TITLES OF BABY PRINCE.
CHICAGO, May 10.—(Special.)—It is a long list of titles that the little Prince of Spain must start out in life with. His mother will probably present him a few more and there will be a shower of decorations from the monarchs of the various European countries. The list given contains the titles permanently retained by the Bourbon line and does not include many inferior titles accompanying the membership in various knightly orders. The list is as follows:

Prince of Spain, Prince of Asturias, Prince of Castile, Prince of Leon, Prince of Aragon, Prince des Deux Siciles, Prince of Jerusalem, Prince of Navarre, Prince of Granada, Prince of Toledo, Prince of Valencia, Prince of Gallie, Prince of Majorque, Prince of Minorque, Prince of Seville, Prince of Cordova, Prince of Coruna, Prince of Murcia, Prince of Jaen, Prince d'Algarve, Prince d'Algerie, Prince of Gibraltar, Prince of Island Canaries, Prince des Indes, Prince de Savoie, Prince d'Inde et du Continent Océanien, Archduke of Austria, Duke of Bohemia, Duke of Brabant, Duke of Milan, Count of Hapsbourg, Count of Flanders, Count of Barcelona, Seigneur de Biscaye et Molina.

MADRID, May 10.—The direct male succession to the throne of Spain was assured by the birth today of a son to Queen Victoria. The news thrilled the country and tonight the happy event is being celebrated from Gibraltar to the Pyrenees. Queen Victoria and her son are both doing well.

It has been determined that the baptism shall occur Tuesday noon. In court circles it is desired to name the baby Carlos, but the matter of his appellation has not yet been definitely decided.

The hurried departure of royal messengers from the palace at 10 o'clock this morning to summon courtiers and the members of the diplomatic corps gave the first indication that the birth was imminent. The usual gathering outside the palace was soon swelled by immense throngs, which watched the brilliantly uniformed personages drive up to the royal residence. The crowd waited in suspense until nearly 1 o'clock, when the thunder of the first canon-shot signified that the royal accouchement was over.

Canon Heralds the Boy.

The reports were counted anxiously until the fifteenth, and then a complete silence ensued. The seconds appeared as hours until the sixteenth shot boomed and the courtiers and the members of the public that the royal child was a son. The sixteenth report brought forth a ringing cheer, and at the same time the royal standard was hoisted over the palace. The people danced with joy and embraced each other, shouting:

"Long live the King! Long live the Queen!"

The flags of Spain and Great Britain were raised over all the public buildings of Madrid. Many business houses closed for the remainder of the day.

Child Presented to Dignitaries.

In the meantime the solemn ceremony of presentation was being carried out inside the palace. The mistress of robes, carrying a huge silver tray, upon which was lying the newly-born royal baby, accompanied by King Alfonso and Premier Maura, appeared in the ante-chamber, where the courtiers had assembled. The young monarch appeared full of joy as the Premier, raising the drapery which covered the infant on the silver tray, said:

"Gentlemen, it is a prince."
The solemn dignitaries thereupon forgot all etiquette and cheered both the King and the Queen. The Minister of Justice, Marquis Figueroa, made out the birth certificate, which was signed by all present. The gathering then broke up.

King Alfonso telegraphed the good news to the Pope, King Edward and the heads of other states, and later the congratulations began to come in.

Queen Will Be Real Mother.

The accouchement was in every way normal and the Queen is making satisfactory progress. Her majesty purposes herself to nurse the infant prince, who shows signs of utmost vitality. He has a strong voice, blue eyes and a face complexioned like his mother's. The Queen was the first to kiss the baby, and she was followed by the two grandmothers, Princess Beatrice of Battenberg and María Christina, the dowager Queen of Spain.

Decrees were issued tonight ordering a national holiday throughout Spain for Saturday, Sunday and Monday. The Cabinet later presented to King Alfonso for his signature decrees transferring the title of heir presumptive from Prince Charles of Bourbon to the new-born Prince. King Alfonso today, in honor of the event, decreed the pardon of thousands of prisoners, including eight persons who were condemned to death.

Capital Taken by Surprise.

The happy event took the capital somewhat by surprise, for only yesterday afternoon the Queen had taken her customary drive and the court physicians had intimated that another two weeks would pass before confinement. It was learned from the palace authorities that the Queen had been taken with the first pains of childbirth during the night. Messengers were hastily dispatched to the Prime Minister and other chief court dignitaries.

Through the early morning Ministers and big functionaries arrived at the court of the palace.

Meantime word was received by the waiting throngs that the Queen was progressing well. The doctors pronounced her condition normal and satisfactory. King Alfonso remained at Queen Victoria's bedside.

