MOVE TO CLOSE MILWAUKIE CLUB

Oregon City Churches Unite in Asking District Attorney to Act in Case.

RESOLUTIONS ARE PASSED

Portland Citizens Also Interested in Attempt to Terminate Gambling in Clackamas County Following Sunday Closing.

An effort is being made to secure the closing of the Milwaukie Club, situated just across the Multnomah County line in Clackamas County, an agitation already having been started, looking toward that having been started, looking toward that end. Both here and in Oregon City action has been taken that is calculated to bring about the desired result. That the estab-lishment in question is a notorious gambling-house, and that it should be im-mediately suppressed by the District At-torney and Sheriff of Clackamas County. is the position taken by those behind the

It is understood that the authorities of Clackarnas County do not regard it as their duty to take the initiative in the matter, and it appears that, if the Mil-waukie Club is closed, it must be done by evidence secured or complaints lodged with the District Attorney by Interested parties.

B. Lee Paget, a Portland husiness man and leading Methodist, is among those who have interested themselves in the effort to close the Milwaukie Club, and the congregations of the Methodist Epis-topal, Congregational, Baptist and Presby-terlan Churches of Oregon City took up the matter last Sunday by rising votes in all their meetings, thus placing them on record as wishing the gambling-house have forwarded to District At torney Hedges expression of the sentiment of these meetings, calling upon him to act, and have arranged for the appointment of special committees to call upon him personally, in case he does not take immediate action

Writes Letter to Hedges.

Mr. Paget lives where it is necessary for him to ride by the Milwaukie Club twice daily, on the line of the Oregon Water Power & Railway Company, and he has therefore had his attention called for many months to the existence of the place. After the saloons of Oregor City and other Clackamas County towns were ordered closed by order of District Attorney Hedges, it occurred to Mr. Paget that it would be well if the lid could be placed on the gambling-house at Mil-waukle, and he therefore wrote Mr. Hedges the following letter, dated Hedges, District Attorney, Oregon City Or .- Dear Sir: Referring to my letter of las week, allow me to express my appreciation of any part that you may have had in bringing about the closing of saloons in Oregon City and Milwaukie on Sunday last. The general appreciation which I hear expressed regarding this measure indicates that this pol-ley will without doubt be continued. In this connection allow me to say that my daily passing the notorious gambling institution known as the Milwaukie Club has often suggested to me the question of what steps could be taken to abolish it. If there is any way in which I could co-operate with this end in view, please let me hear from you and oblige

Mr. Paget said yesterday that he and others interested in closing the Milwaukle Club, feel that it is the place of the initiative and suppress the big gambling-house. They also think it very reasonable that, inasmuch as Mr. Hedges saw fit to invoke the state law relative to the saloons, he should do likewise in closing gambling. Furthermore, the big gambling resort just across the border in Clackamas County is not the only one where open gambling is allowed in Mr. Hedges' juris-diction. It exists in Astoria, Clatsop County, and other places over which his ### authority extends. Look to District Attorney.

"Supposing a murder should be com-mitted in Clackamas County or any ter-ritory in the jurisdiction of District At-torney Hedges, would be wait for us or any other citizens to secure the evidence and take the initiative," asked Mr. Paget.
"No, he would take action himself, setting all the machinery at his command to work to apprehend the criminal and to mete out just punishment. How, then, can he argue that it is not his duty to take similar action in this gambling-he case? We think it is his duty, and are looking to him for relief." Mr. Paget says that the Milwaukie Club is doing a big business. He asserts that large numbers of people patronize the place, and that streetcar traffic to and place, and that stretcar traine to and from the house is heavy. Heeding the protests of many, he says, the officials of the rallway line have recently changed the name of the station from the Milwaukie Club to Creole, which, he thinks, is a big change for the better.

The Milwaukie Club has run unmolested for the better.

for about two years, the Clackamas County authorities having permitted it. The only effort ever made to suppress it was made by Mayor Lane, who ordered it raided by a squad of Portland police. Evidence of gambling was seized and the proprietors arrested, but the courts de-cided the Portland authorities had no jurisdiction and dismissed the cases on that ground.

last Saturday night and took from him

The most startling feature of the case, as charged by the police, is that Charles Bowen himself played the part of a victim to the robbery, and last Saturday night when the affair was reported to the police, he was one of those who called at headquarters to give a description of the highwayman. He told the officers that he lost $6.80, but they did not at the time believe his story, and at once suspected him.

Baty took up the case Saturday night, and has worked hard on it since, with the result that last night he and Policeman Hellyer placed Bowen and Warren under arrest at First and Columbia streets, and took them to police head-quarters, where they were immediately ified by John Lyons, the real victim. Both were then locked up and the charges of robbery were booked against them. They refused to talk, except to dany their world, to a constant deny their guilt in a few words.

Baty found by investigation that Warren and Bowen were room-mates, and he thought it very strange that a man should hold up and rob his own partner. He at once set to work on the theory that solld berry-patch and fruit-orchard Stinger, City Ticket Agent.

Bowen was "in" on the hold-up, and simply lured the victim to a dark, secluded spot, where the robbery occurred about 10 o'clock Saturday night. In giving their descriptions of the robber, Lyons and Bowen disagreed so widely that suspicion was aroused. Bowen and Warren are bartenders, but have not been employed regularly of late. H. C. WILLIS, OF PENDLETON, TELLS OF PROGRESS.

Walla Walla Valley Becoming Garden Spot Through Trolley Line Ruiding.

H. C. Willis, secretary of the Third District Development League, of Pendleton, is spending a few days in the city, and yesterday visited the Commercial Club. "The growth of Portland is almost beyond comprehension," he said. "You people who have been here all the time, or who have been running in and out of the city every few weeks, have kept in touch with the progress that has been made. I have, of course, read what the papers have said, but then when one gets here and sees the many skyscrapers in the central part of the city and realizes that buildings that he had heretofore considered in a metropolitan class are now being dwarfed by others that tower above them, he realizes what it means to see a city.

"I have been out through the resi-dence districts and on the trolley lines that lead into the suburbs, and the rapid progress of the entire city is almost beyond belief; but Portland must not feel that she is the whole cocoanut. I recently attended a cele-bration of the completion of the trolley line through Walla Walla Valley from Walla Walla through Freewater and down to Milton, the occasion being the annual strawberry festival held at Mil-ton. Now, this electric line is only 12

Cloudburst Damages Tracks.

A cloudburst at Durkee, Eastern Ore gon, which occurred Sunday, caused much damage to the O. R. & N. track near that place. Trains were delayed six hours as a result of the flood of water that swept over the tracks, burying them under earth, rocks and other debris. Two bents of a goall bridge were washed away by earth, rocks and other debris. Two bents of a small bridge were washed away by the flood and the structure had to be repaired before it was and repaired before it was safe for trains to cross. Considerable damage was caused to farms and nearby property. Fields of grain wers flooded and the crops ruined. Happily the damage did not spread over a large extent of country.
