The Overall Twins
 Dear Sir, I think that a boy can have a better time making gardens than in any other way. He can get lots of fun out of it and it gives him a good appetite and keeps him out of mischief when his garden grows. Then when his garden grows he can sell vegetables to his mother and the neighbors and make some money. I am eight years old, I go to the Ladd school and my name is Robert Pillsbury 542 Morrison St.

Norris & Rowe Circus Here on Annual Visit

Bestest Brass Band in Country. "Cats" Shetland Pony Colls, Lions, Elephants and Tiers and Other Up-to-Date Features Among Attractions.

THE busiest brass band in the United States is one of the attractions of the Norris & Rowe circus, which opened a three days' engagement at Twenty-fifth and Raleigh streets yesterday afternoon. His equus has never been heard since the muster out of the Tennessee Infantry Regiment, which served during the recent unpleasantness. That band could play quicksteps even faster—but that is another story. Circus music was ever something of delight. That person must indeed be cold and anemic who could sit on a high blue seat while the boys who double in brass tout their heads off and not feel the thrill of inspiration.

The Norris & Rowe band certainly earns its pay. Everybody in the downtown sections yesterday forenoon knew it was circus day by the sound of the brass instruments which rose above the noise of traffic—those unmistakable tones which are as much a part of the circus as the "big top."

The Norris & Rowe enterprise is an annual visit to Portland. It has been coming since it was a little dog and pony show with small pretensions being the "greatest show on earth." Now it has evolved into a genuinely big affair with all the trimmings. The menagerie has been enlarged since last year and contains an interesting exhibit of ferocious beasts, of the usual garden variety.

The Shetland pony colls, particularly the twins, that proud mother took great pride in feeding at all times, attracted more attention than the fierce Numidian lions and the royal Bengal tigers. The menagerie is well worth seeing, in fact many of the visitors found it so fascinating that they spent most of their time in the animal tent.

The circus proper is quite a creditable one, with many of the visitors found it so fascinating that they spent most of their time in the animal tent.

The circus proper is quite a creditable one, with many of the visitors found it so fascinating that they spent most of their time in the animal tent.

Of course there is the usual clown contending who managed to extract some humor from their efforts without the use of anaesthetics. The aerial acts in themselves were quite sufficient to constitute an evening's entertainment.

Norris & Rowe's circus is better than ever before. It reflects credit upon its enterprising managers, and must be rated among the important circuses of the country. There will be performances this afternoon and night and tomorrow afternoon and night. Go and take the children.

Three Eastern Manufacturers Write to Board of Trade.

Three Eastern manufacturing firms are in correspondence with the Board of Trade with reference to establishing plants in Portland. One of these is a large concern, now located at Milwaukee, Wis., that is engaged in making bank fixtures; another is an architectural designer from the same city, and the other is a millinery firm now established in Chicago.

These letters are the result of advertising matter sent out by the commercial bodies of the city, and while no definite arrangements have been entered into as yet, the fact that inquiries are made regarding what Portland has to offer in the way of a field for operations indicates the interest Eastern business men are taking in this city.

Secretary Lavinier did not receive a reply to his report on the glass works proposition, sent some days ago, but is confident that the manufacturer who made the inquiry will be well satisfied with the Evangelical Association Bodies Will Meet at Jennings' Lodge.

FIX CONVENTION DATES

The annual conventions of the Evangelical Association of Oregon will begin July 23, and will be held at the conference Chautauqua grounds on the Willamette River, at Jennings' lodge. The grounds are reached by the Oregon City electric railway. These conventions are those of the Evangelical Ministerial Association, the State Young People's Alliance, Sunday school and other bodies. This year it is hoped to secure attendance of a Bible instructor from the East. Programmes for these organizations are now being made up. Following the conventions will be the annual camping-out, which will last about two weeks. It is expected also at this annual gathering to take some steps toward the erection of a tabernacle on the convention grounds.

Denies Mistreating Jeff W. Hayes.

Referring to an account published in an evening paper concerning his treatment of Jeff W. Hayes for blindness, Warren I. Foss, who claims to be an eye expert, said last night: "I explain my treatment of Mr. Hayes by saying I recommended him to take a bath in hot water, and massaged him thoroughly, paying particular attention to his eyes. When this was completed I struck him on the back suddenly, knowing that an unexpected jar has, in the history of medical science, restored sight. Mr. Hayes did not come to me. I went to him and assured him I could restore his sight. I invited him to come to my apartments at the Oregon, and he assented. "When we arrived at my rooms I recommended a bath as hot as he could stand. I did not force him to take the bath. After wrapping him between two heavy blankets and ordering ice water brought to him to perspire, I left him for the night. In the morning I accompanied him to his office, cautioning him to call on me at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. I guarantee complete restoration of his sight by 7 o'clock that night if he did not neglect the afternoon visit. He did not call on me and I did not say anything more about my patient until I was confronted by an account given in an evening paper concerning my treatment of him. I was introduced to Hayes by Mrs. Frank B. Coulter, who at one time was employed by him. We met at her house for the first time the day before yesterday. I deny forcing him to smoke cigarettes as part of my treatment. I simply offered him a cigarette, as I would offer one to any of my acquaintances."