Grandees Called to Palace.

At 8 o'clock this morning the King canceled the meeting of the Council of Ministers which was to have considered current state affairs.

By 10 o'clock the high functionaries of the state and capital, with many Ambassadors and Ministers in their court costumes had reached the palace. At noon this assemblage of the nobility and power of Spain was grouped in the royal apartments set aside for official ceremonies, awaiting with feelings of profound emotion the announcement of the birth of the heir.

The birth of the babe occurred at 12:45 P. M. The announcement was immediately conveyed to the waiting officials and crowds outside the palace, who received the glad tidings with mingled feelings and enthusiasm and emotion.

Ceremony Attending Event.

In no monarchical country in the world is the ceremonial observed at the birth of the first offspring of the King and Queen so rigidly stately and formal as in Spain; and on this occasion, so significant for the Bourbon dynasty, when an heir to the throne was so anxiously awaited, nothing was omitted from the courtly etiquette.

From the moment when Queen Victoria was officially announced to be apprehending the period of maternity the most careful surveillance was exercised over her, in order that the hopes of the country should not run any risk of being blighted.

Several months before her accouchement, according to Spanish royal custom, the Queen took up her residence at the palace in Madrid to await the anxious moment. Thence, accompanied by the King, she has undertaken from time to time pilgrimages to various holy shrines to pray for a safe deliverance, in the same way as the humblest Spanish woman.

For quite a month preceding the auspicious event, members of the proud Spanish nobility have been in constant attendance at the palace as a precaution against the unwelcome surprise of a premature birth, while the members of the royal family have taken up their residence either in the palace itself or near at hand in the capital.

Georgous Array of Uniforms.

When at length Dr. Glendenning, the young English doctor who attended the Queen, announced that the birth was a matter of only a few hours, urgent messages were sent to the Premier, Señor Maura, and his colleagues of the Cabinet, the Military Governor of Madrid, the members of the diplomatic corps, the grandees, the knights of the principal orders of chivalry, the leading military and civil authorities and all the ladies and gentlemen attached to the court.

Soon all the officials were gathered in full uniform and wearing the glittering insignia of their decorations, in the grand reception-room gorgeously draped with tapestry, adjoining the royal private apartments, among those present being the American Minister, Mr. Collier. There, in suppressed excitement and hushed expectancy, they waited until their attention was attracted by a movement of the heavy curtain at the end of the apartments and the opening of the door leading from the royal rooms.

Presented on Silver Tray.

The formal announcement of the birth of the infant was made by the Camarera Mayor, Mistress of the Robes, to Premier Maura, who formally communicated the fact to the distinguished company in the words:

"Gentlemen, it is a prince."
The news was greeted with the greatest

MOB FURY BOILS AT VENGEFUL CRY

When Butte Policeman Kills Fugitive.

SUSPECTED OF TRAIN ROBBERY

Brother of Dead Man Leads Attack on City Jail.

WARDED OFF WITH PISTOLS

Enraged Butte Miners Propose to Kill Innocent Man for Killing Comrade—Leaders Are Captured and the Turmoil Subsides.

BUTTE, Mont., May 10.—Patrol Driver Charles Jackson tonight shot and killed Harry Cole, while the latter was attempting to escape, and an angry mob of 2000, led by brothers of Cole, made an ineffectual attempt to lynch Detective Charles McGarvey, the crowd laboring under the impression that it was that officer who had done the shooting.

Cole had been arrested by McGarvey on a forgery charge and was suspected of being one of the bandits who several days ago held up the North Coast Limited train at Welch's Spur, murdering Frank Clow, the engineer, and wounding Thomas Sullivan, the fireman. Cole is a brother of George Cole, who is now serving a sentence in the Dear Lodge Penitentiary for the robbery of the Burlington Flyer near this city two years ago. George Cole confessed to holding up the train and was sent to prison for 14 years. His brother Harry has been under surveillance by officers since the holdup of the North Coast Limited and this evening was taken into custody by the officers.

Cole Flees and Is Shot Dead.

While he was being sweated in the office of the police station, Cole, it is said, defiantly declared that he knew all about the holdup of the limited, and made a dash for the door, which he reached, and ran down an alley leading from the police station. An officer started for Cole, but tripped over the threshold of the door and measured his length on the floor. McGarvey followed and tripped over the protruding form of the policeman and he, too, went to the floor. Jackson, who at this point had entered the room upon hearing the commotion, saw that Cole was about to make his escape, quickly drew his revolver and fired on him, hitting the fleeing man in the back and killing him almost in his tracks.

