IRRIGATION FOR -WESTERN OREGON

Government Proposes to Make Fertile Valley Still More Fertile.

LAND FOR TRIAL

Will Conduct Experimental Stations at Eugene, Corvallis and Hillsboro. Believes Valley Farmers Will Make Irrigation General.

So enthusiastle has the Government become over the wonders that can be ac complished by a little water judiciously distributed over farming lands that it be lieves irrigation would make the rich soil of the Williamette Valley produce greater yields, particularly during July and August, usually termed the dry months. To ascertain exactly what results can be ob-tained along this line, the Government will send experts to this valley next season and make extensive experiments with Three stations will be established by these experts—one at Eugene, another at Corvallis and a third at Hillsboro. At each point 15 acres have been secured. On each of these little farms will be dug a large ditch, known as the main water-way. Smaller ditches will be run from the main canal to every portion of the land. Then a large pumping plant, some-what similar to those used in the sub-urbs of large cities to supply the resi-lents with detailing water with be placed urbs of large cities to supply the residents with drinking water, will be placed in the center of the tract. It will then be an easy task to get water all over the land and to keep crops growing thriftily throughout the Summer season.

When it has been demonstrated that the plan is not only feasible, but profitable, the Government hopes to induce the farmers of the Williamette Valley to undertake irrigation in earness. If they still show a disinclination to do so, there is a possibility that Congress will be called possibility that Congress will be called upon to grant an appropriation for expen-diture in the construction of irrigation canals through the whole length and breadth of the Valley.

Government Agent Here.

Arthur P. Stover, an irrigation engineer with the Department of Agriculture, has devoted his entire time since early in August inquiring into the matter. He will leave this morning for Washington to make his report. He states that his investigations have led him to believe that irrigation will do great things for the Williamsette Valley and to convince the Willametre Valley, and to convince the farmers he is right in his conclusions he declares that the experimental stations will be established next Spring. The work will be started sufficiently early, so that the land can be irrigated in July and

The agricultural college at Corvallis will assist in Irrigating the IS-acre tract at Corvallis," said Mr. Slover, "but those at Eugene and Hillsboro will be looked after allogether by experienced men representing the Government. We will employ identically the same system used for watering the largest areas of land, with the exception of the manner in which the water supply will be secured. Instead of having reservoirs or tapping large streams, as done in the arid regions, we will have pumping plants. The ditches will be built in such a way that water can be distributed over every foot of the land.

Many people entertain the false theory that irrigation is of no benefit to a sec-tion of the country like Western Oregon, where the annual rainfall is so heavy. where the annual rainfall is so heavy. But right there is where they are mistaken. When I was here in August there were many fields brown and barren looking. The ground was parched and the crops, which should have been growing, looked half dead. A little water at that period would have changed their that period would have changed their appearance most wonderfully. It is safe to say that had the crops been watered then the yield would have been doubled! "The idea is to get the owners of the land interested in irrigation and prove to them what can be done with it during the dry season of the year. As a usual thing, I am told, there are no green pastures here in July and August. No hay, or any vegetation, can be pro-

Farms Will Double in Value.

Mr. Slover also said that if the farmers would take hold of this project as they should they would soon double the they should they would soon double the value of their property. He asserts that it would no doubt prove to be one of the best business moves that they could possibly make and that it would be of inestimable value to this entire section of the country and the Pacific Const. Asked if the Government is likely to fester the mavement in the event that the owners of the land did not see their way clear to go ahead with the venture, he replied: "As to that I cannot say definitely, but it may come to that. I think, how-ever, when the result of our experimental work is seen next season that the farmers will lose no time in getting together and outlining a plan for the irrigation of the entire valley. The experimental stations will be so situated that all of them will have an opportunity to visit the little irrigated farms and see for themselves what can be done with water. It is safe to say there will be a great contrast in the crops growing on the irrigated land which we will have charge of and the adjoining farms. There could

Nottingham informed Councilman Kellaher that he was opposed to filling yest of Union avenue by dump cars be-ause of the cost, but favored filling by a dredge. Mr. Keilaher said that would be all right provided there be no delay, and suggested that he put in a bid to fill with river material and give a bond that it be completed the same time the fill east of Union avenue is completed. NEW STUMBLING BLOCK

Property-Owners Object to Filling in of East Stark Street.

Some of the property-owners on East Stark street and the business men of Central East Portland are concerned over the possible defeat or delay of the improvement between East Seventh and East Water street. Apparently the improvement had struck clear sailing, but C. W. Nottingham, who owns 169 feet on East Stark and has just completed a large building to be occupied as a packing house, declares that he is opposed to the fill being made under the present proceedings, and suggests that the improvement be divided at Union avenue, the old elevated road between Union avenue and East Water street to be repaired and the large must be the energing of the country by Americans, I. Oregon Railroads Virtually Unable to Get Cars.

