Land Locator Tells How Cattlemen Acquire Government Land.

ALL AGREE TO SELL CLAIMS

Nebraska Landgrabbers Shown to Be on Par With Oregon Brand in Contempt for Law and Oaths.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 30 .- An effort wi be made today by the defense in the Richards-Comstock land fraud trial in the United States District Court to di credit one of the Government witnesse Irving D. Hull, who announced himse as a professional land locator. It was claimed by the defense that Hull's testi mony was given in exchange for his im-munity from prosecution on charges in connection with the land fraud cases Hull admitted having been arrested and bound over to the grand jury by a Uni-ted States Commissioner, but said no indictment was found against him and that he was not promised immunity.

Hull's testimony developed an agreement between himself and Thomas M. Huntington to secure soldiers' filings. The soldiers were to be given $300 for their land after having proved up. Preparatory to final proof they were to lease the land to Comstock, and Huntington was to get $100 for each lease, and out was to get $100 for each lease, and out of this $100 the expenses and improvements were to be paid. When final proof was completed the consideration for each section was to be $500. Three hundred dollars of this was to go to the soldier and the other $300, which included the lease money, was to be divided between Huntington and James Hull, a brother of the witness.

Hull testified to meeting Huntington at Norfolf about the middle of June, 1899. "We talked about securing old He said: "We talked about securing old soldiers to file on government land. He wanted me to get all I could and have the men on the land the day the Kinkaid aw went into effect. He said arrangements had been made whereby he could place all the filings he could get. He preferred soldiers who had the longest service in the army, because they could prove up soonest. He said he had a talk with my brother, James C. Hull, a few with my brother, James C. Hull, a few with my brother, James C. Hull, a few days before, and, I being an old soldier, thought I would get other old soldiers to file better than he. He had a man named Comstock who could place filings. He agreed that the soldiers were to go not to file land myke a lease of 50 out to file land myke a lease of 50. out to the land, make a lease of it, and when it was made out he would pay $169, the filing expenses to be taken out of the lease money and the balance of the proceeds of the $100 would go to Huntington and my brother.

"The lessees were to put the improvements on the land. I was to tell our men that when they were to that, when they proved up, they were to get $300 for the land. There was a perfect understanding that, when they proved up, they were to sell the land for $500. Huntington said that he had seen Comstock and made arrangements for these fillings, and would take all he could see fillings, and would take all he could get, and we would make lots of money out

I paid the expense of the entrymen out to Gordon, but the hotel expenses were paid by some one else. I was afterward reimbursed for the expense I had advanced. I took a number of soldiers down from Gordon to file." In cross-examination the defense tried to develop a motive for Hull's testimony James C. Hull of Gordon, Neb., fol-lowed, his testimony in the main corrob-orating that of his brother.

President Receives Messages Approving Discharge of Negroes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 .- Scores of washington, Nov. 30.—Scores of telegrams and letters have been re-ceived by President Roosevelt com-mending his course in dismissing with-out honor the members of three companies of the Twenty-fifth Infantry some of whom were engaged in the trouble at Brownsville, Tex. They come mostly from the North and include many of the persons who served as officers and privates during the Civil War and who have served with negro troops.

It is expected that, as a result of the criticisms of the President which have been made, a resolution will be introduced in Congress calling for all the information in the War Department together with the President's action in the case. Meanwhile any further statement from the President on the case is said at the White House to be very unlikely.

Exposure Aggravates Suffering, but Facts Grow Worse as Stolypin Pushes Inquiry.

ST. PETERSBURG. Nov. 30 .- Az a re sult of the investigation which the press campaign and public indignation have ompelled the ministry to make into the Lidval contract for the purchase of grain intended for famine relief, in which As-sistant Minister of the Interior Gurko is alleged to be involved, the sufferings of the stricken population of the Volga provinces have been greatly augmented. on account of the disappearance of Lid-val, the chief grain buyer, in the face of threatened proceedings, the purchase and shipment of the sorely needed grain have been suspended, and considerable time must elapse before new contracts can be drawn up can be drawn up,

Further disclosures increase the grav-ity of M. Gurko's action in awarding the contract to Lidval. Governor Alexand-drovski, of Penza Province, who has been mentioned as one of Lidval's sponsors, says he never heard of the man until he received orders, through M. Gurko's department, to purchase grain only through Lidval. It also developed that the profits of the deal were even greater than at rst supposed.

The Zemsivo convention of the neighboring province of Tula was able to pur chase grain for 6 1-3 cents per bushel be low Lidval's contract price, equivalent to over $400,000 on the whole contract. Princes Gavoff and Orbelinani, repre-senting the Zemstvo bureau of famine re-

DRAMATIC SCENE IN COURT

Leader of Great Strike Taken by Surprise When Others Accused Plead Guilty and Turn State's Evidence.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30 .- The dissensions which for the last year have prevailed in the ranks of the teamsters union here today were carried into the trial of Cornelius P. Shea, who, in company with 16 other men, is on trial for alleged conspiracy in connection with the great teamsters' strike of June 1905. Albert Young, former president of the teamsters' union; William Kelly, business agent of the coal teamsters' un-ion, and William Murphy, said to have been a member of the wrecking crew during the strike, withdrew their pleas of not guilty and entered pleas of guilty. All of the men declared their intention of turning state's evidence The incident caused great excitement in the courtroom and took the other defendants completely by surprise. Shea and Young had for years been close friends and nad worked through a number of strikes side by side. Since the last convention of the teamsters' union, however, they have been op

"Your honor, I desire to give notice that I herewith enter my appearance as counsel for the following named de-

"Albert Young, Willam Kelly and Michael Murphy."

The attorneys for the defense showed their surprise at this announcement, and a moment later, when it was an-nounced that all three men desired to enter pleas of guilty, they were for a time taken completely aback. Presi-dent Shea turned in his chair and stared flercely at Young, who returned his look with an indifferent stare. Outgrowth of Fend. The trouble between Albert Young and Cornelius P. Shea resulted from the effort made by the former to se-cure the presidency of the Interna-tional Teamsters' Union. He represent ed an element in the union that was opposed to Shea and dissatisfied with his methods of conducting the Chicago strike. Shea was re-elected and Young then organized a rival organization, which is known as the United Teamsters of America. Since the creation of the latter body there has been bitter strife between teamsters and assaulti and fights on the streets have occurred.

When court convened in the afternoon the defense renewed its efforts to obtain a delay. It was declared by the attorneys for the defense that the action of Young, Kelley Murphy and Schultz in changing their pleas had so taken the defense by surprise that it was impossible for the de-fense to proceed. Judge Ball overruled the request for the defense and ordered the trial to proceed. The afternoon was taken up by Assistant State's