Mob Howls for Vengeance.

An immense crowd gathered and, the impression gaining ground that McGarvey had killed an innocent drunk, a cry went up to hang McGarvey. Timothy Cole, another brother of the dead man, and a cousin took the leadership of the mob, and, with more than 2000 men at his back, hastened to the County Jail, where they thought McGarvey was hiding, and attempted to force their way through the line of officers guarding the jail with drawn guns. Inside the jail were more officers, armed with Winchester rifles.

The mob secured a rope from a derick used in the construction of a building nearby and the shout was made to down the officers. At this point Deputy Sheriff Jack Wyman stopped the leaders of the mob and told them that McGarvey had left the jail and that they were welcome to search the building. This was done, no trace of the detective being found.

Cole's Brother Inflames Mob.

Mounting the steps in front of the Courthouse, Timothy Cole made an impassioned exhortation to the crowd to avenge the death of his brother, who, he declared, had been shot by McGarvey in cold blood. As the dead man had worked in the mines and many of the miners knew him personally, there were loud cries of approval with shouts of "Hang him to a pole!" and "Shoot him!" Cole addressed the mob until he became so hoarse he could talk barely in a whisper, and, telling the mob to follow made his way to the police station with the rapidly augmenting crowd following him until it had reached at least 5000 in number, the mob packing the streets for two blocks about the station.

Police Withstand Mob.

Drawn guns of the officers prevented the mob from searching the police station, and the crowd then made its way to the gun store of Carl Engle on West Park street, and despite the attempt of the police to guard the store forced its way into the place and secured a number of shotguns, but apparently thus far have been unable to locate the ammunition in the store.

The mob leaders declare they will have the life of the slayer of Cole, and if an attempt is made to raid the city or county jail blood will be spilled, judging from the temper of the officers.

Police Arrest Leaders.

The police restored quiet at about 11 o'clock tonight after they had succeeded in arresting Timothy Cole, the leader of the mob, and a youth named Flynn, who carried the rope; a man who gave his name as Sullivan and a cousin of Cole. These were held in the police station until the mob, lacking a leader, dispersed, when the four were permitted to go to their homes upon their promise to behave themselves.

Another Uprising Feared.

Fully 10,000 persons viewed the body of Cole this evening and for a time it was thought the police would have to put a stop to the morbid curiosity of the crowd, as angry imprecations against the officers were heard on all sides and another uprising was feared, people being in ignorance of the true facts of the killing and their passions giving way to the distorted stories which started the mob earlier in the evening.

Dynamite Smashes Windows.

A big dynamite explosion on a vacant lot in the lower part of the city last tonight shattered window-panes for a number of blocks around and precipitated a panic among the residents of the neighborhood. According to the police, a match containing 20 sticks of dynamite was exploded, apparently a ruse by leaders of a mob to draw the attention of the police to the scene, when a charge would be made on the police station in the hope of getting the slayer of Cole.

Return Home Sunday Morning.

The party will reach Portland Sunday morning at 8:30 o'clock. Saturday it will visit Condon, Arlington, Biggs, Wasco, Moro, Grass Valley and Shaniko. Today was spent in Umatilla and Morrow counties. At Echo the Portland men got a view of the irrigation work of the Government and of private irrigation companies, near this point. The canals of the Government work and of the Furness Company draw water from the Umatilla River to reclaim nearly 30,000 acres. Considerable work already has been done on the canals and the visitors were greatly interested.

See Big Irrigation Projects.

A talk full of information was delivered by Oliver P. Morton, attorney for the Government Reclamation Service. He said that 18,000 acres would be watered by this Government project within four or five years, and that the fertility of the soil is immeasurable. He declared the Umatilla district would be one of the best garden spots west of the Missouri River. The land now produces only sagebrush.

At Echo the Portlanders received a delegation of citizens from the next town, Hermiston, who accompanied them to that place. They were: S. R. Oldaker, S. H. Skinner, H. G. Newport and George W. Wolcott. Equally lively was the reception at Hermiston. This is the central point of the Government project, where the engineers have their headquarters and where material for the project is unloaded from the railroad. Samples of alfalfa were given to the visitors as souvenirs. Speeches of welcome were made by F. H. Bartlett and A. A. Lathrop, and responses by F. E. Beach, Senator Fulton and C. S. Jackson. Hermiston has a population of 300 and is growing fast. It is less than a year old.

Railroad Needed to Bring Product of Mines to Portland.

