

MEANLY AND SHIP HITS SALE

Thrilling Story Related by Captain Swan, of British Bark Zinita, at Astoria.

FROM ANTWERP IN 197 DAYS

Crew Taps Cargo of Whisky and When Found Drunk Four Men Lay Plot to Murder Officers.

ASTORIA, Or., April 29.—(Special).—The overdue British bark Zinita arrived in this evening from Antwerp, with a general cargo, including 200 tons of cement, consigned to Fuller & Company, of Portland. She brings a tale of a mutinous crew, fierce gales, baffling calms and obstinate winds that make the passage one long to be remembered by all on board.

In speaking of the trip this evening, Captain Swan, master of the Zinita, said: "We sailed from Antwerp October 12, and everything looks favorable for a good passage. We struck fair winds almost immediately after leaving the channel, and slipped from the northeast straits into the southeast trade in excellent time. When about 15 days out the crew broached the cargo and took quite a quantity of whisky, which they drank. They created no trouble, however, and after sobering up, came aft, apologized for what they had done, wanted the damaged charged to them, and gave me their word that they would do nothing of the kind again.

Drunk Crew Held at Bay.

"All went well until about 10 days later, when they broached the cargo again, and then the trouble commenced. All the crew was loyal, however, excepting four men. One of these was a full-blooded Indian from Seattle, one was a Frenchman, one an Italian, and the other a French Canadian. We had an inkling that they intended to murder the officers and seize the ship, so at nightfall we prepared for them.

"I called the other men aft and we remained on the poop deck, and I will testify in my hand, and at the head of the steps and held the mutineers at bay until daylight. When day came and it was safe to go down on deck, we seized the four ringleaders, placed them in irons and imprisoned them for five days, when we reached Bahia, where I put in to complete my crew.

Men Placed in Jail.

"At Bahia I called for a naval court, and the four sailors were sentenced to four weeks in prison. I got rid of them, and for that I am thankful. There I shipped three new men, and after remaining in port three days on account of unfavorable winds, sailed with 21 on board, whereas my full complement is 22 all told.

"From Bahia to the Horn we had fair weather, but off Staten Island (Tierra del Fuogo) we ran into a terrific gale. The main topgallant yard was carried away and we lost nearly all our canvas. Sale after sale followed, and the ship in rapid succession and during one of them about 10 o'clock at night, Gustave Ryberg, one of the men I shipped at Bahia, was washed overboard and killed. He was lost. After leaving the Horn we again met better weather, until in 45 degrees south, a hurricane struck us that was one of the worst I ever saw, but we suffered no damage of note.

Short Allowance of Water.

"Since then we have had light and variable winds all the way up the coast. All on board are well, and while we ran short of some articles of provisions, we have not been on short rations. The question of water was the most serious one and the crew has been on short allowance for about 10 days, although there is now about three feet in the tank. I spoke the ship Star of Italy about 300 miles southwest of San Francisco, and about 10 days ago spoke a steamer off that port and asked to be reported 'all well,' but I guess she failed to report me.

Captain Swan has visited this coast several times before, but the last time he came to the Columbia was in the City of Madrid, 25 years ago. He had retired from a seafaring life and this is the first trip he has made in five years.

KINNEY WENT OFF ON SPREE

Disappearance From Wood Camp Is Explained by County Physician.

OREGON CITY, Or., April 29.—(Special).—The mysterious disappearance of E. D. Kinney, who left the woodcamp near Barton late in February, has been explained by Dr. J. W. Norris, County Physician, who says Kinney came to his office during the latter part of February. The doctor did not know until he read the newspaper reports that Kinney had left the camp in a mysterious manner.

Kinney apparently walked straight to Oregon City after leaving the camp one Sunday morning in February.

He traveled long enough on the way, however, to drink heavily, and his condition when he reached Dr. Norris' office showed plainly that he had been on a spree. He applied for treatment and was in an exceedingly nervous state.

