COMPLETING RATLEDAD GATES.—The rail-road gates which are being placed at the intersections of East First and East Morrison streets, and at East First street and Hawthorne avenue for protection of the public from passing trains, will soon be in operation. The lookout-houses are clevated cages, and these are being placed on the southwest corners of these two intersections in which the operators of the gates will be stationed. The cages will stand about 25 feet high so the tenders may have an unobstructed vision up and down the Southers Pacific or these. up and down the Southern Pacific raffway. tracks and can see trains approaching from either direction. The gates consist of four long arms attached to gearing at the four corners of the intersections, and these arms are dropped across the double streetear tracks on East Morrison street, warning motormen of the approach of trains. These arms work on iron pivots and will be operated with electric power gate tender. At present the conductors of all streetcars on both East Morrison and Hawthorne avenue must leave their cars in all sorts of weather to ascertain if the Southern Pacific tracks are clear. These gates will do away with the necessity of the car conductors acting as flag-announced that the site of the Swift Packing Company on Columbia Slough will be the scene of activity within the next 80 days. Plans have been prepared for the abattoirs and the numerous other buildings. The powerful dredge for the company is being completed at Sup-ple's boat yard on Fart Water street. Here machinery is being installed and will be completed the middle of May. This dredge will be used to cut out a ship channel extending down Columbia Slough from the large tract the company owns to the Willamette River so that the plant will have water and railway transporation facilities. A large number of small barges which will be used carrying the pipe from the dredge are ing built at this yard.

MCBRIDE AN INDUSTRIBUS THIEF.—Willam McBride, alias Wheeler, alias Steadman, arrested by police detectives last Saturday night through the clever work Saturday night through the clever work of William Feustel, proprietor of the Em-pire House, 24 Glisan street, has been positively identified by victims as a thief of a very busy kind. He stole 13 suits, 13 pair of shoes and a large amount of other goods, which were recovered in his room and some of which has been re-stored to the owners since his capture. McBride engaged a room at the Empire House last week and was very indus-trious in his "line" while there. He is supposed by the police detectives to have operated in conjunction with a partner, who is thought to have fled. McBride had too much clothing in his room to suit the proprietor, and the latter, having served many years as a detective for a well known agency, suspected McBride was a thief. Feustel telephoned the police, and McBride was taken into custody.

Notices of this proposed extension and assessment were sent out last week in the Vernou district and surroundings with the result that a strong protest was raised on the grounds that the property would not be benefited by the proposed extension while the cost per lot would be about $2.40. The notices that have caused so much stir in that community were received Saturday, but were dated April 6, leaving barely time in which to file a protest.

Work on Rallway Extension,—Grad-

WORK ON RAILWAY EXTENSION.-Grading for the electric railway extension on the Sandy road to the Rose City Addi-tion is nearly completed, the graders having reached Gravel Hill, where the county road will be cut down to reduce the grade. The iron is to be haid at once. It is announced that this branch railway will be completed by June 1 and placed in operation. It will provide rail-way facilities for a large extent of country. It is understood that the people of Columbia Slough country are anxious that this branch should be extended to this section. They have waited a long time for a railway connection with Portland. About three miles more would carry the road to the Columbia Slough road. The grade from the proposed present end of the branch to Columbia

Slough road is an easy one. Two Reports on Pass Ordinance.—At a meeting of the judiciary committee yes-terday afternoon Councilmen Baker and Boothe made out a majority report that the Vaughn pass ordinance be not en-acted by the Council. Vaughn sent in a minority report that the ordinance be a minority report that the ordinance be adopted. Baker and Boothe had pre-viously expressed their views on the pass question and the action yesterday after-noon was expected. The ordinance pro-hibits the street railway company from providing Councilmen and other city of-ficials with free transportation. Large Audience Hears Address by Professor Monaghan.

SAYS REPUBLIC IS DOOMED

Shows the Retrogression of France While Germany Has Steadily Advanced-Speaker Blames the Philosophy of Voltaire.

In phrases of eloquence, similes of the finest construction, sarcasm that was cutting and satire that Voltaire himself might have quaked before, summoned up the arraignment and conviction of the retrogression of France in relation to her churches, by Pro-fessor J. C. Monaghan, Chief of the Bureau of Consular Reports, before a large audience at Woodman of the World Hall last night. "The French Situation" was his topic, and he han-dled it in a masterly manner that won him storms of applause and frequent interruptions.

"The tyrannical attitude of France toward her churches," he said, "is an evil sign of the hour. The brazen continues, France will meet her downfall, for without the church the peo-ple will hurl the government's col-umns to the dust and grind beneath their feet the despotic reigns of kings and infidels. The man who is able to think and learn can tell the truth. Therefore, I say that we must know the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

"There are three forms of religion-There are three forms of feligion—autocracy, monarchy and democracy. To these as been added the fourth—the religion of the new pagan France, that which says tear the Christ from France and hurl him out of the gates of our country. Trample under feet the Christ child! Ah, France, France! the Christ child: An, France, France: Thou knows what thou woulds: do. Thou art bowing to false gods, who will not live. Beware! for the will of the people is the supreme court of the world, and they will be heard. No law exceeds the Assemblies of France, and they will sound the warning note, and the storm will break.