IRRIGON'S WARM WELCOME

Box of Ripe Strawberries Furnished the Party—Pendleton, Echo, Umatilla and Hermiston Among the Towns They Visited.

HEPPNER, Or., May 10.—(Staff Correspondence.)—After viewing the dry lands of the Umatilla irrigation district and beholding the fast growing towns of Echo, Hermiston, Umatilla, and Irrigon, the Portland men came to this city late this evening, where they were warmly greeted.

Heppner men are directing the attention of the visitors to the coal beds 21 miles south, where they say Portland could get fuel at $5 or $6 a ton, if the O. R. & N. would afford transportation. Imported coal in Heppner costs $11, while the local coal would cost only $3. The samples of the local coal led the visitors to the opinion that the mines should be developed. George Conser, president of the coal company, is seeking Portland aid for transportation.

At a meeting with Heppner citizens tonight, speeches were made by Mayor Frank Gilliam and S. E. Notson, president of the Heppner Commercial Club; F. E. Beach, H. M. Calk, Tom Richardson, of Portland; Addison Bennett, of Irrigon, and Senator Fulton.

STEVE ADAMS TO GO ON THE STAND

Wife Also Witness in Haywood Trial.

IMPORTANT TO STATE'S CASE

Mrs. Harry Orchard Is Another on List to Testify.

BOISE FEELS LESS UNEASY

Many Reports Stir City, but Strain Is Relieved—Story That Moyer Has Served at Joliet Penitentiary Emphatically Denied.

BOISE, Idaho, May 10.—(Special.)—The announcement that Steve Adams and his wife are both on the list of witnesses for the state in the Haywood trial has aroused a great deal of interest among those who understand the circumstances. When Adams gave his confession, which he afterwards repudiated, he was very specific about a great many matters. Afterward Mrs. Adams made a statement, which verified her husband's in a remarkable manner.

The two together made an important addition to the case of the state. Mrs. Adams contended that she knew of a great many of the matters of which her husband testified; she was present at many conferences and gave details that her husband had overlooked. It was a long time before she consented to make a statement, but when she did so it was of the greatest importance. When Adams was induced to go back on his statement, it was understood his wife followed his example. As will be recalled, when he sought to escape from the reach of the state, the latter had him arrested on the charge of murdering Fred Tyler on the St. Joe River in 1904.

Adams Center of Interest.

For that crime Adams was tried at Wallace last February, the jury failing to agree. It stood seven to five for acquittal. The public has wondered what Adams would do with that hanging over him. He seemed to hope for acquittal, but the state made such a showing against him, notwithstanding certain handicaps, that it left him in an awkward position. Until the time he sought to slip away there was no charge against him anywhere, and there would not have been, if he had stood pat.

Consequently it has been thought he might change his mind once more. When Adams made his confession it was taken in four parts. One of these was used in the trial at Wallace. What the others contain the public does not know, but it is understood they cover a wide range. What he has been called for no one knows, but his appearance on the stand will be filled with so many possibilities that it is interesting to know how he will testify.

Mrs. Orchard on List.

The wife of Harry Orchard is also to be a witness, another circumstance that arouses much attention. She is on the list under another name. Mrs. Orchard is said to be a superior woman and it is thought she knows a great many things about her husband's career. Sheriff Hodgins today appointed seven more deputies to serve during the trial. These will be about the courtroom and wherever else they may be needed. No list of witnesses for the defense has yet been filed.

STRAIN IS GREATLY RELIEVED

Relaxation in City After Intense Feeling.

BOISE, Idaho, May 10.—There is noticeable evidence of relaxation in the atmosphere of Boise today. Notwithstanding an outward appearance of apathy and lack of interest in the case, there has existed for some time in Boise an extremely tense feeling. Reports as to what might happen, either before the trial opened or during its progress, have tended to create a very decided feeling of uneasiness. The presence in the city of a number of private detectives employed by both sides and the outspoken attacks by the radical element of the Socialists necessarily brought out many rumors and reports purporting to come from authentic sources of probable trouble, such as an attack on the jail or an attempt to spirit away some of the chief witnesses for the prosecution.

The proceedings in the courtroom yesterday did much to dissipate this. There was a spirit of give-and-take. A joke from one or another of counsel or a laugh caused by the answer of a taleman acted as safety valves, and before the day was over the strain was relieved and every one breathed easier.

Expects Impartial Jury.

Mr. Richardson, one of Haywood's leading counsel, said today:

"We expect the Sheriff will select his venire with fairness and with care, so as to enable us to secure an impartial jury. If the right class of men is selected, we will not take a long time to secure a jury."

While the number of witnesses to be
