

BEATING WRECKS
GREATEST SPORT

Horse-Racing Falls Into Disrepute Through Pool-Selling Evil.

HISTORIC AMERICAN RACES

Washington Was Judge of Great Event and All Presidents Used to Attend—Famous Contests Between North and South.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(Special Correspondence.)—Although horse-racing is the sport of kings, of late it has fallen in evil times. In most of the states of the Union it is unlawful to bet on races and, therefore, races are not run. Tennessee is the last state to put up the legal bars, but in that case an attempt will be made to have a bettingless meeting. Missouri, Illinois and Indiana had a hard fight to enforce the anti-race-track gambling laws, but they were enforced, and in those states racing is no more.

Pool Selling Kills Racing.

South Carolina and Virginia were the early homes of the thoroughbred, and Charleston was the site of the first regular race-course in this country. A proposition to construct a course at Charleston and to rehabilitate racing there is now being considered. Virginia has put up the legal barriers. Kentucky is the only one of the old-time breeding states which still permits racing, and the Blue Grass state is now the home of the best horses in the world.

Pool Selling Kills Racing.

The decadence of racing is probably chargeable to the two things that have done more than anything else to aid the progress of the industry. A proposition to construct a course at Charleston and to rehabilitate racing there is now being considered. Virginia has put up the legal barriers. Kentucky is the only one of the old-time breeding states which still permits racing, and the Blue Grass state is now the home of the best horses in the world.

Goldfield Mines Reopen

Long Strike Ended, but Supply of Miners Is Short.

GOLDFIELD, Nev., April 22.—As a result of the settlement effected last evening between the mineowners and the miners, the mines were thrown open at 3 o'clock this afternoon and the strike campers were ordered to leave. The strike campers were ordered to leave the district in 10 days, and the district is short by 500 miners, but these miners together with others are expected to come to the district in 10 days, and the settlement becomes generally known.

Labor Union Council Says President Is Unfair and Unjust.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 22.—The Central Labor Union of this city tonight adopted a resolution condemning President Roosevelt for his alleged reference to Messrs. Moyer and Haywood in a letter to Congressman Sherman, of New York. The resolution concludes:

Assaulted by His Employees

Strikers Create Riot and Police Arrest Four Leaders.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Striking cloakmakers at the establishments of Oscar Margolin & Son assaulted the senior member of the firm today, created a riot in which several hundred people took part, and finally were dispersed by the police. Four of the strikers were arrested.

Ask 10 Per Cent Increase

IRWIN, Pa., April 22.—About 80 men from Ferris, Pa., today asked an increase of 10 per cent in wages. Two hundred men were ready to be drawn out, but they were left turning by the men. The strikers, who were ordered off the company's property, immediately surrounded the plant. Special police are guarding the mine tonight.

Trying to End Canadian Strike

OTTAWA, Ont., April 22.—President Sherman, of the district Miners' Union, has wired the Minister of Labor from the disaffected mining districts that he is trying to get the men back to work, but that the company will not do anything until the president of the operators, G. G. Lindsay, arrives. After that he hopes to be successful.

Striking Miners Paid Off

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 22.—A special force of Ferris, Pa., today asked an increase of 10 per cent in wages. Two hundred men were ready to be drawn out, but they were left turning by the men. The strikers, who were ordered off the company's property, immediately surrounded the plant. Special police are guarding the mine tonight.

AMERICAN ECLIPSE AT WASHINGTON IN THE FALL OF 1822. Colonel William R. Johnson, of Virginia, the "Napoleon of the Turf," then challenged the New Yorkers to a national race at New York. John C. Stevens, a kinsman of Walter Livingston, who was racing American Eclipse, accepted the challenge. A purse of $50,000 was put up and the race was practically "Eclipse against the world"—the Long Island horse thus proving a worthy successor to the great English Eclipse whose owners on a wager placed "Eclipse first, the rest nowhere."

Beaten by Lobsters and Wine.

There were some 60,000 people to see the race, and the entire United States was in a fever of excitement concerning its outcome, slowly as news went in those days. The English favorite was hurt on the long trip to New York. Colonel Johnson dined too well on lobsters and wine the night before and didn't get to the track. The South entered his hopes on Sir Charles. He won the first heat of four miles, Eclipse won the second, and in the third the North's horse and the English favorite were close together, but the English horse was a "little hard luck" that they tried to match another race for $30,000 a side, but the New Yorkers closed the doors of the gambling feature being so prominent.

In those days the long four-mile-heat races, which required a horse to make 16 miles in a single race, were the popular features. Aged horses had the advantage then, and the turf was a very different thing from what it is now. In Massachusetts, the National course at Washington was patronized by every President from Jefferson to Van Buren. Colonel Johnson, of Ferris, Pa., was the head of the institution, and Gabriel Duval, a Justice of the United States Supreme Court, was also a member of the jockey club. Andrew Jackson, always a great turfman, while President, entered a colt in the name of his secretary, Major Donelson, and was defeated by the horse which was won by Commodore Stockton's Langford.

Great Lexington Race.

The oldest course in the West was that established at Lexington, Kentucky, in 1826, at which meetings were held regularly until a few years ago. Not even the Civil War stopped the sport there, meetings being held twice each year except in 1862, when Kirby Smith's army was camped on the course at the time for the Fall meeting. The first great match race in the West was at Louisville in 1839, when Gray Eagle, a Louisiana horse, defeated the Kentucky horse, the "Old Kentucky." The great North-against-the-South race of 1842, when "Fighting Bob" was the favorite, was held at Lexington. The great stakes race in Nashville in 1843, richer than any American stakes ever before run and equal to the English Derby, was won by the Kentucky horse, "The Peytona," who defeated Wade Hampton's Black Maria; these are but a few of the great racing events of the United States before the Civil War, which were run over and over again in tavern conversations for 20 or 30 years.

Tomorrow—Horse racing in America.

Continued.

TAKE FOR BEGGARS

Amusing Adventure of British King and Queen.

REBUFFED BY SURLY MONK

Edward and Alexandra Visit Church but Are Told to Begone. King Takes Mistake as a Good Joke.

NAPLES, April 22.—The Queen and King of England, who arrived here on the royal yacht Victoria and Albert, spent the day in sightseeing. They visited various points of interest in the city, and incidentally had an experience which amused King Edward greatly and which brought consternation to an unthinking monk.

The incident occurred in front of the Church of Santa Chiara. Their majesties approached, intending to visit the edifice, but found it closed, as the monks in charge were taking their midday meal. A member of the royal party knocked on the door for admittance. A monk came to the door and, thinking the outside were beggars, did not trouble to open it, but called out to them: "Begone in peace; there is nothing for you here."

This remark amused King Edward immensely and he laughed heartily. The visitors then knocked again and explained that they wished to visit the church, but the scold, irritated at their persistence, shouted: "Don't bother me; this is no time for sight-seeing. Brothers are at lunch."

Anglo-American Contestants Tie on General Result.

LONDON, April 22.—The announcement of two big international contests attracted a great crowd to the National Sporting Club tonight. The first contest was between Owen Moran, of Birmingham, and Albert Delmont, of Boston, 20 rounds, for the bantam championship of the world and a purse of $2,000. Moran was a warm favorite in the betting and proved the winner on points, but only after the second contest was between Sam Langford, an American, and "Finger" Smith, a Welsh fighter, 20 rounds, for the middleweight championship of the world and a purse of $2,000. Langford won in the fourth round.
