REFUSE TO RAISE THEIR SALARIES

Congressmen Set a Striking Example of Self-Denial.

AFRAID TO FACE PEOPLE

House Votes More Salary to Vice-President and Cabinet, but Refuses to Take Slice of Pie.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Dec. 14.-But for the cowardice of 100 members of Coneress, the House today would have adopted the amendment to the legislative appropriation bill increasing the salaries of Senators and Representatives from $5000 to $7500 per annum. Practically every man who voted against the increase did so from fear that his vote would react and result in his defeat two years hence, and nearly every man who voted negatively saw a grab in the legislation proposed. The legislation the legislation proposed. The legislation was entirely meritorious. The three Congressmen from Washing-ton voted for the increase. Binger Heron voted for the increase. Binger Hermann voted against it, but he would not be a beneficiary, as he would have been two years in retirement by the time the increase became effective. French of called home by the illness of his wife.

Representative Jones of Washington today introduced a bill proposing to increase by 29 per cent the salaries of all civil service employes of the Government on July 1 next. n July I next.

The first salary amendment to the los lists salary amendment to the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill today was moved by Littauer of New York and was as follows:
"On and after March 4, 1907, the compensation of the Speaker of the House of Representatives and Vice-President of the United States, shall be at the rate of $12^o$.

United States shall be at the rate of $12,-

By a vote of 214 to 51 the amendment was adopted, the opposition failing to secure votes enough to have the ayes and noes called.

Littuuer also introduced an amendment increasing the salaries of the mem-bers of the President's Cabinet to $12,000 each, effective on and after March

On division, the amendment was adopted 204 to 60, the opponents of the measure failing again to secure votes enough to have the ayes and noes called.

Littauer also offered an amendment increasing the salaries of Senators, Representatives in Congress and Delegater.

resentatives in Congress and Delegates from territories to $7500 per annum.

On a rising vote, after considerable debate, the amendment was defeated by a vote of 135 to 161. On an aye and no vote the House refused to increase the salaries of its members. The result was:

Ayes, 167; noes, 188.

After disposing of the salary question the House passed the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill.

NEED SHIPS FOR AMMUNITION Admiral Mason Says Warships Cannot Carry Enough. WASHINGTON, Dec. H .- Declaring that in the design of vessels of the battle flect, the space and weight assigned to am-munition has been so restricted that the iltions of battle, would be expended in ess than an hour, Rear-Admiral Mason, Chief of the Bureau of Ordnance, in his annual report press the building of two vessels of considerable size, one on the Atlantic and one on the Pacific Coast, devoted exclusively to the carriage of ammunition, and he states that ultimately there should be one of these vessels with

The lessons drawn from the war with Spain, Admiral Mason says, lead him to also recommend the equipping of an auxiliary vessel for use as a machine shop and store vessel with the fleet. In explaining his estimates for a considerably increased appropriation for target prac-tice, Admiral Mason calls attention to the fact that he anticipates there will be in full or partial commission during the fis-cal year 1908, 24 battleships, 12 first-class cruisers, 96 second and third-rate vessels, 60 torpedobouts, and 15 auxiliaries, making a total of 177 vessels. This, he says, rep. resents an increase of 28 vessels over the present itseal year.

Special attention is called to the batteries of the Iowa, Brooklyn and other vessels, and Admiral Mason says that unless they are equipped with modern guns, mounts and sights they can no longer be considered efficient vessels and fit for service. On the subject of armor, it is service. On the subject of armor, it is stated that the standard of quality re-quired by the bureau is still met in a most satisfactory manner, while experi-ments with high explosives such as bursting charges for shells have pro-gressed far enough to justify the expectathat such an explosive can be adopted in the near future.

Guilty of Robbing Aged Woman.

J. S. McNally was convicted of one of the meanest actions ever revealed before a court in Judge Gamenbein's depart-ment yesterday. The fellow was found guilty of having stolen the furniture which a woman 80 years of age utilized in making her meager living. The fur-niture adorned a small room in the home of Mrs. S. Ingate, on Glisan street, Mc-Nally rented the room for $1.50 a week, and after occupying it ten days, quietly took an expressman and a furniture dealer to the place and sold everything in the apartment, even taking the carpet from the floor. He was given a jury trial before Judge Gantenbein, ten of the jurors being the same that served in the Murray-Whitney murder case. The verdict of mults was referred. The verdict of guilty was returned after two hours of deliberation. Sentence will be passed during the next few days.

would never be called a jovial man; he is rather inclined to be gruff. He was discussing his resolution on the negro troop question, when he alluded to the resolution of similar purport introduced by Senator Foraker. He violated all precedents by presenting his resolution to the Senate before the President's message had been received, because he wanted to be first in the field and hoped to reap political benefit thereby. When Mr. Penrose presented his resolution, Mr. Foraker laid his before the Senate, with the explanation that he had not intended doing so until the day in his speech Mr. Penrose alluded to the "anguished tones" of Mr. Foraker when he presented his resolution. Mr. Foraker understood Mr. Penrose to say "angry tones," but to be sure he rose and interrupted Mr. Pen-rose. Mr. Penrose ignored the Ohio Senator, and kept on talking. Finally the Vice-President intervened and asked

Mr. Penrose if he would yield.

"I will be through in a minute," he said peevishly, "and then the Senator from Ohio can have the floor." It was such an impolite retort as might have been expected from Mr. Penrose, But later on Mr. Foraker made his speech, and chanced to make a cutting remark that aroused Mr. Penrose. Jumping to his feet, the Pennsylvania Senator at-tempted to break in. With a sarcastic smile, Mr. Foraker turned to Mr. Pen-
