HEATED DEBATE AT PARIS

News of Mutiny Brings Excited Audience to Chambers-Opposition Denounces the Government in Bitter Terms.

PARIS, June 21 .- By a majority of 184, the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon voted confidence in the government and gave the ministers a free hand to employ the measures they think best to re-establish order in the disturbed southern departments. This result came after a day of excitement over the mutiny of troops, following the widespread disorders of the wine

The grave view the French capitol takes of the revolutionary attempts and takes of the revolutionary attempts and the tragic outcome was evinced by the scene in the Chamber of Deputies when the government was interpreted on the measures it proposed to take. Even standing room was not obtainable. Many women listened to the debate which at times was superheated. Premier Clemenceau lost no time in prescript to the deputies the news Premier Clemenceau lost no time in imparting to the deputies the news from Narbonne, adding to the information already published the fact that over a hundred soldiers were wounded in the fighting yesterday, the rioters, he said, had disappeared from the streets. Peasants from the surrounding villages, terrified at the shooting, took the first trains for home.

Premier Appeals for Support.

Then, amid impressive allence, the premier gave the official version of the mutiny of the battalion of the 17th regiment at Agde, and its march to Beziers, fully confirming the dispatches of the Associated Press. The premier added that he could not listen to any proposition for the conditional surrender of the mutineers, as it would be an almost fatal move for the gov-ernment to capitulate to the soldlery. He concluded with the demand for He concluded with the demand for a vote of confidence, so that the ministers could carry out in the name of the Chamber, the work of repression.

The opposing Deputies accused the Ministers of sending agents to stir up the populace in the South, saying that the soldiers acted like Cossacks; that the troops fired with little provocation and without notification, and that women and children had been glaughtered. They in-sisted that the release of M. Fertioul, ex-Mayor of Narbonne, would alone restore calm. Otherwise, one of the speakers as-serted, "The bloody rioting of today will be the revolution of tomorrow."

Country Before Party.

Ex-Minister of Commerce Millerand's fenunciation of M. Clemenceau was particularly violent, but fell flat, as he is strongly suspected of a desire to succeed to the Premierable.

Some of the Parliament members of the opposition appeared to place the interests of the country above their party and supported the Government.

After six hours' debate, the Chamber, by a vote of 223 to 237, decided to support the Cabinet.

The receipt of a dispatch from Beziers

The receipt of a dispatch from Besters later in the day, announcing that the mutinous battalion had decided to return to the rest of the regiment, caused decided satisfaction in official circles, as it hoped that the action would hold off further open insubordination.

SOLDIERS JOIN THE REBELS

Battalion Mutinies, Then Reconsiders and Gives Up Arms. PARIS, June I.-A battailon of the Seventeenth infantry Regiment, stationed at Agde, in the department of Herault, deserted with its arms and ammu has deserted with its arms and ammunition and joined the insurgent winegrowers at Beziers, the headquarters of the regiment. The mutineers mostly were recruited among the winegrowers and number about 400 mon. They marched into Beziers, which has about 50,000 inhabitants, with drums beating and colors flying, and are now camped in the principal square of that city, with arms stacked. The deserters tried to enlist the sympathies of the remainder of the regiment, stationed at Beziers, but failing stationed at Beziers, but failing to do this, they promised to eject them from their barracks.

Early this morning the Prefect of Beziers notified Premier Clemenceau that siers notified Premier Comenceau that the mutineers had agreed to return to Agde on condition that they were not punished. A little later they renewed their demand to be allowed to reoccupy their former barracks at Beziers.
M. Clemenceau curtly replied that he would not parley with deserters or consider any proposition but unconditional surrender, adding that he was determined to utilize all the government's forces, if necessary, to suppress the uprising.

Details of the mutiny show that a bat-talion of the Seventeenth Infantry sent from Beziers to Agde, on account of the soldiers' sympathy with the local wine-growers, mutinied there this morning, raided the magazine, filled their pouches with cartridges and with fixed bayoners and flags flying, marched out of Agde and entered Beziers.

