Rose City Park Is Like a Great Garden

Wholesome employment keeps the little folks contented, happy and safe—and there is no employment more delightful to them, nothing better for them, than getting acquainted with Nature and Nature's ways.

Rose City Park is like a great garden, with its wealth of natural growth—almost every shade of green is now to be seen there, so luxuriant are trees and shrubbery.

Soon this great garden will be transformed into a veritable bower, as well, for the homes have come to Rose City Park, and with these will come the pride of Portland—the roses. The home garden, with its choice contributions of flowers and fresh vegetables, is the pride and joy of the suburban home-maker, and furnishes healthful employment and diversion not only for little folks, but for older ones, who are glad to have quiet, peaceful exercise in the pure air and sunshine of Rose City Park.

Here, too, the children learn to know the trees and wild flowers; learn to love the mellow notes of the meadow lark and dozens of other warblers that yearly "come" in this quiet, inviting home spot.

There is hardly anything to be desired in the way of ideal home environment that Rose City Park does not offer to the homeseeker.

THE large numbers of professional people, such as lawyers, teachers, bankers, editors, preachers, etc., who have purchased lots in Rose City Park, truthfully indicate that this is to be one of the most select residential sections of Portland.