Kinney told Dr. Norris his name, and his appearance corresponds with that supplied by the woodchoppers at Barton. He said he had friends in Portland, and could obtain work upon his arrival there, but had only 10 cents and could not pay his fare down. Dr. Norris gave him carriage to Portland, and it is presumed he arrived there safely.

Kinney has not yet returned to Barton to secure his personal effects that were left there.

SEATTLE WANTS COURSE

Oarsmen Think Lake Washington Best Suited for Boat Races.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 29.—(Special).—University of Washington athletes today began an agitation in favor of making the Lake Washington course the official racing course for Pacific Coast college and general water sporting events. The rough weather on Richardson Bay that made the triangular race between Washington, Berkeley and Stanford impossible led to the movement in favor of the course over the inland waters of Lake Washington. The Pacific Coast Oarsmen's Association at its meeting in Nelson, B. C., last year designated the Lake Washington course as the official racing ground for the next five years and this strengthens the university's fight. Berkeley and Stanford will be up here next month to race against Washington.

tion and the lake course will be given a thorough try-out. University officials believe the Californians will concede its superiority for the big annual racing events between coast colleges and agree for a time at least to the change.

PRUNE CROP PROMISES BIG

Good Prospects in Clark County. Planting Many Potatoes.

VANCOUVER, Wash., April 29.—(Special).—The farmers and horticulturists of Clark County have hopes of the best prune and grain crops that have been harvested in this county in a considerable number of years. The orchards throughout the county are now in full bloom, and vegetation springs up like wild fire during the warm sunny weather. In the vicinity of Fruit Valley the beautiful orchards present a picture that can be seen nowhere else.

It is stated that there will be an exceptionally large amount of potatoes planted this year, as it is the current opinion that the price will be high next year. At the present time it is impossible to get good potatoes and what are to be had are selling in the local markets at $2 per sack. Farmers who had any way of keeping potatoes during the winter have reaped a good interest on the investment.

WAS BORN IN KENTUCKY IN 1835

DAYTON, Or., April 29.—(Special).—John Jones was born in Kentucky in 1835, and came across the plains to Oregon in 1852, settling at Oregon City. He died at his home at Dayton, Or., on Saturday, April 27, of paralysis.

He left a widow, three sons and five daughters. The funeral service was conducted by Yarnall Lodge, No. 20, of which he had been an active and honored member for over 37 years. Mr. Jones was a millwright by trade, having helped to build one of the great sawmills in Oregon, at Bala. While living near that place, in 1862, his children were carried away by the high water in the Willamette, and he and his wife and child were rescued with difficulty from their floating house.

He was engaged in the cattle business on Butter Creek, near Heppner, for a number of years, and came to Dayton and was engaged in business here for over 25 years, part of the time being connected with another old pioneer, I. Nichols. A man of marvellous physique, he was never sick in his life until four years ago, when he suffered from a slight stroke of paralysis, and retired from active business. He was devoted to his family and loyal to his friends, all of whom speak in the highest terms of his honesty in business.

SELL NO SMOKE SUNDAYS

STORES MAY DISPOSE OF CANDY BUT NOT CIGARS.

Agreement Reached at Hillsboro and Prosecution of Sunday Closing Case Is Dropped.

HILLSBORO, Or., April 29.—(Special).—The last of the Sunday closing cases, that against H. A. Walker, came to a close in the Justice Court this morning when Deputy District Attorney John M. Wall asked Judge H. T. Bagley to dismiss the case because he said the confectioners had reached an agreement whereby they could keep open on Sunday and sell ice cream, confections and perishable fruit, but were not to sell cigars or tobacco. The petition was granted. The officials also notified the restaurant people that they could sell cigars to their guests, but they must sell to no others. The mandate was followed by the restaurants and hotels.

The case against Palmator, in which a jury failed to convict last week, was also dismissed. The inhibition as to cigar sales also applies to the two drug stores in this city.

BECAUSE HE SHOT UP TOWN

Sam Bagley Pays for His Saturday Night's Excitement in Dryad.