When notified of the mutiny General Crolsade, commanding the Sixty-first Bri-

Croisade, commanding the Sixty-first Brigade, met the mutineers at Uilleneuve and attempted to persuade them to return to duty.

"Soldiers," he commanded, "kill me or

The soldiers replied that they had no desire to kill the General, but were determined to return to Beziers. A detachment of gendarmes tried to bar the road, but after the mutineers had fired a voiley in the air they were permitted to pass. The mutineers, although without offi-cers, marched into Beziers in perfect order at 6 o'clock this morning, the cheers of the local crowds mingling with the rolling of the drums and the strains of the bugies. After stacking arms the deserters amounced their intention to remain on the square until allowed to reoccupy their barracks, from whence they were recently transferred. The people gave the mutineers a warm welcome and gave the mutineers a warm welcome and furnished them with ample provisions and supplies of straw, upon which the tired soldiers threw themselves after station-ing their pickets and proclamming their determination to defend their lives in the event of being attacked.

The news of this momentous defection of troops, together with other mutinous eruptions at various points in the revolting provinces, reached the government this morning and caused the gravest con-

Narbonne and Montpellier showed that both places were comparatively quiet. It was announced that the government's watchwards are, "The law must reign." Interior Minister Briand Indignantly de-nied the rumors that he has resigned. He said he was not such a coward as to desert his colleagues in the present cir-

ST. PETERSBURG, June 21 .- Although nearly a week has chapsed since the dis-solution of the Douma, the parties op-posed to the government still are ponder-ing the terms in which they can most ef-fectively address themselves to the country. Apparently as yet they have not got heir bearings or summed up their hances for the coming elections. The step was taken to head off agrarian disorders, the possibility of which it is believed greatly increased the determination of the Social Democrats, Social Revolutionists and members of the Group of Toil to issue a joint manifesto to the Nation, urging the people not to accept the "aristocratic regime contemplated by the new election law. But to defend the idea of popular representation before force." The decision to issue the joint proc-lamation was taken during the night, and the text is now being drafted.

Section Providing for Amalgamation With Industrial Workers of the World Laid on Table.

DENVER, June 21 .- The convention of the Western Federation of Miners this afternoon adopted the first five sections of the proposed new preamble of the constitution and laid the sixth section on the table. This section is designed to make the Federation the mining department of the Industrial Workers of the World. The fifth section of the preamble is considered to pledge the Federation to Socialism. It reads:

"We hold that industrial union and the concerted political action of all wage-workers is the only method of attaining this end." referring to the "emancipation" of the working classes. The new preamble is still to be adopted as a whole, and will then go to a seferendum vote before it is finally incorporated in the constitution.

"It is not a question whether the Chinese or Japanese shall go to the same schools as the white children, neither is It a question whether some of the Japa-nese have been assaulted or treated bad-ly, but the question is one much broader in its scope. It is simply whether the people of the Pacific Coast shall become culated with the Oriental ideas and plans of procedure, or whether they shall remain on a truly Occidental basis. Shall or shall not the Pacific Coast states suf-fer the same fate as Hawaii. Shall the states of the coast be overrun with Japa-nese and finally feel the effects of their presence as it is felt in the places where they are largely in evidence."

Moral of Japanese Watches, System Magazine.

The Japanese have a well-formed habit of signing orders for American merchandise simply to oblige the salesman, and that it is a common practice man, and that it is a common practice to refuse to accept the goods on delivery. No Jap will be so impolite as to say "No" to a stranger who enters his home. When a Jap smiles you may know that he is angry and that you had better leave him alone; but when he draws his breath with a hissing sound through his teeth you may feel sure you have convinced him. When American dollar watches first came into Japan and China a big demand was instantly created. The Japs took one of the watches to pieces, ran up a factory and cut the price in two. Moreover, they put the Chinese and Japannese figures on the face. American manufacturers did not want to bother to do this, but when the Jap did it they had to follow suit. Then the Japs embossed the Chinese and Japanese "good luck" signs on the backs of the luck" signs on the backs of the watches, and that left them supreme in the field. The Japanese understand the knack of giving their customers what they want and they are shrewder in many ways than their Yankee competitors give them credit for being.
