PRINCIPLES OF PARTIES

County Judge Jewell Gives Impressions of Current Politics.

GRANT'S PASS, Or., July 29.—(To the Editor.)—The Oregonian of last Thursday contained an article over the signature of Judge Stephen A. Lowell, of Pendleton, which Jungs stephen A. Lowell, of Pendleton, which raises a few questions that are worthy of further notice.

The Judge is certainly correct in his statement that Roosevelt is not a Democrat and that Bryan is not a Republican. But he is just a little faulty in his definition of Republican and Democratic principles. It is true itean and Democratic principles. It is true that the Republican party stands for protective tariff, centralization of government and lib-eral construction of the constitution (or more eral construction of the constitution (or more correctly speaking, loose construction of the constitution), and that the Democratic party opposes all of these, but it is not true that the Republican party holds to sound money and that the Democratic party holds to cheap money. The real Democrats of this country believe that money is simply a medium of exchange and not a commodity of speculation. We believe that the money trust is the most langerous and most demoralizing of all

Judge Lowell tells us that Mr. Roosevelt stands opposed to "tariff for revenue only, theap money, state rights and strict construction of the constitution." If this be true, then it is clear that the President is not a Democrat. Of course, we deny that "cheap money" is any part of our Democracy. We to claim, however, that the rolghts of the states and of the individual citizen should be respected. We also believe that no state be respected. We also believe that no state in individual has a right to treepass upon the rights of other states or individuals. In this we are very far from being in barmony with our Republican brethren. And to the riolation of this principle of American Democracy can be traced all of the moral and political evils that have ever afflicted this

r any other country.

If each individual citizen could learn to re-If each individual citizen could learn to respect the rights of all other citizens and each rovernment learn to respect the rights of all other governments, it would not be long until the Republican party would be out of uniness. The precent Republican high taring a purely in the interest of the few against the many. In fact, the beneficiaries of high ariff, land monopoly, railroad extertion, banking privileges and all other trust-producing nunes are here by the grace of Republican germakars. These causes were incorporated into our administrative policy over the protest of the Democratic party.

Our Republican friends are very inconsistent in their present attitude towards the trust magnates. These gentlemen are the legitimate production of Republican legislation. The trust-production of Republican legislation. The trust-producting seed was sown 40 years ago and as long as its fruit was confined to the South and the Philippoine Islands Republicant long as its fruit was confined to the South and the Philippine Islands, Republican conventions were pleased to "point with pride."

The present administration is wasting its energy at the wrong end of the trust evil. What good will it do to prosecute a few of the fortunate fellows in the trust gang and let the system itself continue? Why not begin at the right place and destroy the cause of corruption? As long as the causes of political corruption exist, it is wrong to prosecute corruption? As long as the causes of political corruption exist, it is wrong to prosecute men who are making use of these causes. The present administration openly indorses our present benking system, our present high tariff system, our Pinkerton system, our fail road system and the disgraceful tyranny that has been exercised for the past sight years in

PLANS STILL UNREVEALED

Speculation Rife Concerning Mount Hood Rallway's Line Location.

GRESHAM, Or., July 28.—(Special.)—In-terest in the railroad is increasing, since it became definitely known that the pro-jectors of the Mount Hood line were really at work. The extensive preparations and actual work being done at Bull Run have had the effect of producing much speculation as to where the road will be located through that portion of the county between Montavilla and the Sandy River.

Not a foot of right of way has been secured yet, so far as known, although several surveys have been made. The camp locator of Mason & Davis, railroad contractors, is here, however, seeking available spots on which to settle con-struction crews. He has made a guarded statement that work will begin at Cleone, where a trainload of tools, engines and other material is now being unloaded. His camps will be located about every three miles from Cleone to Bull Run.

From all appearances the company will be at work within a week throwing dirt, and it has been said that the road will be built first and right of way secured afterward.

A telephone wire has been strung upon the poles of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company from Portland to Sandy. From there the Mount Hood peo-ple will make their own line to Bull Rusil Such a service will be sufficient until they can erect their own line all the way, along their railway track.

Teams are still hauling machinery and material to Bull Run and men are being employed as fast as possible, the wages being from $2.50 to $3 a day.

It has been reported by those who profess to know that the line will run south from Cleone, crossing the Base Line about half a mile west of the Twelve-Mile House. From that point it will make a detour toward Gresham, but leaving that place half a mile to the

PORTLAND, July 29.—(To the Editor.)

