Lumber Rates From Sound to ably turn it over to the town San Pedro $10.50 Thousand.

$10 TO SAN FRANCISCO

Heavy Profits in the Business, One Schooner Netting $10,000 to Its Owners From Single Yoyage. Forty Coasters Building.

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 3.—(Special.)— The highest lumber charter rates ever known on the Pacific Coast have just been quoted from Puget Sound points to ports in California. Despite this new advance, though, the fight among the cargo mills for carriers to handle the traffic offered to the South is sharp for it is almost impossible to move all the lumber ordered.

Rates on steamships and steam schooners have been advanced to $10.50 a 1000 feet for the run from Puget Sound to San Pedro. On schooners and salling ships the rate is made $9.50 a 1000 feet. Steamers ask $10 for the run to San Francisco and salling ships are quoting $2.50 a 1000. Forty vessels, designed for the lumber trade, are building in Northern shipyards, but none of these can be gotten into com-mission within three months' time. In the meantime high charter rates are being paid to any boat offering. A recent voyage of the schooner Wilbur Smith to San Francisco, netting $10,000 ustrates the profits made.

Crossed River on Salmons' Backs. OAK POINT, Wash., Jan. 2 - (To the Editor.)—In looking over an old memorandum kept by the late A. S. Abernethy, of this part of the country. I note that June I, 1850, he makes the record of the arrival of Mr. Cooper, from Cooper's Point, a few miles below Oak Point, that Mr. Cooper informed him that yesterday he was invited across the river to Mr. and Mrs. Barichlo's 5-o'clock tea on Wallace's Island; that the salmon were so thick in pulling across the river that when he got into mid-stream he had to get out of the skiff and walk on the backs of the salmon, and pull his skiff along after was ice in the river.

Now, the Legislature will soon meet, and I hope that it will pass a law to protect the salmon, and hope that Robert Farrell, of your city will be appointed on the committee on fisheries, and will take the same in-terest in the salmon industry that his father did in the Bow and Arrow family when he was sent out here in early days as a missionary amongst them. Then we will have as many salmon in a few years as people must have had in the early 50s, when Cooper crossed the Columbia on their backs.

"There is no industrial crisis imminent." Mr. Gould concluded, "and while the market has declined recently, it is a temporary but healthful reaction."

The ad-dress was the usual radical discussion of socialistic principles and included the cusomary arraignment of the press of the ountry, from a socialistic standpoint, as an agency dominated by capitalistic classes and subversive of their interests. The press of the country was credited with having a gigantic power in shaping influences and the speaker confessed that the present-day practices and commercial oms justified and warranted the poll, pursued by the publisher. "The s is not plastic to our uses, as Socialists," the speaker asserted, "but is abso. lutely prostituted to a distortion and sup-pression of everything that is intended to enlighten people regarding socialism." Recognizing the power of the press for disseminating general information and generating public opinion, the speaker de-clared that it is imperative that the Socialists, in keeping with their growth, establish a publication and maintain the same as a vehicle through which to in-terpret their position.
