

MCKINLEYS WED IDEAL HOME LIFE

Roosevelt Says Devotion to Wife Set Example to the Nation.

ADDRESSES HUGE CROWD

Returning From Mrs. McKinley's Funeral, He Speaks at Akron. Widow Is Laid Beside Murdered President at Canton.

AKRON, O., May 29.—It was half an hour after the President boarded his car at Canton he left for Akron Junction. A tremendous crowd gathered in the vicinity of the depot. The President took advantage of the opportunity to say a few words about his visit and of the beautiful home life of Mr. and Mrs. McKinley. He said:

"We have come here today to attend the funeral of Mrs. McKinley. President McKinley rendered great service to the Nation as a public man, but no greater than he and Mrs. McKinley rendered by a home life which would be an example to all our Nation. The essential things, after all, are the home life things. President McKinley served his country as a citizen should serve his country in war and peace. But it was in his own home, perhaps, that in devotion to the loving woman we have just buried he gave the best example to us all."

Mr. Roosevelt introduced his distinguished associate to the crowd and the latter bowed. Mr. Fairbanks will travel with the President to Indianapolis, where the latter will speak tomorrow at the dedication of the Lawton monument. Secretary Root, who came to Canton with the President, returned East tonight and Secretary Wilson went to Chicago. He will return to the party at 5:30 o'clock. Here his car was switched to a siding until 9 o'clock, when it was connected with a train for Greenwich, O., where a stop was made for the night.

BURIED BESIDE HER HUSBAND

President and Cabinet and All Canton Mourn Mrs. McKinley.

CANTON, O., May 29.—The body of Ida Saxton McKinley tonight rests beside that of her distinguished husband in Westlawn cemetery. Her last words, "Oh, God, why should I longer wait? Let me be beside him," have been answered. The funeral services at the old-fashioned McKinley home were extremely simple. Four songs were sung, the same that were sung at the funeral of President McKinley, and the service was the simple ritual of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The house was roped off to restrain the crowds which thronged the neighboring thoroughfares. A broad lavender ribbon fluttered from the door to indicate a house of mourning and only a few intimate friends visited the house during the forenoon. Aside from the ropes strung along the streets, there was nothing to indicate that a ceremony of unusual import was about to take place. It was not until the funeral services were actually being performed that the streets became crowded.

Arrival of Roosevelt.

President Roosevelt arrived at 12:45 P. M. and was driven immediately to the residence of Justice Day for luncheon. Among others at the table were Secretaries Root, Cortelyou and Wilson, Governor Harris and ex-Governor Herrick. Immediately after luncheon the President and party went to the McKinley home. The body in its black casket rested in the flower-embowered place in the so-called "campaign office," in the place where President McKinley's body lay. The roses which Mrs. McKinley favored filled the room, with the exception of which there was not room in the house, were sent to the cemetery ahead of the cortege. The President, Surgeon-General Rixey, Mr. Wilson and other officials were seated in the hall and adjoining room.

All Canton Stops Business.

While the services were being conducted by Rev. Dr. Burfield, the First Methodist Episcopal Church and the Rev. Dr. Holmes, formerly pastor of that church, all business in Canton stopped. Retail stores, schools and places of amusement, both in the city and surrounding country, were closed and the streetcars in the vicinity of the McKinley home did not run. Thousands of persons lined the sidewalks and were pressed behind the ropes along North Market street and Louis street and all along the route to Westlawn cemetery flags were at half-mast and men and women in somber garb lined the way.

The pallbearers were Judge Henry W. Harter, John C. Neuber, Joseph Bieshele, Robert Cassidy and George B. Fresser, who were honorary pallbearers at the funeral of President McKinley, and Austin Lynch, R. S. Shields and Judge C. C. Bo.

Will Be Laid in Mausoleum.

The receiving vault, which is still guarded by United States Regulars, will be the resting place of the bodies of both Mr. and Mrs. McKinley until the magnificent McKinley mausoleum, built by public subscription, is completed, probably in September.

Among others present during the services were Mr. and Mrs. George Barber, of New York; Mrs. Mabel McKinley Baer, and her husband, Hermann Baer, of New York; Miss Helen McKinley, of Cleveland; ex-Postmaster-General Gary and Mrs. Gary, Senator Knox, of Pittsburgh; Senator and Mrs. Dick and Charles G. Dawes.

The sons of two former Presidents met at the funeral, Webb Hayes, of Cleveland, and James R. Garfield, of Washington. Mrs. Fairbanks, wife of the Vice-President, could not attend, owing to illness, but sent a floral wreath.

False Rumor About Czolgosz.

When the services in the cemetery were over the Presidential party returned to the Baltimore & Ohio station, where the 4:35 o'clock train for Indianapolis was taken.

Despite a rumor that Michael Czolgosz, brother of the assassin of President McKinley, would be in Canton today, the funeral and the contingent visit of the President passed off without serious incident. The local police and Secret Service men from Washington were in constant watch during the President's stay, but no trace was found of Czolgosz nor any anarchist, although all strangers were held in jail until they had left.

SHORT STOPS ON JOURNEY

President Talks With Cabinet Members Till Late at Night.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 29.—President Roosevelt and party arrived at Youngstown at 9:30 this morning on their way to Canton. Stops were made at Elwood City and Newcastie Junction, where crowds shook the President's hand. Extraordinary precautions were taken by the railroad company to safeguard the President's train. The President remained up until a late hour last night, discussing affairs with Secretaries Root, Garfield and Wilson. At breakfast, this morning, which was served between Pittsburgh and Youngstown, the President had as guests members of his cabinet and Hermann Kohlsaat, of Chicago.