The matter of the annoyance caused that portion of the public who are inconvenienced by the existing rules which licket to Newport to be require a person purchasing a round-trip ticket to Newport to be virtually forced to go there can, in my estimation, be very easily remedied by having their tickets validated at the nummit, as was the method for a long time.

Lincoln County more than any other

Lincoln County, more than any other Lincoln County, more than any other undeveloped county in the State of Oregon, requires settlers, and it certainly is pretty rough on them after looking over the country all day and getting to Eddyville, Elk City or Toledo, to find the train gone and to be forced to remain over all day in order to go to Newport and remain there all night to get his ticket validated next morning.

Lincoln County is a land of great possibilities and besides its agricultural, dairying, fishing and pomological re-sources to my certain knowledge con-tains vast undeveloped deposits of iron and copper; also coal. Many settlers are expected, so I ask the officials of the C. & E., however much they may personally object, to accommodate the public; to do so in this instance more especially as the road now belongs to the Harriman system and there is a strong impression abroad that Mr. Harriman likes to have productive property along his lines.
To my certain knowledge the Southern To my certain knowledge the Southern Pacific officials in Portland have done all they can to retrieve this annoyance, but every time we enquire why "something" has not been done we are informed it is up to a C. & E. official at Albany named Nevins. So. Mr. Nevins, "here's hopin'."

DREDGE RIVER BELOW SALEM

Engineers Dig Channel, Pull Snags and Build a Dam.

SALEM, Or., July 29 .- (Special.) -- In nnection with the work of the United States Engineers' snag-puller, Mathloma, which is pulling snags from the channel of the Wiliamette River a few miles below this city, a portion of the $60,000 appropriated by Congress for improvement of the Willamette is be-ing expended in dredging the main channel of the river to a depth of four feet over the shallow bars by Dipper Dredge No. 2, in command of Foreman Henry Griffin. The Mathloma is making good progress in the work of stump-pulling, and is assisting the dredge, also, Besides deepening the channel the crews of the Mathloma and Dipper Dredge are building a 1000-yard rock revetment and a wing dam at Wheat-land, to keep the river from cutting through into Lambert Slough. This work will entail the expense of several thousand dollars and will be of great value to the owners of property below that point whose lands are inundated and damaged to no small extent whenever there is a freshet in the river. It is expected that the dredger will go farther up the river, when it has finished its task below here, and open the channel as far as the limit of the appropriation will permit, in the effort to restore navigation toward Eugene.

She is now in Tacoma, waiting in vain for her boy lover, who made bold to carry out a plan to marry her in the City of Destiny. Breckenridge placed the girl on board a Northern Pacific train at Linnton, instructing her to get off at Tacoma and meet him when the following train should pull in. He declined to accompany her, he said, because he accompany her, he said, because he feared the police would be on the lookout for him and arrest him.

Miss Nolan's father caused the arrest of Breckinridge, but only after the latter had played a clever and all but success-ful game to win the girl of his heart. Young Breckinridge, who came from Ta-coma six weeks ago found employment in a local foundry, boarded and roomed at the Nolan home. He fell in love with the daughter. Last night he said he did not approve of the way her father made her work. He therefore determined that he would take the case into his own hands and better her condition himself. He decided on an elopement and proceeded at once to carry out his plans.

Tacoma, his old home, seemed the best place to go, but before he could get away from the city with his sweetheart her father learned of his intentions and located him; taking him to task for his duplicity. Noian finally arranged that young Breckinridge should bring Miss Noian back to her home and let matters rest. Instead of keeping his promise Breckinridge met the girl again and took ceeded at once to carry out his plans. Breckinridge met the girl again and took her to St. Johns at which place he secured a boat and rowed her across the river to Linnton. There he placed her aboard the Tacoma train, and telling her he would follow her. He was arrested on his re-turn to Portland turn to Portland. # REMOVES

When the blood becomes infected with unhealthy humors the effect is shown on the skin in the form of pimples, rashes, eruptions, or some other type of skin disease. These humors circulating in the blood, come in contact with the delicate tissues and fibres of the skin and produce irritation and inflammation, and often excessive itching and burning. Trying to cure 3kin troubles with external applications is treating the effect instead of the cause. Such treatment perhaps allays some of the itching and discomfort, but does not reach the blood where the real source of troubles lies. A thorough cleansing of the blood is the only cure for humors in the blood. S. S. S., a gentle acting, safe blood purifier, is the proper treatment. It goes down into the circulation and neutralizes the humors and removes them from the blood. S. S.
