Council Committee Recommends Passage of Anti-Trust Ordinance.

HOLDS STORMY SESSION

Opponents of Measure Appear to Protest, but Without Avail-Retail Druggists Head Fight. Fear Department Stores.

At the meeting of the judiciary committee of the City Council yesterday the death knell was tolled for the fuel trust, the plumbers' trust and all other local trusts and illegitimate business combinations, when the committee decided, after a stormy session, to recommend the Belding anti-trust ordinance to the Council for passage. When the measure is finally considered When the measure is finally considered by the Council next Wednesday it is predicted that it will be passed, al-though it has several opponents among the city lawmakers. Considerable opposition to the meas-ure developed at the meeting of the committee, coming from those who fear the passage of the ordinance may in-terfere with their business. Chief among the bill's opponents were the Druggists' Association, represented by A. J. Clemenson and Dr. J. A. White. Mr. Clemenson asked that the ordinance be amended to prevent any patent medicine or preparation being sold for a sum less than the price marked on the wrapper. This request was made, he said, for the purpose of prohibiting large department stores artifrom cutting prices on various articles and drugs far below the whole-sale cost merely for advertising pur-poses. He said that in order to proposes. He said that in order to pro-tect themselves against such illegiti-mate business methods the druggists had to combine to prevent wholesale dealers selling to those who persisted in cutting prices.

Would Injure Small Dealers.

Dr. White believed that the pro-posed ordinance would be more detri-mental to the small dealers than to the large ones. "This ordinance will kill the little "This ordinance will kill the little dealers and do nothing else," said he. The Sherman act was passed to kill big combinations and trusts, but it has merely benefitted them. Think of the $29,000,000-fine against Rockefeller and the Standard Oil Company. That have benefitler you and I will not hurt Rockefeller. You and I are the ones who will ultimately have to pay that fine by giving more for the articles produced by his trust.

"This ordinance you have here will mean that the big department stores will mean that the big department stores will be a produced by the darky of the store do as they d-n please, and we who carry on a small trade will be the ones to suf-fer. The little dealers who toll day and night will be the ones to go out of busi-neas. If you desire to extend a helping hand to us, kill that ordinance.

"We wish you to set a standard price for all articles on which the manufacfor all articles on which the manufac-turers have stamped a price and thus prevent these cut-rate stores from under-selling us. Several of these large firms sell these goods for less than we can purchase them from the manufacturer for no other reason than to advertise themselves. of course we do not sell great quantities of these goods, but for what we do sell we desire to receive the standard price, and we ask this committee, if it favors this ordinance, to amend it so the standard price will prevail."

Councilman Expunst said that the pro-

Councilman Bennett said that the un-derlying principle of the ordinance was to prevent combinations, and he did not think a firm could be compelled to sell an article at any price. He also said that the Council could not fix a standard price for any commodity as it would it-self be violating the intent of the ordi-nance in so doing. He further said that it was intended to prevent a combina-tion of interests which would crush out small dealers or exact exorbitant prices small dealers or exact small dealers or exact of consumers. He did not believe that persons who mutually agreed on a combination without signing an agreement in the Municipal Court and swore out of the manual state of the arrest of 12 Chinese who had refused to move. In addition he filed a complaint against Mrs. Cornell and the manual state of the arrest of th

Fitzgerald Construes Law.

Patent medicines were assailed by Councilman Baker, who said the request of the druggists for a fixed price for such articles should prevail. On the ground that the ordinance prohibited the fixing of a standard price, the petition of the druggists was denied. Because no other city in the United States has attempted to pass an anti-trust law, Councilman Cottell believed that considerable caution should be exercised by the Council in considering the asure. If an ordinance is passed to prohibit trusts and combinations of all sorts from doing business in our city, it seems to me that it will greatly restrict our busi-ness interests," said he. "It also would tend to drive away business. Anti-trust laws have done much for this country, but they have not reduced the freight rates in this country, and they have not accomplished many reforms for which they were passed.

E. C. Bronaugh, who represented private interests, argued that it would not be a wise move for the city to pass the ordinance. Such legislation should be left to the State Legislature, or to the Federal Government. He believed that if the Council persisted in passing the ordinance a provision should be inserted which would also prevent combinations of labor, but the committee decided that as such a law had been declared illegal in Nebraska, it would be useless to consider such an amendment:

"You are striking at the commercial interests of our city by passing this ordinance," urged Bronaugh. "You cannot afford to do it. You should go to the intain-head for such legislation."
Where is that?" inquired Councilman crease was due to advance in the price of labor and of wood and other commodities necessary to carry on the business. He said the agency was unable to fill the demand, but the dealers had no intention of increasing the price of brick to an exorbitant figure.

"We fix the price of our commodity and all sell brick for this price through our central agency. We would be violating this ordinance but we would not be doing injury to anybody." he concluded.

"If the demand for brick should fall off and you reduced the price of brick, you would be liable under this ordinance," said Mr. Bronaugh.

Councilmen Cellars and Bennett did not agree with this interpretation of the ordinance and said that a combination or trust could reduce the price of a commodity, if it were not for the purpose of crowding somebody out of business.

"This ordinance is an innovation," explained Deputy City Attorney Fitzgeraid.

plained Deputy City Attorney Fitzgerald. "It is the first attempt of this sort of any city in America. State and Federal anti-trust laws have seen upheld and I am of the opinion that Porfland has the power under its charter to pass such a neasure as this. Councilman Cottell asked Mr. Fitz-
