

CASE OF SEATTLE MATRON A PUZZLE

Victim of Circumstances or Owner of a Most Remarkable Imagination.

POLICE JUDGE IS MERCIFUL

Court Hears Story of Moral Squad and Mrs. Poulson's Explanation, Then Gives Her Benefit of the Doubt.

Mrs. Vera Poulson, a Seattle matron who was visiting in Portland for several weeks, is either the victim of most extraordinary circumstances, or the owner of remarkable imaginative faculty and finely developed tact. The matter occupied a full hour in the Municipal Court yesterday forenoon. Mrs. Poulson insisted that circumstances had cast a misleading web about her, the police asserted that her imagination was overly active, and Judge Cameron was unable to decide authoritatively which was right. He finally permitted Mrs. Poulson to return to her home on Puget Sound.

Here are the facts in the case, as near as may be:

Mrs. Poulson was walking on Everett street. The ubiquitous Mr. Kay, of course, was walking on the same thoroughfare. With the keen instinct developed by long observation, the moral squad thought he detected a subtle indefinable something about Mrs. Poulson as of one who is consumed by a gnawing thirst such as crystal ball run cannot allay.

"I'll wager she's bound for Mysterious William's place," said the moral squad to himself.

Mr. Kay immediately assigned himself to the case. He noted that the lady already was inclined to take varying directions on the sidewalk. And what was his surprise at seeing her turn abruptly at the entrance of the mysterious one's place.

Mrs. Poulson did not step inside. The turn was made so abruptly as to defeat any such intention, even if she harbored it. She staggered for a moment trying to catch her balance, then she lurched into the entrance of the place and fell heavily.

"Madame, I see you are in no condition to be on the sidewalk. Permit me to assist you to a place of safe keeping," remarked the gallant moral squad, appearing on the scene.

"Thank you—you are very, very kind," said Mrs. Poulson, accepting the offered arm and getting gingerly to her feet.

"I'm afraid I've broken my ankle," she said, limping pitifully.

"I'm afraid you've broken the law," said Mr. Kay, quickly shifting to windward of her breath.

Then light broke on Mrs. Poulson and she alternated between screams of threats to the trip to Second and Oak streets was made.

When the incident was called to the attention of Judge Cameron yesterday morning he said that if Mrs. Poulson was not drunk she was at least the victim of the most unusual set of circumstances that had ever come to his attention.

"It was my ankle," sobbed the Seattle matron. "I was walking to meet some friends, when I slipped, my ankle turned and I fell. I did not know where I was falling. It was my ankle that was the accident befell me in front of a saloon."

The court was still unconvinced. But inasmuch as Mrs. Poulson announced a willingness to terminate her visit to Portland and return home, he thought she was entitled to the benefit of a doubt, provided she would take the next train out.

"Yes, I know I promised you I'd never come back again," said Miss Nellie Collins, plaintively.

"Let's you promise worth anything?"

"Oh, yes, indeed, for I meant it to as I said—but you know."

"THE MINEOWNERS DID IT"

It Is Assumed That They Caused the Murder of Governor Steunenberg.

VANCOUVER, Wash., June 12.—(To the Editor:—The Editor of the Trial of a great murder case like that now going on at Boise it is well to refrain from making public opinion for or against the accused; but as the Oregonian has twice committed the same error, I feel it my duty to plainly state the interests of the defense, it would be no more than to state the facts of the case.)

The Oregonian says that it would be an insult to common intelligence to believe that the mineowners were the cause of the murder of Steunenberg. This is well if the murder of Steunenberg stood alone as a single instance of crime, but it surely is not an insult to intelligence to believe in the long series of crime and outrage perpetrated by the mineowners in the state of Colorado during the last few years in the name of law and order, backed up as it is by the published statements of Mr. Wright, a Government official. Nor is it an insult to intelligence to believe in the possibility that large corporations or companies controlling valuable property interests would resort to murder to protect their rights of property, if they saw those rights in danger. The columns of the Oregonian for the last year or two furnish ample proof of what crimes are perpetrated for the protection of the interests, and the courts of the country just to Portland, do not in the interests of property and the rights to skin the other fellow. The Oregonian can find plenty of intelligent people who believe not only in the possibility, but in the extreme probability that the murder of Steunenberg is concerned it was contrived as a part of a deep-laid plot by the Pinkerton agency in carrying out their contract with the mineowners to break and destroy the organization of the United Mine Workers of America.

