ROAD AGENT DOES TRICK AS OF OLD

Lone Robber Holds Up Stage and Forces Passengers to Stand and Deliver.

GETS $300 CASH; ESCAPES

Gun Flashed in Their Faces as Robber Turns Pockets of Victims Inside Out-Scene Within Mile and a Half of Jacksonville.

MEDFORD, Or., Feb. 22.—(Special.)— The Medford and Blue Ledge stage was held up by a lone robber at a point one and one-half miles west of Jacksonville at 5 o'clock this afternoon. Nine pas-sengers baid toll and the robber escaped although Sheriff Jackson and a posse are in het pursuit. The robbery occurred in a dense thicket at the top of the hill almost two miles west, but in sight of Travel has been unusually heavy, owing to the rush into the Blue Ledge Cam and two stages were put on today. The first stage was allowed to pass, but as the second rolled into view a sharp com-mand to halt came from the roadside, and a masked man, heavily armed, stepped into view. The driver applied the brake and the nine surprised passengers were ordered to pile out with hands up. When all were lined up in the road the robber cooly informed them that the first man to lower his hands would go hell by a faster route than the stage line. After shifting a part of his arsenal to enable him to use his hand he turned the pockets of each passenger inside out and transferred their valuables to his

Just as this pantomime had been satisfactorily concluded, a farmer living near Joe Bar drove up in time to add his mile of more than a hundred dollars to the robber's booty. The stage was then allowed to proceed and the robber disappeared in the brush

The robber was about 5 feet 9 inches in height, wore a khaki coat, duck trousers and a soft black hat. His face was com-pletely covered by a dark blue handker-chief, and he displayed a heavy Colt automatic revolver of large caliber and an ugly-looking horse pistol.

He wasted no words, and his short sharp commands were not unattended by the usual display of vulgarity. Among the passengers was one whose sole con-tribution consisted of a $50 check, this the robber returned with the remark, "Can't use it."

Immediately upon the arrival of the stage at Jacksonville, Sheriff Jackson organized a posse and started in pursuit. The country is wild and mountainous, and although the trail is warm, pursuit is necessarily slow. The stage, being an extra conveyance, did not carry mail or express, but the fact that all consignments of money for the mining camps are conveyed by stake has made the temp tation a strong one for hold-up men. Had the Thursday stage been made the object of the robber's enterprise, he would have been many hundreds richer. The pro-ceeds of today's raid will not exceed $300.