SHIPPERS ARE DESPERATE

Situation, Instead of Improving Now Is Worse Than Ever-Little Rolling Stock Being Delivered to Harriman Lines.

Although everything is being done that can be done by the Oregon railroads to relieve the congestion, the car shortage that has embarrassed shippers for the past few months has reached an acute stage. It is now worse than ever before stage. It is now worse than ever before the County jail by Governor Chambertain at the instance of a woman who said she wished to marry him. The wo-Although everything is being done that

There are no cars available to transport this year's crop to tidewater and grain exporters are desperate. Sawmill men see ruin staring them in the face, for unless cars can be had to carry their products to market, shutdowns and heavy losses are unavoidable. Hop dealers are anxious to have their hops hauled East and merchants generally are at their wits' end for transportation.

The supply of cars is strikingly inadequate. There are two sources from which the Oregon lines of the Harriman system secure empty cars. These are the delivery of "empties" by the Southern Pacific at Ashland or by the Oregon Short Line at Huntington. Owing to the freight congestion at San Francisco, there are no deliveries now being made at Ashland. The cars turned over to the Short Line at Huntington are so few in number that they fall to supply half the demand.

they fall to supply half the demand. Other railroads connecting with the Harriman lines are utterly at the mercy of the ailied roads, Eastern roads which have no lines to Portland, but yet do considerable freight business here, must take what cars the Harriman roads are disposed to give them. Should an empty car belonging to a railread outside of this state come here, agents of that road cannot claim it, as the disposition of the car rests entirely with the Harriman line bringing it into the state, and if so disposed the Harriman agent can spot it for their own loading, refusing the car to the

With their officials constantly worried by anxious shippers, the Harriman lines are not likely to supply other roads with cars when their own needs are so pressing. Roads which altogether depend on the Harriman lines for rolling stock because of their connections with them, are cause of their connections with them, are placed in a decidedly unpleasant postition.

"The car situation is the worst I have ever known it to be," said W. C. Mc-Bride, general agent for the Denver & Rio Grande, yesterday, "It seems to be a result of too much prosperity. We are unable to get cars to supply shippers and I do not know what we are going to do to relieve matters."

to relieve matters."
"The condition is just this," said W. E. Compa, assistant general freight agent for the Harriman lines, "much more freight is hauled East and South than comes West. The difficulty is in getting these cars back. With deliveries of 'empties' at Ashland virtually at an end and the number of cars, turned over to assist and the number of cars turned over to us at Huntington far short of the demands of traffic in this state, we are naturally unable to furnish rolling stock. The cor dition is one beyond our control. Every-thing possible is being done to ease the

The lack of cars from other parts of the Harriman system is easily explained by the fact that there, too, the demands of the shipper are constantly for more cars. Throughout the Middle West there is said to be a greater shortage of cars than in the Paculo Northwest and no great relief can be expected from there. ABERDEEN, Wash., Nov. 9.—(Special.)

ROMANCE COMES TO GRIEF

and the situation is said by those in a position to know, to be the most damaging to business in the annals of Oregon railroading. Cars are well nigh impossible to secure. Business men interested in the moving of all kinds of freight are clamoring for cars, but to no purpose. No relief is in sight.

Yesterday ended the affair. Stevens went back to jail, and no pardons will come his way this time, not even if half the sentimental women in Portland want to marry him. He was convicted of having stellar stellar sections of participations.

Miss Nellie Sanders, residing on Firs street near Madison, wished to mail som letters at 12:30 o'clock yesterday after-noon, but instead of slipping them into the slot in one of Unele Sam's green boxes, she tackled a fire alarm box by mistake and soon had all kinds of ap-paratus thundering to box 126, at First ent and telephoned to Captain of Police Moore, asking what action should be taken. He was instructed to see Assist ant Fire Chief Laudenklog and ascertain his wishes in the matter. Chief Lau klos, after hearing Miss Sanders' planation and learning she had pulled in the alarm by mistake, ordered her released with a good-humored lecture on the difference between fire alarm and mall boxes. Miss Sanders was hysterical over her mistake, and lost no time in hurrying away from the large crowd that had gathered.

There have been many alarms turned in by men who mistook the fire boxes for mail boxes, but this is the first case of the kind on record in which a woman has figured.

I did not take much notice of it at first, but it began to get worse all the time, and then I began to get uneasy and tried all kinds of baths and other remedies that were recommended for skin humors; but I became worse all the time. My hair began to fall out and my scalp itched all the time.
