Lewiston Bankers Must Go to Trial on Charge of Conspiracy.

IDAHO LAND-FRAUD CASES

Judge Dietrich Orders Empanelment of Jury Today-Grand Jury Sworn in - Attorney Johnson to Have Charge This Work.

MOSCOW, Idaho, May 16 .- (Special.)-Almost an hour was spent by the defense in the North Idaho land-fraud and conspiracy cases this afternoon in trying to prevent the immediate setting for trial any of the cases against the six defend-ents, with the result that United States District Attorney Ruick, of Boise, secured for trial tomorrow afternoon the conspir-acy cases against William F. Kettenback and George Kester, president and cashier of the Lewiston National Bank, and William Dwyer, timber cruiser for the bank, the action being based upon an indictment found by the Federal grand jury at Boise in July, 1905.

The defense said it was not ready to go trial upon the recent Boise indict-nt, because Attorneys J. B. West and N. Smith, of Lewiston, had not been apprised of their indictment until just before court convened. District Attorney Ruick said he considered that plea a piece of ingratitude, inasmuch as he did have the two attorneys at the time of their indictment arrested and caused to be placed under bonds, because he wanted to spare them that humiliation. He said both were familiar with the indictment, for it involves practically the ame evidence that was adduced in the Dwyer and Robnet trials, which resulted ction. Smith being one of the at-for the defense and West a wit-for the prosecution. After considerable cross-firing, District Attorney Ruick called up the old indict-ment, with which the defendants are familiar, but the defense asked until the middle of next week in which to prepare for trial, but Judge Dietrich ordered the impaneling of the jury tomorrow after-

This morning the grand jury was se lected and sworn in. Assistant United States Attorney Miles S. Johnson, who will have charge of the grand jury work, sald that much was to come before that

> Aside from the sacrifice that Judge Ballinger is making in his law practice he is dissatisfied with life in Washington and is out of patience with conditions in the General Lend Office. He has been cleaning house, dismissing barbacles without any compunction and reducing in rank incompetents whom preceding Commissioners had advanced under the civilservice rules. But even with his whole-sale house-cleaning, Judge Ballinger has found the work distasteful and the results almost discouraging.

Intimate friends of Judge Bailinger have it direct from the Commissioner himself that he would have quit long ago but for the insistence of Secretary Garfield and the Presidential influence. Now word comes from Washington through con-fidential sources that Judge Ballinger has declared unequivocally that he will only remain during the rest of the year and that he wants to be relieved about the time Congress convenes.

AN ELECTRIC ROAD

Marshfield and North Bend Capitalists Pledge Funds for the Proposed Line.

HOPEFUL OF A FRANCHISE

Generously Offer to Make System Common User Along Waterfront. Don't Want Harriman to Gobble Up All the Land.

MARSHPIELD, Or., May 16.—(Special.)

An electric line for Coos Bay now seems assured. Prominent men on the bay have raised about $60,000 by subbay have raised about $40.000 by sub-scriptions, and incorporation papers are being drawn up under the name of the Coos Bay Electric Railway Company. The company will be capitalized at $100,000. The shares were sold at $1000 each and the subscribers will pay off the issue in 10 ner cent assessments. W. Wait, of Portland, one of the prime movers in the plan, stated in an interview that active construction work would start as soon as the preliminary arrangements had been made and the franchises secured from the City Councils of Marshfield and North Bend. The proposed road is to parallel the water from the south end of the peninsula at Marshfield to the extreme northern point at North Bend. It will be used for hauling both freight and pas neers but the heavy business will be handling the local freight. Mr. Wait says the franchises will confer on the cities the right to determine whether the road will be a common user and what recompense will be charged other road using the water-front line for the handlng of their cars.

Won't Be Bottled by Harriman.

Because this clause was not inserted it the franchise which Hewitt and Bell presented to the City Council of Marshfeld is given as the reason why those men gave up their intention to build an electric line on Coos Bay's water front. They went so far as to secure a franchise from North Bend, and also from the county for the section of the peninsula between the two cities. When the matter came before the Council of Marshfeld, however, that body made the requirement that the electric-line franchise should permit of the road being used by any other te franchise which Hewitt and Bell mit of the road being used by any other roads, whether steam or electric, that might come in. No agreement was reached and the franchise has laid on the

that the Southern Pacific may be behind any attempts to parallel Coos Bay's water front. This company has come to be the Nemesis of the residents on the bay and as they regard the water front as the key to the whole commercial and industrial situation they wish to thwart Mr. Harriman in any attempt he may make to bottle up coos Bay for the furtherance of his financial interests.

Harriman Renews Operations.

It is believed that with a clause in the franchise which would make the road an open terminal for other roads that might in, no detriment would result the bay even though the Southern Pa should eventually secure contro

Although that road has again begun construction work between Drain and the Umpqua River and the line now only 30 miles away approaches nearer to Coos Bay every day the Southern Pacific ap-parently is making no efforts to secur-concessions of any kind either on or around Coos Bay, Though J. N. Nier the right-of-way man for the Southern Pacific has been on the bay for several days he steadily declares the intention of the railroad company to ignore Coos Bay if satisfactory concessions are not made

SHINGLE MEN FACE RUIN

UNABLE TO SUPPLY CONTRACT AT OLD PRICES.

Car Shortage Made Fall Shipments Impossible, and Western Mills Want to Cancel Orders.

SEATTLTE, Wash., May 16.—(Special.)
A group of wholesale shingle dealers is threatened with ruin if Eastern buyers can enforce contracts made last Novem-ber. A plea has been made to the line yard men asking them to compromise and agreeing to make good if concessions will be made the wholesalers' group. When the car shortage reduced the Fall movement of shingles to one-third last November, a number of wholesalers and manufacturers agreed to accept orders on the basis of $2 a thousand for stars, to prevent the market being bulled by speculators. They loaded up with these orders, then the railroads suddenly shut down entirely on shingle shipments.

The embargo against timber products was raised last month, but very few shingles have been shipped. As a result of depleted stocks in the East, prices to-day have gone to $3 & thousand for stars and wholesalers loaded up with $3 orders are threatened with ruln. They are reminding buyers that in the past whole-salers have allowed Easterners to cancel orders and the West now asks that privi-

People, However, Don't Like the Brilliant Flashes When Trolley Cars Ignite the Grease.

SALEM, Or., May 16 .- (Special.) -- Usa of oil on the streets as a substitute for sprinkling with water was begun on an extended scale here today. State Commercial, Liberty, Court and Chemeka streets, in the business district, were given a coating of oil brought from California. The oil is of a poorer grade than fuel oil and also cheaper, but is believed to be better for dust laying purposes. The cost has not yet been defi-nitely ascertained, as it is not known how much oil will be required or what the expense of putting it on will be, but it is estimated the cost will be 30 cents per front foot. Use of oil is not expected to be cheaper than water sprinkling, but is expected to be much more effective, for water lays the dust only part of each day, while oil keeps the dust down all the time.

One annoving incident of the use of oil was observed tonight when electric cars were running along streets that had been treated. Wherever dirt, saturated with oil, lay upon the rails, electric sparks ignited the oil, causing a very brilliant flash of fire, dazzling to the eyes of people within a distance of a block. It is believed that this annoyance will cease after the oil has been thoroughly mixed. after the oil has been thoroughly mixed with the dust of the street, but if it should continue, the flashing of light from cartracks will be a very serious objection to use of oil.
