ASK NEW RATE ON PRUNES

Coast Growers Object to Higher

Charge for Bags Than Boxes.

SALEM, Or., June 4 .- (Special.)-Oregon prunegrowers and packers have an important interest in the movement originattant interest in the movement originat-ing in California to compel the raircads to put into force a new schedule of freight rates for prunes in boxes or in bags. The controversy has been taken before the Interstate Commerce Commission and whatever conclusion may be teached will affect Oregon as well as California. The movement originated with Coast growers and Eastern packers. It is opposed by Goast packers. The present rate from the Coast to the East, on carload 40ts, is $1 per hundred on prunes in boxes, and $1.20 on prunes in bass. It is at once apparent that this rate is in the interest of Coast packers, for boxed prunes have a lower rate than prunes in bags. Coast growers who have taken the matter up say that this tends give Coast packers a monopoly and enables them to fix prices, whereas if rutes on bags and baxes were the same. Eastern packers would come here and bid for the fruit, thus giving the grower the advantage of a larger number of bidders who would always be in close com-petition. Eastern dealers say that they should be permitted to buy prunes here in bags and take them East and pack them to suff themselves. They assert that they are anxious to know that the goods they put upon the market are of high grade and it is therefore essential that they be allowed to pack the prunes in their own orders here.

that they be allowed to pack the prunes in their own packing-houses. On the other hand, Oregon packers, say that it is very desirable that Oregon prunes be placed upon the market under an Oregon brand and that in order to do this it is necessary that the packing be done in Oregon. If the packing he fore here it will give employment to Ore-gon people, provide a market for Oregon box material and keep Oregon box fac-tories busy. They argue, also, that Ore-gon packers have more interest in the quality and honest packing of prunes than con packers have more interest in the quality and honest packing of prunes than the Eastern packer has, for the reputa-tion of the fruit is at atake and Oregon people have most to lose by poor pack-ing. Eastern dealers would pack the prunes under a brand to suit themselves, and Oregon would get no advertising from that method of putting the fruit on the market. the market

The railroads defend the present rate. The railroads defend the present rate, saying that prunes in boxes should be given a relatively lower rate for the reason that prune bags tear easily and the fruit is more likely to be injured by water than it would be in boxes. The Superior Court f. Genree, May 18. I Genree they should get a higher rate. They assert, also, that a box con-taining 50 pounds of prunes weighs 55
