

LEASE OF PITTOCK BLOCK IS CLOSED

Trustee Company Secures Business Property in Heart of the City.

FOR TERM OF 99 YEARS

Rental Gradually Increases From $30,000 Per Annum for First 10 Years to $103,568 Yearly for Final Decade.

A lease that extends into the twenty-first century and by its terms gives some indication of probable future real estate values in Portland was closed yesterday when the block bounded by Washington, West Park, Tenth and Stark streets, and owned by H. L. Pittock, was secured for 99 years by the Trustee Company of Portland, Seattle and Los Angeles.

As an example of the rapid increase in Portland property values this is undoubtedly the most important transaction ever closed here. Fifty years ago this block was purchased by Mr. Pittock for $300.

Under the terms of the lease an annual rental of $30,000 is paid at the present time, or on a basis of 5 per cent net returns, it is now worth $600,000. In 51 years, therefore, the value has increased 2000 times over.

Scale of Rent Payments. The terms of the lease provide for payment of rentals on the property to Mr. Pittock under the following scale:

$33,146.83 a year from January 1, 1902, to January 1, 1907.

As will be seen by these figures the terms of the lease have been effective, and rent has been paid on the property since February 1. It was not until yesterday, however, that the transfer was definitely closed and the bond of $100,000 deposited.

Exact Plans Undisclosed. The Trustee Company has not yet disclosed its exact plans for either the Pittock or the Penneyer block. It is said that several projects are under consideration for both properties.

On August 1, 1856, Mr. Pittock bought the block bounded by Washington, West Park, Tenth and Stark streets from William Gray, paying $300 for the property.

Then in the Suburbs. In 1856 the Pittock block was in the woods. Only three small residences were farther westward.

Mr. and Mrs. Pittock were married June 20, 1860, and four years later Mr. Pittock built the cottage that now stands at Tenth and Washington streets.

Since 1864, Mr. and Mrs. Pittock have resided continuously on this property, and a later year moving from the cottage into the residence at West Park and Washington streets, which they are now occupying.

Plans Still Undecided. It is with regret that both Mr. and Mrs. Pittock will leave the home in which they have lived for 47 years.

tends for 50 years. For the first five years the lessees pay a rental of $1500 a month, for the second five years $1750 a month, an advance of $250 a month being made at the end of each five years thereafter.

Says He Feels Like Rip Van Winkle

'Bunce' Kelly Tells How Portland Has Changed in the 13 Years He Spent in Prison.

I CANNOT yet realize the remarkable changes that have taken place in Portland during the last 13 years," said Joseph "Bunce" Kelly yesterday.

When I left Portland in 1894 the business district of the city extended from the river to Sixth street, bounded by Washington and Morrison streets.

Sunday morning I made a trip up Willamette Heights where I could better look over the city and I was amazed to witness its growth both in the business and the residence districts.

There is no place in the life of this city for those who would not keep up with the procession. Friends had told me of the many changes taking place in Portland, but the actual condition has far surpassed all expectations based on those reports.

KRUTTSCHNITT HAS NO INFORMATION

Says He Knows Nothing of Harriman's Central Oregon Plans.

HOPES RUDELY DISPELLED

Wall Street Magnate's Lieutenant Asserts That Automobile Trip Into Interior of the State Was Without Significance.

If Harriman ever intends to give the people of Central Oregon railroads, the one man who should know it is Julius Kruttschnitt, Harriman's director of maintenance and operation—and he professes to be ignorant.

Mr. Kruttschnitt, accompanied by J. P. O'Brien, general superintendent of the Harriman lines in the Northwest, W. W. Cotton, of the legal department of the Harriman system, and George W. Boschke, chief engineer for the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company, returned yesterday from a trip through the interior of the state.

When I left Portland in 1894 the business district of the city extended from the river to Sixth street, bounded by Washington and Morrison streets.

The party was in charge of Fred S. Stanley, of the Deschutes Irrigation & Power Company, who personally escorted the visitors over that section of the state and pointed out the urgent need for transportation facilities.

"My visit to the central part of the state was on personal business," said Mr. Kruttschnitt last night. "I had been desirous of visiting that section of Oregon for some time and availed myself of the courtesy of Mr. Stanley to get better acquainted with that territory.

General Superintendent O'Brien was also reticent and declined to make any statement, or to intimate what recommendations, if any, will be made to Mr. Harriman as a result of the trip.

PERSONAL MENTION.

George J. Quinlan, clerk of the East Side Justice Court, and Councilman Dan Keilaber, with several others have started for the headwaters of the Clackamas River.

Miss Jocelyn Foulkes has gone up to Eastern Oregon to assist Miss Ina B. Wright in concerts at Union, La Grande, Baker City, Boise, Pendleton and Walla Walla.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Whidden and sons, Austin C. and Thomas A., returned from Boston last week, spending several days in New York and Chicago en route, sightseeing and motoring.
