"Gumboe Hill from old Missouri." He can dance the Highland Fling on the top of a high fence and never touch the ground, but his greatest feat is walking on eggs without breaking the shells.

At this point Tillman turned his attention to Spooner's recent attack upon him. He had not intended to speak again on Brownsville, but the "unprecedented actions and utterances" of the Wisconsin Senator had made it necessary.

It seems that after 10 years of service together we have both misunderstood one another. We have had many clashes in debate. Spooner is a man who has never in his life uttered a word that I could not understand. He has not uttered a word that I could not understand.

Tillman declared that in Spooner's recent speech "his manner was as insulting as it is possible for a Senator to assume," and "that the attack was unprovoked, intentional and in cold blood."

He said he would not call the negro a baboon, adding: "The negroes are men, yet they are so akin to monkeys that scientists are looking for the missing link yet." He proceeded to uphold the lynch law.

Have I ever advocated lynch law at any time or place? I answer on my honor, no. I have only defended it for one crime, and one only, and I have consistently maintained my position for 10 years.

Next we have the redoubtable Tennesseean, who was once a knight, a very hotspur in the lists, whose spear has run through and clear upon the floor of the usurper at Ben's White House, and who has made the sparks fly in many an onset, but his spearhead is broken off, he has been unhorsed, but before retiring he seizes a garland of flowers, and placing it on his headless weapon (now, alas, no longer of any use) he lays it at the feet of the victor.

That it was deemed advisable to send it in this manner, rather than by wireless telegraphy. But it has already been anticipated here by the publication today of the correspondence between Admiral Davis and Governor Swettenham.

While the general sentiment here was one of extreme resentment at the treatment of Admiral Davis, there was no official who would venture to express himself in criticism for publication.

At the State Department tonight it was stated that as far as this Government is concerned, the matter will be allowed to drop.

The message from London is interpreted here as meaning that the British government and people disavow the action of the Governor of Jamaica in requesting Admiral Davis to re-embark his men. The text of the dispatches referred to follows:

GRATITUDE OF BRITISH CABINET.
J. M. B. Secretary of State, Washington: Have read in newspapers this morning what purports to be a letter from Governor of Jamaica. Can only say that on material before me I entertain a reasonable hope that the Governor's actions will be taken at present in the Jamaican relief matter.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(Special.)—Mayor McClellan and his friends are boasting that, no matter what William Randolph Hearst may do, the "Little Mayor" will retain his seat in the City Hall until the expiration of his term on December 31, 1909.

McClellan is not one bit afraid of quo warranto proceedings. He clearly realizes how they can be dragged out to the limit, but a recount would be an entirely different matter.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(Special Correspondence.)—When America's clock stops, America goes to the telephone and asks "Central" what time it is.

When the telephone was first invented, it was considered that city people would be the first to benefit by its facilities, but country dwellers do things with it that city residents know not of.
