FIGHT LEADS TO ARREST

"MYSTERIOUS BILLY" SMITH IS AGAIN IN TROUBLE.

Charged With Threatening to Kill, He Declares Jim and Harry White Attacked Him.

"Mysterious Billy" Smith, proprietor of the Atlantic Cafe, Third and Pine streets, was arrested on a charge of threatening to kill, upon complaint of Jim White yesterday afternoon, the warrant having been issued by the Municipal Court. The prisoner furnished bill and was released pending the hearing before Judge Cameron. Smith was arrested as a result of a fight between Jim and Harry White and Smith, which occurred in front of the Atlantic Cafe, one block from police headquarters, at 1 o'clock last night. The trouble arose over disputes among the men concerning the sailor-boarding house, in which all had been interested up to a recent date, when Smith sold out to the White brothers. Bad blood has been known to exist between them for a long time, and it was no surprise to the police to hear of the fight.

When taken into custody, Smith declared that he was attacked by the Whites in front of his saloon on Third street, and he says, he fought only in defense. They assert Smith started the fight. "The White brothers laid for me in front of my saloon," said Smith, "and when I came out, they jumped on me, beating me with their umbrellas. I defended myself. I whipped both of them and made them run, and now they come back by having me arrested, although it was a two on one fight. I got a bruised eye-brow, but you ought to see them. It will cost them more than it will cost me, before they're through."

Jim White was pretty badly beaten, and the most noticeable injuries were to his ear and scalp. He showed plainly he had been pounded hard. Harry White was not hurt much. The brothers declare that Smith attacked them first, and that he has been telling around the city that he would thrash them one night. They declare they were forced to defend themselves. The fight was the fiercest witnessed in many months on a Portland street, and although hundreds of men gathered to see it, not one dared step in and interfere. No policeman put in an appearance, and the bout continued until the participants became exhausted.

Jim White was granted a conditional pardon by Governor Chamberlain last week on a charge of kidnaping. The case had been in the courts four years, but White never served any time in jail. One of the conditions of the pardon was that White should live a law-abiding, peaceable life.

DOCTORS SUGGEST GREAT PRECAUTIONS BE TAKEN.

Reports From California Show That Disease Claimed 58 Victims There During One Month.

There were two cases of spinal meningitis reported yesterday to the City Health Board, and one case that was not clearly developed. Two cases were reported from out-of-town places, one from Oregon City and one from Oak Grove, the latter being that of a 9-year-old child, Jesse Spield.

Both Dr. Wheeler of the City Board and Dr. Tenney of the State Board last night expressed the opinion that the disease has not reached an alarming stage of epidemic reports from the South to the contrary notwithstanding. Nothing new in the matter of precautionary measures against contracting the disease has developed, doctors expressing the hope that people will pay more attention to sanitary surroundings than usual, not particularly because of fear that the dreaded malady will spread to an alarming extent, but because of the uncertainty as to the source of its transmissibility. Students of the disease now believe that contagion is effected through nasal discharge and possibly sputum, for the micro-organism has been found in the blood corpuscles and there is easy transmission from those to the natural discharges of mucus.

Doctors advise careful brushing of clothing, sterilization of handkerchiefs that have been used, cleanliness of person and thorough airing of dwellings, particular attention being given to clothes-closets and damp cellars. A good sprinkling of chloride of lime is a desirable treatment for wet basements, after they have been swept out, not only as a possible preventive against meningitis, but because it is a good thing to do as a precaution against contracting other diseases as well.

One of the fatal cases yesterday was that of E. M. Stiemme who lived at Fourth and Grant streets. He expired yesterday after passing through a siege of terrible suffering the day before, passing on the street plainly hearing his screams of agony or of delirium. This mysterious and nearly always fatal disease is not confined in its ravages to Oregon. The California State Board of Health in its report for March says on the subject:

This disease has made its appearance in several parts of the state, and caused the death of 58 persons during March. These figures do not include those dying from tubercular meningitis, but it is more than probable that they are not all of the contagious type. It is extremely rare, however, to cause the exercise of the greatest care. The State Board of Health is in receipt of inquiries from health officers regarding the infectiousness of the disease, and the steps necessary to be taken to prevent its spread.

The disease is undoubtedly infectious, and every case must be promptly reported to the health officer, the patient isolated, and all discharges from the body destroyed. The discharges from the nose and throat must be received on cloth and be destroyed at once. After death, or recovery, everything connected with the patient must be thoroughly disinfected.

When the disease is found to exist in a

BRASS BEDS

Of the various furniture pieces that are made in metal, none have reached the popularity and are as effective and appropriate as the bed in brass. Skilled designers and mechanics have produced artistic bedroom pieces of this character. We show many stylish designs in brass bedsteads in the regular bright polish, etruscan and polet finishes. The etruscan is a dull finish throughout. In the polet finish the pillars, rods and scrolls are finished in etruscan, and the other trimmings are regular bright polish. Imported lacquer, is used on these to preserve the finish and prevent the brass from tarnishing. The Mission designs which we are showing will appeal especially to admirers of the work of the metal craftsman.

community every doubtful case should be considered as positive and the same care exercised, for with the severe cases are always mild ones, some to a degree that it is impossible to be sure of a diagnosis.