To the intelligent man who has thoroughly posted himself on both sides of the controversy, this theory is a very remarkable truth. That the Pinkertons were given such a contract there can be but little doubt. The fact that the contract was made with the mineowners, and that the human life would be counted as of no value, is a fact that is not to be denied. The fact that the mineowners are the ones who are bringing the case into the jurisdiction of a state where competition in mining means the destruction of the state law to give the prosecution advantage; the interest of high officials in the state, and the fact that the mineowners' organization, all point to a deep-laid plot to break the power of the United Mine Workers of America, and the rising Socialistic ideas among the workers in other lines.

Much has been made of the fact that the defense is unable to shake Orchard's testimony on cross examination. After 16 months of preparing an expert like Orchard, it would be a miracle if a man of even ordinary intelligence would make a mistake in reciting a part of his testimony, and every evidence of being carefully learned and rehearsed in every point, and if unlimited money is expended in the purchase of evidence which is forthcoming.

The real issue in this case, nor can it be hoped by the prosecution to keep the people in ignorance of the facts. Orchard's line is clearly drawn in the struggle and none but the wilfully blind can fail to see it. Meyer, Hayward, Steunenberg and Orchard are only pawns in the game; property rights vs. human rights is the issue and the matter will not be settled until the triumph of the human rights.

The meantime the play will proceed with the papers representing property rights coloring their reports in the interests of the mineowners, and the mineowners will finally decide the case looks on at the spectacle of a prosecution by indicted timber thieves, hired assassins and political interests posing in the name of law and order against a few individual labor leaders and an engaged crowd of thousands of men protesting against legalized robbery by exploitation and murder in the name of business.

The funeral of the Rev. Father Anselm, O. S. The church interior was draped in heavy mourning. Streamers of black silk were stretched between the pews, and the altar was draped with black. The casket was placed in the aisle fronting the sanctuary. At the appointed hour the priests, forming a procession, marched through the center aisle to the altar, followed by Archbishop Christie, and the requiem for the dead priest was celebrated with great solemnity.

At the conclusion of the mass, Archbishop Christie delivered an eloquent oration on the life and character of Father Anselm. He declared that the dead priest had made a worthy preparation for his work, and was thoroughly grounded in theology and philosophy.

"He was a most noble character," said the Archbishop. "He was a man of high moral and intellectual qualities, for his modesty and simplicity, his high scholarship, deep piety, and for his devotion and sacrifice for the church."

The interment will be made today in the Mount Angel Cemetery. Father Anselm was 60 years old. For a number of years he was teacher of Hebrew, Greek, history and moral theology in the Mount Angel College. He left that place to become a missionary among the humble and needy.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 13.—(Special to The Oregonian.)—The cruiser Charleston is due here Tuesday noon. The vessel will arrive off the Columbia Monday—Committee From Rose Carnival and Representatives of City to Receive Her.

The foregoing dispatch was received by Captain Patterson late yesterday afternoon. He will proceed to Astoria Monday and leave up the same evening. The Charleston will arrive at anchorage in Portland about noon Tuesday. From the message sent by the commandant, it appears that the Charleston will be the only vessel to come here for the Rose Carnival and the Fourth of July.

The flagship of the Pacific squadron will anchor near Walker's Island on the night of June 17. Messages will be sent to Portland which will give the exact time of her arrival. Mayor Lane will appoint a committee to receive the vessel in behalf of the city, and the directors of the Rose Carnival will look after the officers and members of the crew for the festival.

Several weeks ago the plan was launched to have the cruiser Charleston in the harbor for the Rose Carnival and the celebration of the Fourth. After consulting the Lighthouse Department as to the depth of water in the river, the warship was ordered to proceed to Portland. Harbormaster Speler will have a gang

LUMBER CARRIERS CHARTERED

W. T. Carroll Has Taken The Steamer Thomas L. Wand.

The steamer Thomas L. Wand has been chartered to W. T. Carroll and will transport a full cargo of lumber from the Eastern & Western Mill to San Pedro. The Wand has made a number of trips to the Columbia River but has not loaded in Portland for several months. She carries about 70,000 feet. The vessel is now at San Francisco.