CHEHALIS, Wash., April 29.—(Special).—Sam Bagley, of Seattle, was fined $40 and costs and placed under $500 bonds to keep the peace because he shot up the milling town of Dryad, Saturday evening. Bagley formerly lived in Dryad, and his wife had separated. Bagley went to Seattle, taking the children with him. A few days ago Mrs. Bagley went to Seattle and secretly secured possession of the little ones, taking them back to Dryad with her. Saturday Bagley went to Dryad, and from his remarks while on the train, indicated his intention to shoot up the town and make every work with any one who interfered with him.

About the first crack of his pistol he came near getting N. W. Fisher, who was standing in the doorway of his saloon. Later Bagley fired seven shots wildly in Wakefield's saloon. Abe Dell and Mr. Wakefield finally disarmed the man before he had killed any one. He was securely tied up and held under guard until Sheriff Deggler arrived and took him in charge.

Bagley is a Kentuckian. His father lives in Tacoma. It is thought that the man was suffering from temporary mental aberration.

HIS FATE'S NOW IN JURY'S HANDS

Twelve Men Retire to Decide as to Responsibility for Editor's Offense.

ABLE ARGUMENTS MADE

Judge Bean's Instructions Require an Hour's Reading—He Explains the Variety of Verdicts Which May Be Returned.

PENDLETON, Or., April 29.—(Special).—The fate of John P. McManus is now in the hands of the jury. After an entire day consumed by the arguments of the attorneys and the giving of the instructions by the court, the jury retired for deliberation at 9 o'clock tonight. The instructions were very complicated, covering many pages of typewritten manuscript and requiring more than an hour in the reading. Among the important charges given by Judge Bean were the following:

"If you believe that the defendant at the time of the killing was so badly intoxicated that he was incapable of premeditation or deliberation, you cannot bring in a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree; the killing was justifiable if the defendant believed that he was in danger of great bodily harm; if the killing was done in a spirit of revenge or reckless spirit, it was not justifiable; if the defendant armed himself with a deadly weapon and then sought the deceased, or the person whom he thought the deceased to be, for the purpose of killing him, or of provoking a quarrel with him, then the killing was not justifiable. You have a right to consider the reputation of the deceased as to honesty in so far as it might shed light on the events as they took place at the time of the killing, but it is no less criminal to kill a dishonest man than an honest one; if the defendant purposed to kill McCarty and instead killed McCarty, but killed Estes instead, the mistake is no defense; the taking of a human life is justifiable to prevent the stealing of one's property or money by force, violence or fraud; the slipping of one's hand into the pocket of another for the purpose of removing money constitutes an assault, but if in so doing more force was used than was necessary or then seemed to be necessary to the defendant as a reasonable man, he was not guilty of robbery; if the attempt was made at robbery and the robbery was prevented by knocking away the assailant, as is justifiable, the defendant is not guilty of robbery; if the defendant was not in any danger of great bodily harm, nor had any reason to believe that he was in such danger, then he was not justified in the killing; the bare fact of danger is not sufficient, the circumstances must justify that fear. The fact of a previous robbery would not justify if the wrongfully entering of the hand caused the defendant to kill in a fit of angry passion which he could not control, then the defendant is not guilty of murder in either the first or second degree.

Phelps' Masterly Effort.

Shortly after 9 o'clock Judge White, of Baker City, opened the arguments for the state. He contended that McManus was shot on ten feet behind the jury, the shot was fired; that the story told by the defendant of the attempted robbery was a physical impossibility by reason of the arrangement of the place, and declared that even if the story were true, McManus was not justified in taking the life of the man, for the reason that the law holds that this is justifiable only in cases where it is necessary to defend the person when in danger of great bodily harm. He presented the law in the case in a masterly form, but it was the telling arguments of a witness, referring to Phelps, who is said to have made the best speech of his life in closing the case, that seemed to have the most effect upon the jury. For two hours he presented both the law and the facts.

Starts Tears to Flowing.

