OREGON IS HIS IDEAL

Prominent Ohio Man "Booster" for This State.

ITS RESOURCES AMAZE HIM

Judge John C. Hutchins, of Cleveland, Visits Rose City on Tour of the Coast—Famous as a Baseball Fan.

Judge John C. Hutchins, of Cleveland, O., formerly postmaster of Forest City, and one of the foremost public-spirited men of the Buckeye State, is in the city with his younger son, C. C. Hutchins, on a tour of the coast. Though he has been in the city less than a day, Portland and Oregon have secured in him one of the staunchest "boosters" imaginable, and because of his prominence in public affairs in a city and state which have sent thousands of home-seekers to this State, his visit will probably do this section as much good in the way of exploitation as a ton of literature.

Judge Hutchins left Cleveland July 4, and has been making the trip across the country leisurely, first visiting California points of interest. While Los Angeles and the South Impressed him, he says he soon got weary of gazing at the naked mountains shimmering in the merciless heat and seeing nothing but vast reaches of barren hills and arid plains. The contrast between the conditions in that section of the Pacific Slope and the Pacific Northwest was the most impressive feature of his trip, he says.

In addition to having a daylight trip through the great rolling, fertile valleys of Oregon, where the fields are ripening for the harvest, where the immense orchards and fruit ranches stretch out as far as eye can reach on either side, Judge Hutchins had a real Oregon booster at his side. McKinley Mitchell, a Portland commission man, has been spending some time in California and was on the train with him, and before Mitchell got through talking Portland and Oregon to him, the Easterner was almost ready to sell out everything he had and buy a few hundred acres of Oregon land.

Converted by a "Booster."

"Say," said Judge Hutchins last night, "if you people out here are all like Mitchell, there is no reason why you shouldn't have 10,000,000 people in Oregon in the next five years. I couldn't believe what he told me about the limitless resources of the State at first, I doubted his statements about the incomparable climate, the great productiveness of the soil, the thousand and one advantages of living out here, but I soon had all doubts swept away as we roled through the fine agricultural belts, the fertile valleys, the stretches of timber, the heights of the mountains.

"If I could stay here a year instead of only three days. And when I get back to Ohio, and I hear anyone say he is discontented, I shall advise him to go to Oregon and live. If I were a young man myself, I don't believe I would go home. I am going to stay as long as I can, will take the river trips up and down the Columbia before leaving for my home."

Judge Hutchins, in addition to his large business interests and affiliations with public movements, is a great baseball fan. When at home he is invariably in his own private box at the Dunham avenue baseball grounds and he knows the batting and fielding averages, the size of the biography of every man on the home team, and a luster rooster than Portland's own veteran fan, George H. Williams.

When he was told what was going on, he remarked coolly: "Score's a tenth inning and Cy Young's pitching. Let 'em burn."

Famous as a Fan.

Another time, as the story goes, he was awakened one night about 12 o'clock by a messenger boy with a note from some fellow who was playing cards down town. The note ran: "Judge, we want to settle a bet. Who played third in that 25-inning no-run game between Providence and Detroit, June 18, 1887?"

Judge Hutchins sat down and wrote out the batting order of both teams, the number of his and errors, then went back to bed.

Judge Hutchins is also interested in what has now become the famous Cleveland plan of grouping public buildings. He advocated it from the start and said last night that the plan is already assuming tangible form in the actual construction work on the buildings that are to be included in it.

Embraced in the grouping plan which extends from the lake front to Superior street, and from the Public Square to Wood street, will be a $19,000,000 grand central station, a $7,000,000 court house for which ground is already broken, a $3,900,000 City Hall, a $2,000,000 Federal building, a public library, a museum of art, a music hall, the national guard armory, already constructed, the Chamber of Commerce building, already constructed, free public baths and a natatorium are to be included also. The total value of the buildings embraced in this magnificent scheme will not be far from $30,000,000.

Judge Hutchins remains here till Wednesday, leaving then for the Sound and will return home over the Canadian Pacific.

APE ESCAPES AT THE OAKS

DASHES THROUGH THE CROWD, CAUSING SMALL PANIC.

After Great Commotion Among Sunday Visitors, Keeper Finally Gets Beast Back to Cage.

Sensational features not down on the regular bill gave hundreds of the patrons of The Oaks the time of their lives yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock. A full-fledged panic, with all the unlooked-for accompaniments of distracted children, fainting women, and men and boys adding to the disorder by trying to do the wrong thing and only succeeding in making matters worse, was brought about by the escape of a man-like ape, used in the dog and monkey circus playing at the resort.

