NEVER PLAYED THE GAME

Declares It Is Time Business Men Should Decline to Recognize Those Who Make Money at Gambling.

NEW YORK. March 28 -- Andrew Carnegle made a vigorous attack upon certain Wall street methods in a speech at dinner given in his honor by the United States Military Corps tonight.

Mr. Carnegie declared he had never made a dollar gambling in stocks and added that it was time business men de-clined to recognize men who make money "A few gamblers in Wall street are in trouble," said Mr. Carnegie.

"If a man has sold stocks short and they go down he is delighted. B if they go the other way, and he hasn't the stocks to deliver, he thinks the President has gone a trille too far. "It is a good thing for the country that the gamblers have come to gflef. "I wish I could invent a system or a plan whereby both sides of the stock camblers would come to grief. As a business man I can say I never made a dollar gambling in stocks, and I would as soon sit down to gamble with cards.

"Let me speak as a plain business man. Wall street is not all of America, and there are some places in New York even that are not Wall street. The speculators are paralites feeding upon values and are parasites feeding upon values and creating none. It is time that we business men should rise and decline to recognize men who make money in this way and render no value for it, and give nothing-or exchange in no way a value for what they get.

We have had five years of wonderful prosperity. Today, instead of charging $460,000,000 for the Carnegie Steel Company, I would ask $540,000,000 for it. But never a kite went up but it came down. Wall street is really in a healthy condi-tion. It is an eruption that is coming out and not going in, and let us rejoice and hope that tomorrow prices will go

Don't you believe that the doctor who devotes his entire time to certain ailments to the exclusion of all others should know a little more about them than the doctor who attempts to treat everything? Of course you do. You know that a man who writes signs can do it better than the man who paints houses. The man who shoes horses exclusively will turn out better work in his line than the general blacksmith. It stands to reason, therefore, that a doctor who has spent his life in the faithful study and treatment of diseases of men is qualified to cope with their ailments. You must not, however, mistake quacks for physicians. The man who advertises something he does not expect to do or that which people know he cannot afford to do gets no practice any one else would want, and fails to give satisfaction to even that class of people. We engage in no delusive propositions.

This disease is one that is very often treated by the inexperienced and by patent medicine, often resulting in the most serious complications, such' as Orehitis, Gleet, Epididymitis, Stricture, etc. Men. don't risk your case in the hands of the inexperienced physician or drug clerk, but consult a specialist who knows his business.