White was followed by L. A. Esteb, the cripple Mayor of Echo, who opened the argument for the defense. With tears streaming down his cheeks, he appealed to the sympathies of the jury, and brought many in the courtroom to tears. All kinds of sarcastic abuse was used in speaking of the array of bystanders who had been introduced as witnesses, referring to the "unclean hand behind the prosecution," and beautiful figures of speech were used in alluding to the faithful devotion of Mrs. McManus.

In closing the argument for the defense, Colonel Raley declared that for some unaccountable reason he had never addressed a jury under embarrassment in his life, and that the state had been most unfair in the trial of this case.

He declared that the State's Attorneys had sought to exclude all possible evidence that might shed light on the tragedy, and instructed that paid witnesses had been placed upon the stand. The charges were answered in detail by Phelps in the most masterful of the four great speeches. He refrained from any personal abuse, but showed by his manner how keenly he had felt the charges of unfairness which had been heaped upon him.

WHITE MUST WAIT 86 YEARS

He Will Then Have Half Interest in Valuable Property.

OLYMPIA, Wash., April 29.—(Special).—Timothy, former chief of the Nez Perce, a preacher, and one who was instrumental in helping to save the lives of General Steptoe and his men years ago, was referred to frequently in the decision of the Supreme Court today affirming judgment for plaintiffs in the case of Charles L. McDonald against Edward A. White and others, involving valuable land the old chief secured from the government.

Timothy, in 1877, declared his intention to become an American citizen and subsequently always contended he had severed tribal relations. He filed a homestead on the land in 1875 and secured a patent in 1884. This patent by mistake contained a provision that the land could not be sold for 29 years. One party to this suit claims the anti-alienation clause should have been for five years, the other that there should have been no such clause.

Timothy and his wife in 1884 gave a 29-year lease of the land at $10 rental a year. In 1886 Timothy died, aged 80 years, and his wife died aged 93 in 1889. The parties to this lease claim title, one under the lease and under deeds from some of the heirs, the instant case, the opposing parties under other deeds from Indian heirs.

The Supreme Court in its decision says that the reference should have been a five-year alienation clause the lease remained in possession after that time for years without objection, and that the heirs cannot now set aside the 29-year lease. McDonald is established in his 96-year lease, and after that time expires White gets a half interest.

The court also finds the rental has been paid for the entire period of the lease.

WHO POISONED THE SHEEP?

CROOK COUNTY GROWER LOSES 21 MEMBERS OF HERD.

Cyanide of Potassium Mixed With Salt—Rancher Refuses to Give Aid to Sheriff.

PRINEVILLE, Or., April 29.—(Special).—Ralph Porally, a sheepman of Upper Crooked River Valley, lost 21 head of sheep last Thursday evening by cyanide poisoning. Sheriff Estes, who has been quietly working on the case, says the poison has been mixed with common salt and scattered around in the grass about a spring in the very center of Porally's bedded land. One of the herders noticed the sheep falling, and thinking something was wrong, hastened to get the band away from the spot, but not until 21 had dropped. Analysis of the salt made here disclosed the fact that it was heavily impregnated with powdered cyanide of potassium.

Porally has for some years been the owner of land formerly occupied by "Shorty Davis," who disappeared some seven years ago, leaving no trace. The range is 15 miles east of Prineville. Porally himself refused to talk about the matter or help the Sheriff in any way.

AFTER COMPULSORY PASS LAW

State Grange Committee Seeking to Refer Matter to People.

OREGON CITY, Or., April 29.—(Special).—Charles E. Spence, of Beaver Creek, a member of the legislative committee of the State Grange, this afternoon emphatically denied the report that the attempt to secure the submission of the compulsory pass law to the referendum had been abandoned. This rumor was current here today. Mr. Spence said that on account of the late spring and the consequent busy season among the farmers a great difficulty had been experienced in having the petitions circulated, but he believes that a sufficient number of signatures will be obtained.

LUMBER WILL NOT ADVANCE

If Any Change, Price Will Go Down, Says McCormick.