Voltaire Evil Genius of France.

"The evil genius who arose to teach he people of France was Voltaire. the people of France was Voltaire. With his giant intellect he and his followers have spread the stains of poison throughout the land, and they are turning the people from the Christ. We know that the root of civilization is based upon the religion of Christ, and it cannot be overthrown.

.ac population of France in 1870
was 40,000,000. Today it is the same.
Germany, in 1870, had 40,000, and today she has 60,000,000, and has sent thousands all over the world. The retrogression of France has begun. In all the villages and hamlets of Ger-many the beauty of the crucifix and many the beauty of the crucific and the Madonna can be seen on the walls of every home, Protestant or Catholic, and in France they are crying: Tear them from the walls.' Ah, I say to you, that France, with her wonderful fleur de lis flag of a record of 15 centuries, is dragging the gold fringe in the dust of infidelity, and she will go down in humiliation and defeat. down in humiliation and defeat.

"The cry of France is that she may be free. Free as the United States. No man has a right to deposit his ballot unless he has studied the great questions of his country. France is not a republic like the United States. Here no Convress could page a law and no Congress could pass a law, and trample on the rights of the people. They would not submit to it. France is crying for the same privileges.

Republic Not Accepted.

States had no secret ballot. The United States had no secret ballot until we went down into Australia and brought it up here. The lesson of France should be a lesson to the world, that is, to take care of our homes. No republic is complete without our homes—one spot where a man loves one woman, and she loves a man, and they call when Cod to bless them with the child upon God to bless them with the child-ish prattic of innocent children. God grant that France will become again six years for assault to rob.

the wonderful-France of old. John P. O'Hara, editor of the Cath-olic Sentinel, acted as chairman of the meeting and made an excellent introductory address, while Miss Co-vach sang beautifully soveral solos, which were liberally applauded.

At the Stock Theaters

"Northern Lights," at the Star. THERE is a plenty of blue uniforms and brass buttons at the Star this week, where the Allen Stock Company is appearing in the familiar frontier drama, Northern Lights."

The play has been seen here a numb of times before and it is always good for a successful week's run. There should be no reason why this rule should not hold good this week, for the Alien company is giving quite a satisfactory per-In the part of "the Little Major" Verna

In the part of "the Little Major" Verna Felton has an assignment that is well suited to her and she plays it well. If this clever young actress would confine her efforts to such parts she would achieve much better results than she has at times when she has essayed roles entirely too mature for a girl of her age. Swiftwind, the halfbreed Indian hero, is capebly handled by Taylor Bennett, while Ralph Belmont gives a good account of himself as Sherwood, the surgeon. H. N. Dudgeon has one of the strongest parts in the piece as General Crook, but plays it only tolerably, missing some of the best opportunities that he has. Other members of the cast work hard to keep the performance well balanced and succeed quife well.

The play is well staged, the stockade The play is well staged, the stockade scene being especially realistic.

"Across the Potomac," at the Lyric.

THE Lyric Stock Company goes back to Civil War days this week and gives a creditable performance of "Across the Potomac," a stirring military drama which involves the stereotyped romance of a Northern officer winning the heart of a daughter of the South. The period of a daughter of the South. The period of the play covers the entire time from the firing of the first shot until Lee's surrender at Appointance. Edith Gariand, as the Confederate belle whose heart is irrevocably lost to the invading Federal Captain, deserves more than usual credit for her excellent playing of the part. Her "down South" accent is very good and she never forgets it. Her dress is also true to the fashion-plates of the 20%.

A. C. Winn gives a good perform of the role of a Southern planter. F Fanning is usually convincing as the hero who falls into the hands of the enemy and escapes death as a spy at the last moment because of the end of the war. Clarence Lowman acquits himself creditably as the Confederate General, and Maxine Miles and Belle Barcus add strength to the cast. The stage settings are well worth seeing.

At the Vaudeville Theaters

Grand.

THE public is universally fond of dog shows and it is but natural that the one which serves as the feature act at the Sullivan-Considine temple of vaudeville should arouse a great deal of en thusiasm. Herbert's dogs, a big pack of them, large and small, save the show at the Grand this week from being com-monplace. Their high-leaping stunts and the loop-the-loop performance of a nifty little fox terrier pleases the spectators tremendously. They deserve the applicates they receive. Seldom has there appeared here a better troupe of performing dogs. Tuttle & May, in their little playlet, "The Unwelcome Guest," manage to entertain the audience for 15 minutes in
