with powerful stimulants and tonics in an effort to restore functional vigor can have but one final result: The condition is rendered worse than before. "Weakness" is merely an indication of a low form of inflammation in the prostate gland, and this inflammation is but aggravated by stimulating remedies that excite temporary activity. I employ the only scientific and fully effective treatment for "weakness," which effects a permanent cure by restoring the prestate gland to a sound and healthy state. I obtain complete results in every case I treat. Interesting literature and a beautiful engraved