TACOMA, Wash., April 29.—(Special).—"There will be no advance in the price of lumber this Summer. If there is any change, it will be downward," is the opinion of R. L. McCormick today. "Lumber is now at a fair price and it will probably stay about where it is. Everything would be all right if the price of lumber were not so low. We are compelled to ship about everything we send East by way of California. This has gutted the market there somewhat. There is one advantage in this, however, it has brought down the shipping rate. There has been a reduction of several dollars a ton lately, but there is still room for improvement."

Operation of the Home Telephone

"SECRET SERVICE"

To call telephone number "A 4039," first remove the receiver from the hook; place the index finger in dial hole below "A," then pull the dial around until the finger touches the stop; remove AT ONCE the finger from the dial permitting the dial itself to rotate until it stops. Do not FORCE it back. In the same manner operate the dial at each of the figures "4," "0," "3," and "9." Now you are connected with telephone number "A 4039."

Place the receiver to your ear, and press the button which rings the bell of the telephone wanted. If you hear the "Busy Buzz," it indicates that the telephone desired is busy. This being the case, hang up the receiver and operate the dial again within a reasonable time. If you do not hear the Busy Buzz, wait until the subscriber answers.

When through with the conversation, hang the receiver on the hook, SMALL end up.

- ### IMPORTANT
1. REMOVE RECEIVER from the hook before operating the dial.
 2. DO NOT FORCE the dial back.
 3. Always hang up the receiver to DISCONNECT and before making a SECOND call or a CORRECTION.
 4. BUSY BUZZ always indicates that the telephone you call is busy.
 5. Answer YOUR telephone PROMPTLY.
 6. Place your lips near transmitter and speak DISTINCTLY in a low tone of voice.

The first Bulletin, giving the names and addresses of the subscribers of the Home Telephone Company having instruments in operation, has been issued. Other Bulletins will be issued from time to time as the telephones are installed and put in operation. The company is completing the necessary details for operation and the subscribers are asked to "Home-Phone-it" as best they can under the circumstances. The automatic instrument is intended to be a faithful, uncompromising, obedient, telephone servant and the management is sparing no means to provide every expedient known to give Portland people modern, up-to-date telephone service.

Subscribers are especially warned against impostors claiming to represent the company in the collection of rent. No rental should be paid except to persons authorized by the company, as the management expects to make no rental charge until after due notice to its patrons.

The company desires to ask the co-operation of its patrons in the installation and protection of the new service and the telephones will be put in commission just as fast as same can be accomplished.

S.S.S. KILLS THE GERMS OF SCROFULA

Through the blood, diseases are carried from one generation to another. Parents transmit them to their children, and so it goes on down the family line for years and years unless the taint is removed from the blood. Especially is this true of Scrofula, for it is a disease that is "bred in the bone," and unless the blood is purified and every trace of the trouble removed the miserable disease will finally undermine the entire health and wreck the life of its victim. The usual symptoms of Scrofula are enlarged glands or tumors about the neck, which often burst and become discharging ulcers, weak eyes, Catarrh of the head and throat, skin diseases, etc. The trouble being so firmly entrenched in the blood often attacks the bones, resulting in White Swelling, or hip disease, while a waxy, pallid appearance of the skin, loss of strength and energy, and often lung affections, show that the disease is entirely destroying the bright red corpuscles and rich, nutritive qualities of the blood. Scrofula being a constitutional disease, one affecting the entire circulation, must be treated with a remedy that builds up and strengthens every part of the system, which has so long been denied the strength and nourishment it should have received from the blood. S. S. S. is the best of all blood purifiers and the greatest of all tonics, and is therefore the ideal remedy for Scrofula. S. S. S. searches out and destroys all germs, taints and poisons, gives strength, richness and vigor to the blood and cures Scrofula permanently. It so thoroughly removes the trouble from the blood that no signs of it are ever seen again, and posterity is started out in life with a clean, pure blood supply, which is their rightful inheritance. S. S. S. while thorough, is gentle in its action, and the healing vegetable ingredients which compose it build up every part of the system. Book on the blood and medical advice free.