F. Baumgartner chartered the steamer John C. Howard to carry lumber to Southern California. The vessel will load at Stella and will be followed immediately at that place by the steamer Fred E. Howard, also carrying lumber. The demand for tons in Southern California is good and tonnage is easily secured. The situation is such in San Francisco that lumber carriers have practically all gone to Oakland Creek and tied up, unless trip charters are secured. So far during the present month not a foot of lumber has been shipped to the coastwise trade. The steamer Daisy Freeman cleared but did not get away. She struck on the bar and was compelled to put her of the mouth of the river. The lumber carrier John J. Young will leave down at daylight this morning with 800,000 feet.

DALGONAR HAS BAD LUCK

British Ship Now Due at Portland Had a Bad Start.

The British ship Dalgonar, Captain Blister, now en route from Hamburg to Portland with cement for Meyer, Wilson & Co., has now been out from the German port 125 days, and should be showing up off the mouth of the river. The ship was heard from the craft was on March 15, when she was spoken in 54 S. 65 W. With average good luck she should be getting well along by the coast by now. The Dalgonar began her present voyage under a cloud. While at anchor in Cuxhaven Roads she lost her anchor and 45 fathoms of chain. Five days later she collided with the Swedish steamer Gelfe and had her side quarter bumper damaged. She returned for repairs and sailed again January 19. In January 28 she was reported 300 miles N. E. of the Azores.

MANSHU MARU IS COMING

Japanese Steamer Sailed From Mexican Port June 12.

The Japanese steamer Manshu Maru has been chartered by the Portland & Astoria Steamship Company to carry flour and lumber to Japanese ports. The Manshu Maru is now en route to this port from Manzanillo having left the Mexican port June 12.

The Manshu Maru was secured to relieve the pressure on the regular line steamers. She will take no freight for Hongkong and will carry no general cargo.

The Manshu Maru loaded here in March and carried 58,738 bushels of wheat and 23,734 barrels of flour for Kobe, Moji and Yokohama.

I Am Master of Men's Weakness

Note the announcements of all other specialists and medical institutes and you will see how little they say about their treatment for Men's Weakness and how lightly they pass over the subject. Yet one man out of every four has a vital weakness which constantly drains his power, and the man must continually force himself along in his every-day path of living. There is no real joy or happiness that is not marred by his ever-present feeling that he is not doing his best. I not only hold out a helping hand to lift them up, but I urge them earnestly to accept my aid. I can gain their confidence from the first examination by locating the seat of their trouble exactly, and can always explain the cause of the logical effect of my treatment when I explain its action. I never charge for this examination or consultation.

"Weakness" Means Just This:

That there is some functional derangement, the direct result of inflammation, enlargement or excessive sensitiveness of the prostate gland (the nerve center of the reproductive parts), brought on by indisposition or resulting from some improperly treated contracted disorder. This condition cannot possibly be removed by internal medicines, and any tonic system of treatment that stimulates the activity of the function can but result in aggravating the real ailment. This is a scientific truth, and I have ascertained after a careful and scientific study and upon which my own original system of treatment is based. I employ neither tonics, stimulants nor electric belts. I treat by local direct methods exclusively, and my success in curing even those cases that others have failed to cure, amply demonstrates the conclusiveness of my method. I never charge for this examination or consultation.

A Guarantee Worth Something

I do not care what your experience has been with other treatments, what guarantees you have, and what promises were unfulfilled in the past, as unsuccessful, unscientific treatments and unreliable concerns are in no way a reflection upon honest, trustworthy business methods lived up to by me for twenty years. I have an established reputation, and my guarantee means that my patients are indisputably insured of success in their case. There is all the difference in the world between a guarantee of this kind and the promise of those mushroom concerns which are continually falling in business. I repeat my straightforward, square proposition to wait for my fee until the cure is effected.

My Fee in YOU PAY UNCOMPLICATED WHEN CURED Cases

If other physicians have treated you for so-called "weakness," you were helped only temporarily, if at all, and the reason is very apparent when the cause of loss of power in men is understood. "Weakness" isn't a weakness at all, but is merely a symptom of chronic inflammation in the prostate gland, brought on by early indisposition or some contracted disorder. Our system of local treatment removes this inflammation, and is the only treatment that has ever restored or ever can permanently restore strength and vigor.
