

DEFENDS THEFT IN POLICE COURT

Radical Doctrines Expounded by Piferer, With Disastrous Results to Himself.

GOES TO THE ROCKPILE

Miss Annie Anderson Decides to Leave City Because Her Happiness is of a Kind Not Appreciated in Portland.

James J. McGinnis, professional philosopher and victim of social theories of his own creation, preached his doctrines to an unappreciative audience in the Municipal Court yesterday forenoon.

McGinnis was the first man that ever arose to deliver an oration on the occasion of a demonstration of the potency of a doctrine of his own creation.

McGinnis was arrested for simple larceny. He took a canvas covering from a peanut wagon at Third and Columbia street, an offense for which he was arrested an hour later while engaged in tacking the canvas up as a covering for his rattletrap wagon.

When asked whether or not he was guilty, McGinnis arose and delivered himself of a doctrine which marked him as a cross between a rickety Socialist and a deep-dyed Anarchist.

"I took it," he said, with the bombastic intensity assumed by all extremists, "I took it—and I feel that I did no wrong! It was of no use to the man that once owned it. It was going to waste, and when I took it, it was no interfered. Under such conditions, I did right for I needed the canvas for my junk wagon."

"Why didn't you buy canvas?" suggested Judge Cameron.

"I do not make money enough in the junk business," said McGinnis.

"You don't have to stay in the junk business—you might go to work at some useful occupation," persisted the court.

"Work?" exclaimed the prisoner. "I would not work for any man. I tried to work once, but I was not a union man and the unions were against me. Then the nonunion workers got down on me, and I was discharged after job—and now I don't work at all!"

McGinnis assumed a heroic attitude peculiar to maniacs. Just why factional antagonism should destroy a man's usefulness the court was unable to understand.

"Dot wort 'peruna' iss a Polisher wort meanin' 'dunder und blitzen'." Gearl got off by posting $20 as a forfeit to the city in event he does not sell all his chickens inside of ten days.

Completing St. Johns Ferry. The ferry that will be used between St. Johns and Linnton is being completed on the East Side, north of Morrison bridge. The cabin is finished and the machinery is in place. It remains to build the side wheels. The craft will probably be finished ready for that route before July 1.

FLOOD OF ENTRIES

Many Apply for Places in the Rose Parade.

RULES FOR THE FIESTA

Umatilla Indians in Native Finery Will Be Feature of Great Flower Pageant—Large Entry in the Trophy Class.

Entries by the hundreds poured in at rose carnival headquarters yesterday for participation in the big floral parade of June 21. It kept the clerical force busy handling these applications for positions in the parade, and the results of the day indicate very plainly that the public's participation will meet all expectations.

Hereafter applications will likewise be received for space in the floral exhibit at the Forestry building. While the spacious structure has more than 50,000 square feet of available exhibit space, it is hoped that every portion of this will be utilized by exhibitors. Those presenting their applications first will be given the choice of the exhibit space. As in the parade, nothing of an advertising nature will be permitted in the exhibit unless it be a creation of flowers.

While yesterday's applications for space in the parade could not be segregated, a cursory examination disclosed that the majority of entries were sent in under the trophy prize class. Those competing for cash prizes, however, were numerous. The following rules will govern in the parade:

Nothing of an advertising nature will be allowed in the parade unless it is a creation of flowers. No contestant can enter the same vehicle twice, pony or goat, in competition for more than one prize.

Each and every contestant for prize honors will be assigned to position in the parade and must be at the point designated by the parade committee at 1:30 P. M. sharp.

The judges awarding prizes will review the pageant in its entirety from different places along the route, and mark points of merit which are to be compared when the awarding committee convenes.

The parades at the Lewis and Clark Fairgrounds will serve as the grand reviewing stand before the awarding committee. The prizes for the parade must pass for judgment before disbanding the parade.

After passing the grandstand the entire column will be arranged in a semi-circle at the court of honor and sunken gardens, where a historical photograph will be taken. The judges will score decorations of natural flowers over the artificial ones.

Arrangements are being made to import a band of Umatilla Indians from the reservation to appear in the parade. It is intended to secure as many of these Indians as possible. Those that come will bring their reservation finery with them and appear as aborigines.

It is being urged by the publicity committee that postcards be sent out in large quantities. Everyone is expected to send out a few of these cards. The cards have been left in thousands at the various department stores, cigar stands, newsstands and trading places. They may be had for the asking, and as a 1-cent stamp gets the card through the mails, the expense of sending a few to friends, relatives or acquaintances is obviously not very great. The benefits to the city, however, from this combined publicity, are incalculable.

PAINTERS' SCAFFOLD FALLS

WORKMAN TUMBLES THREE STORIES TO SIDEWALK.

Companion Pinned Between Board and Rope Until Rescued by Witnesses of Accident.

Scaffolding three stories above the sidewalk on which two men were at work painting the Flatiron building at First and Vine streets collapsed about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Carl Kalkoff, one of the painters, was precipitated to the cement sidewalk, a distance of three stories, and Victor Newman, the other, was pinned between the end of a board and a large rope and was left to dangle in the air until rescued by N. A. and Richard Forbes and William Denny.

Kalkoff tried desperately to save himself by grasping a rope, but finally lost his hold and fell almost the entire distance of three stories. He was painfully, but not seriously injured, and was removed to St. Vincent's Hospital by the police and was treated by City Physician Ziegler.

For fully five minutes, Newman, unable to extricate himself because he was helplessly pinned, dangled in midair, his life being in imminent danger, as it was momentarily feared the rope would break or slip and he would fall.

The Forbes Brothers and Mr. Denny, all employed in the office of the Forbes Engraving Company, on the second floor, at once saw the predicament of Newman and notified the police. They then turned their attention to the rescue of Newman, at last reaching him by means of a rope from a window of the third floor. Sergeant Robson and Officer Burke, who had arrived meanwhile in a patrol wagon, appealed to the fire department for a truck, but it reached the scene too late to be of service.

Kalkoff and Newman were engaged in painting the south side of the building. They had just drawn themselves up on the scaffold, and had made it fast. The rope at the west end slipped, letting fall one end of the scaffold, upon which Kalkoff was working, but the rope at the other end held, allowing the end of the heavy board to fly up and pinion Newman.

Advertisement for Dr. Tilden's Shortcake Food. The ad features a large illustration of a woman in a long dress and a child, with a bowl of food. The text reads: "People with delicate, sensitive stomachs should eat this food, and it is good enough for anybody. Take a shallow dish and put what quantity desired of... DR. TILDEN'S SHORTCAKE FOOD WHEAT FLAKE CEREAL FOOD... say, fill the dish two-thirds full of the flakes; then put on top of this the berries, or any other fruit desired (the fruit should be prepared by allowing it to stand for an hour with sugar on it); serve with whipped cream. Berries, pineapple—in fact any fruit, stewed or fresh—served this way will fill a long-felt want. This kind of shortcake won't hurt anyone who can eat.
