RAISULI CRIES TREACHERY

Denies Holding MacLean for Ransom, Only Wants Justice.

TANGIER, Aug. 5.—In a long statement to a newspaper man, Raisuli, the bandit, who is holding Capt. Sir Harry MacLean a prisoner, blames the treachery of the Sultan's government for his capture of Sir Harry. Raisuli says that in the course of his negotiations with the man who is now his prisoner, previous to his capture, he explained his grievances and Sir Harry promised him a safe conduct if he would go to Fez and lay his troubles before the Sultan, who would remedy them. He accepted this offer but, while he was arranging for the journey, government troops, instigated by the Sultan's advisers, Sidi Mohammed, the Moroccan Minister of War, and General Bagdadi, chief of the Sultan's army, plundered his caravan, devastated his property at Zilat and captured some of his relatives.

meantime the shippers are keeping their own counsel. They decline to discuss their plans other than to say they are gathering data that will be useful at the proper time.

"That's only railroad talk," said a number of local lumbermen yesterday when asked if they had read the statement issued by the transcontinental lines to justify their action in ordering an advance in the rates.

"We expect the railroad companies to fight vigorously for increased rates," said one lumber manufacturer yesterday, "and they evidently consider that the statement issued from St. Paul will strengthen their position. The condition in 1893, assigned as the reason for reducing the rates, exists to a more marked degree today, and surely does not warrant restoring former charges. It is explained by the railroads that in 1893 they had an excess of east-bound empty cars on account of the steady increase in west-bound traffic. If anything, the growth of this section is greater now than ever before, and the shipment of building materials to the Coast from the East was never larger.
