Commerce Commissioner Tells Why Railroads Suffer Car Famine.

Cannot Believe Prosperity Will Last. Commission Will Make No Wholesale Rate Reductions—Legalize Traffic Associations.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Commissioner Charles A. Prouty, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, while in Chicago today on his way to Milwaukee, where an investigation of the elevator situation will be made, took issue with President James J. Hill, of the Great Northern, and other railroad officials who recently have declared that the Government's rate policy tends to frighten investors away from railroads and makes it impossible to build roads from making adequate provision for handling the country's traffic. In an interview Mr. Prouty said: "I came on the Commission in 1897, when business was just beginning to revive. Almost ever since then business has grown better and traffic heavier. The roads have been built, and the Government has acted accordingly. This is the reason why traffic has increased so much faster than the facilities for handling it. "I believe the tendency of rates ought to be downward as traffic grows denser, but the Commission contemplates no wholesale reduction."

Regarding a recent report that President Roosevelt would recommend at his annual message legislation legalizing the various railroad traffic associations, Mr. Prouty said: "I have no information that the President will make any such recommendation, but personally I am in favor of such legislation. There is no doubt the existence of associations violates the anti-trust law. Nevertheless they serve a useful purpose, and if their proceedings were made public and the Commission had supervision of their acts, the associations would be robbed of their power for harm."

CALL REICHMAN DOWN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The case of Captain Carl Reichman, of the Seventeenth Infantry, has been brought to the attention of the military authorities and it is stated that the officer will be called on to explain his alleged infraction of the "code of war," which Captain Reichman is now with a regiment at Havana, and it is alleged that he recently wrote a letter to a friend in New York, in which he subsequently published, in which he is said to have charged that he had been denied membership in the general staff because of his German birth, and also that he had been otherwise discriminated against by his superiors in the army because he is not a native American.

FLINGS BABY INTO OCEAN

Governess on Liner Becomes Insane and Drowns Immigrant's Child.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—On the arrival of New York today of the steamer Nieuw Amsterdam, of the Holland-American line, from Amsterdam and Boulogne, report was made to the police that, while the vessel was in midocean, Rosa Naegle, a Swiss governess, in a fit of temporary insanity, grasped a baby from a crowd of children at play on the deck and threw it overboard. Only the prompt interference of the officers of the vessel prevented other passengers led by the mother of the child, from inflicting serious injury upon the crazed governess. The steamer was stopped and a search was made for the infant's body, but it was not recovered.

Miss Naegle, after throwing the child into the sea, ran about, uttering inarticulate cries. She was locked up in the ship's hospital. The mother of the child, Mrs. Gavowski, who, with her three children, was on her way from Russia to join her husband in Fargo, N. D., was prostrated over the loss of her baby. Miss Naegle is a native of Berne, Switzerland, and has served as governess with several New York families. She boarded the vessel at Amsterdam.

Common sense is just as necessary (even more so) in medicine as in business or the affairs of every-day life. People are getting to know more than they used to. Not so long ago, it was the fashion to make all sorts of claims for a medicine, and wind up by asking the reader to go to a druggist and buy a bottle. People won't stand for that kind of thing now. They want proof, tangible proof. They want to try the remedy first and if they find it to be what is claimed, they will be glad enough to go and buy it.
