Fanatics Seeking to Convert Policeman

Patrolman Wanless Made the Object of Special Prayers by Members of Fire' Cult Without Avail.

THE "Torqueus of Fire" fanatics, holding forth in nightly religious hyacinth at 333 Second street, have set themselves the task of converting the policeman on the beat. Patrolman Wanless, who has been keeping hoodlums from disturbing the services during the past three weeks, is the object of their designs. He has been the subject of special prayer services and of persistent supplications on the part of several sisters of the faith. The brethren of the cult do not seem to care much whether he is converted or not. While attending the howling prayer service Tuesday night, Patrolman Wanless was openly asked by an elderly woman to step up to the altar of Christ and repent of his sins. She had evidently concluded he was impressed with their services from the fact that he is in the habit of removing his helmet while in attendance, and does not laugh at their insane antics—a performance that is vastly more humorous to the average person than the studied contortions of some vaudeville clown.

Sergeant Baty and Detective Hawley, of the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society, were also the subject of special prayer services Monday night. Mrs. J. L. Crawford,

THREE DIVORCES GRANTED

Judge Sears Hears Complaints of Trio of Deserted Wives.

Three matrimonial knots were cut by Judge Sears in the State Circuit Court yesterday. Anna S. Wells was granted a divorce from Asa O. Wells because of cruel treatment. Mrs. Wells said that her husband's conduct towards her had become unbearable and that he lately drove her out of the house. They were married in February, 1892. Genevieve Harris was given a divorce from Leonard Harris on the ground of desertion. Their marriage was solemnized in November, 1897, and Mrs. Harris says she was deserted four years later.

Cora M. Perry also pleaded desertion, saying Edward Perry left her in December, 1904, exactly one year after their wedding in Portland.

Keep the liver and kidneys in order, blood records, by the remedy.

"FIGHTING THE CHICAGO BEEF TRUST"

PORK.

Most emphatically, we do not use an ounce of Eastern pork, either alive or dressed; all our pork comes to us from Willamette Valley farms. It is sweet, wholesome and tasty. IT IS FRESH. It tastes different from the beef trust pork.