The ape stands about four feet, four inches in height, and when he chooses to do so, he gives a very excellent imitation of an intelligent being. For the past two days he has been acting very ugly when brought on the stage and, upon one occasion, greatly to the chagrin of the master of ceremonies, the ape refused to go through his specialty stunts.

While in a rage over something he got hold of four of the Hungarian fancy caps and ripped them to pieces. Then he laid for the drummer's stick, got hold of it and chewed it up and defied any one to interfere with his apostrophe. This all ended by the ape pulling from the floor the staple that held his chain. "Dr. Kid," shot from the door of the band stage and with all his stage dress on he created a sensation in the park. He took a turn down amusement avenue and people, when they beheld the fearful looking thing "loping" among looking for trouble, were seized with all kinds of a mad desire to make a quick getaway.

Scenes exciting and ludicrous followed. One individual seeing no other means of escaping and thinking the ape was after him, dropped into a pool of back-water behind the Old Mill. The Oaks' police force rallied to the call for help and skirreled through the trees, but every flank movement was guarded by the ape. Every time any one got near his chain he would stop, stand up on his rear legs and growl and the would-be rescuer would "beat it" for the fence.

Up fences and trees Dr. Kid dashed with abandon, and women began to scream and faint and grab children. The 2000 people in front of the band stage forgot the concert and tried to get points of vantage to watch the pursuit and capture of the ape, but every view point seemed to be unseat.

Manager Freeman took a turn after the ape and then concluded he had hired other people to do that sort of work, for he retreated and began to look after the emergency hospital supplies. Finally Carlos, the master of the outfit, was brought forth from his re-

MEET AT JENNINGS LODGE

Convention of Evangelical Association Will Open Tomorrow.

The annual convention of the Evangelical Association of Oregon will open tomorrow on the conference ground at Jennings Lodge, on the Oregon City carline and Willamette River. The first meeting will be a grand rally at 7:30 P. M., conducted by Rev. E. Maurer. This will be followed Wednesday by the convention of the Sunday School League, in charge of H. B. Hornschock, vice-president.

The tract is a beautiful one for the purpose, sloping toward the river. It has been platted into lots, which are leased for $9 years, and not sold outright, so that the corporation, composed of the presiding elders and ministerial trustees of the conference, will have full control of the tract for all time. As the ground reaches down to the Willamette River, a landing will be made for boats.

Splendid Concert at the City Park

Thousands of Grown-Ups Hear De Caprio's Band, While Little Folk Romp on Green Lawns.

OUT at City Park where many well-dispositioned people go of a fair Sunday there were the largest crowds of the Summer yesterday. It was such a day and surely such a place as can only be found here in Portland when July is in her prime.

The flowers bloomed their bravest, the fountains played, the birds sang and everywhere the children played in an ecstasy of delight that they were turned loose upon the big, wholesome out-of-doors. It is a great lark for little folk to romp in the park and tolerably good for their elders just to stroll about under the tall trees and watch the youngsters and listen to the band.

The particular feature was the concert, the second of the series Signor De Caprio is to give in the big bandstand near the eastern entrance.

The programme was splendidly chosen, and the thousands who heard it were thoroughly well pleased. The numbers, although classical almost without exception, were such as appeal to the rank and file, and it surely suited the crowd.

Attempt to Burn Seminary

ALBANY, Or., July 21.—(Special.)—Discovery has been made of an attempt made some time last week to burn the building of the Mineral Springs Seminary at Sodusville. Fires were started beneath the building in two places, and though one of them burned through the floor, both went out. As no school is now being conducted in the building, the attempt was not discovered for a few days, and it is not known definitely when it was made.

What the Beef Trust Has Done and What It Is Doing to Injure the Standard of U. S. Government Inspection.

CHAPTER IV.

There is a Beef Trust Market near Smith's which has painted its back door the same color as Smith's door, and it refuses to put the name above the entrance, thus hoping to ensnare customers who may be looking for Smith's. Go down and look over the situation and size it up, and see if you have ever seen anything out West that compares with this "hand-made-down" idea of the Chicago Beef Trust.

On the outer wall of this market you will see a picture of Uncle Sam leading a bull, and above are the words, "U. S. Government Inspected Meats." On the swinging sign you see "U. S. Government Inspected Meats." Inside the shop you see the words, "U. S. Government Inspected Meats." And in the papers you read the words, "U. S. Government Inspected Meats."

And this market is making success out of scraps in a unmentionable kitchen that a Government inspector never sees. It is making lard out of trimmings and selling it under those misleading signs. It is buying meat from anywhere and everywhere—nothing too cheap or doubtful for this market to use.