SOILED HANDS GOOD AS ANY

President Eagerly Claps the Grimy Palms of Machinists.

NEWCASTLE, Pa., May 29.—"A soiled hand looks as good to me as any other," announced President Roosevelt at the Newcastle Junction when greeting a lot of machinists from the shops. The Presidential train was late in arriving and remained only a few minutes. Crowds of railroad men were about to greet the President, who appeared hatless and attired in a sack suit. He was loudly cheered and hoped Newcastle would have abundant prosperity. A clerk shook hands with the President, but others held back, when the President stretched out his arm and clasped the dirtiest hand of all, saying honest grim made no difference to him. Then he was cheered again and again.

Czolgosz Visiting Wife's Grave.

CLEVELAND, May 29.—According to a statement made today by relatives of Michael Czolgosz, the latter today is in Newcastle, Pa., where he went to place flowers on his wife's grave on Memorial Day. It is stated that Czolgosz had no intention of visiting Canton.

President Proceeds on Journey.

GREENWICH, O., May 29.—The President and party arrived here at 11:08 o'clock tonight and will remain until 5 o'clock in the morning, when the journey to Indianapolis will be resumed. Most of the party had retired when this place was reached.

Czolgosz Not at Newcastle.

NEWCASTLE, Pa., May 29.—Nothing is known here concerning the reported presence of Michael Czolgosz, brother of the slayer of President McKinley.

COURT DECIDES OLD CASE

CLAIM OF PORTLAND BANKS FOR $14,000 LOST.

Judge Rules That De Lashmuth and McCauley Met Obligation of Coeur d'Alene Bank.

BOISE, Idaho, May 29.—(Special.)—Judge Fremont Wood today decided a case pending in Shoshone County involving the final report of Abner G. Kerns, receiver of the Coeur d'Alene Bank of Wallace. This is the bank formerly owned by Van B. De Lashmuth and George B. McCauley, and in one form or another its receivership has been involved in the courts of the state and the United States for nearly 15 years.

By the decision of the Canadian Bank of Commerce of Portland, amounting to more than $14,000, is disallowed and an order of Judge Morgan, heretofore made allowing the same, is vacated and set aside. Judge Wood decides that this claim was paid in 1889 by McCauley and De Lashmuth. At that time the last named parties were sued on a personal guaranty, which they had given the bank to secure the indebtedness of the Coeur d'Alene Bank. The suit was compromised and Judge Wood decides that the evidence shows that this compromise settlement included not only the personal guaranty, but also the principal debt.

Judge Wood also disallows the principal portion of a claim presented by Joseph G. Kerns, of Wallace, but leaves a few items of this account open for further suggestions from attorneys for the interested parties. Otherwise the report is confirmed.

This is the case which Judge Wood heard at Wallace in April, at which time an allowance of $10,000 was made for compensation of the receiver and his attorneys.

CLOUD RESTS ON JOHN D'S ADMIRER

Professor Triggs, of Chicago University, Sued for Divorce.

LOVER OF MANY WOMEN

Man Who Declared Rockefeller Greater Than Shakespeare Accused of Being Another Don Juan—Sensation Promised.

CHICAGO, May 29.—(Special.)—Oscar Lovell Triggs, formerly professor of literature in the University of Chicago, he who said John D. Rockefeller was a bigger man than Shakespeare, was sued for divorce today by his wife. Numerous affairs with other women are charged against the professor as a basis for the suit. Mrs. Triggs in her petition does not name the women. This does not mean she cannot do so, however, say her attorneys. "If the professor wants to be shown, he can be," said one, "and a real sensation on the South Side will result if the names of his female admirers are made public."

The couple separated December 21, 1906. Her husband's fondness for other women, says Mrs. Triggs, caused this move. They were married January 6, 1892. Mrs. Triggs in her bill declares she treated her husband "kindly and affectionately" and was "a good, true and virtuous wife." She accuses her husband of having "given himself over to adulterous practices, wholly regardless of his marriage vows." She asks the court to let her be the custody of the child and that she may resume her maiden name, Laura Sterrett McAdoo. She asks alimony.

Mrs. Triggs is now in Paris, France, with their only child, Edmund, 4 years old. Professor Triggs is wandering through the State of California, gathering magazine data.

PRISON CAPACITY TAXED

Labor War Prisoners at Goldfield Force Out on Bail.

GOLDFIELD, Nev., May 29.—Preston and Smith, convicted of the murder of John Silve in the late labor war, were taken to the State Penitentiary today, the first to serve a term of 25 years and the second a term of 10 years. An appeal for a new trial has been made to the Supreme Court, and they left in high hopes that a new trial will be granted. Today Vincent St. John and six others, under indictment for murder in the same case, were admitted to bail on $10,000 each. St. John and two others got bondmen. The others are expected to be released tomorrow. The application of the seven for separate trials was refused by the court today and all will have to stand trial together on the charge of murder, there being no statute covering conspiracy in Nevada. Because the criminal docket is so full, their cases probably will not come up until August. The District Attorney consented to bail for St. John and the others for the reason that the temporary jail is in no condition for so many prisoners, Goldfield having but recently become a county seat. There is no permanent courthouse and jail.

DID NOT ASK $4,000,000

Mrs. Gould's Attorney Evades Direct Statement of Amount.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Clarence J. Shearn, counsel for Mrs. Gould, stated tonight that his client had never asked for a settlement of $4,000,000 from her husband.

"However," said Mr. Shearn, "at the time the Goulds separated I had a conference with Delancey Nicoll, counsel for Mr. Gould, and we discussed alimony, but no such amount as $4,000,000 was asked."
