Project to Secure Permanent Peace in "Hot Tamale" Republics.

WAITS FOR OTHER

Ministers in Communication With Governments to Bring Convention Giving U. S. and Mexico Power.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 .- Most of the representatives of the Central American republics who remain in Washington or vicinity called upon Acting Secretary of State Bacon today, this being diplomatic day, to talk individually with him about the project for a general convention of delegates from their countries in Washdelegates from their countries in wasnington to endeavor to reach an agreement which will result in permanent peace in that quarter of the world. With all parties willing to enter upon such a conference, the difficulty appears to lie in the unwillingness of any to take the initiative on account of personal pride.

Jealousy Between Republics.

Each of the little republics thinks that it has a grievance against its neighbor and in the absence of any apology as a condition precedent to an international gathering, would have the other party make the first advances. The State Department here, supported in principle by the Mayisan Government is extremely the Mexican Government, is extremely desirous of furthering this conference, but is estopped from itself formally proposing a meeting by a fear that its motives might be misunderstood and it be suspected of solfish designs and unwarrantable intervention. rantable intervention.

Agreement May Be Reached.

It is understood that all of the minis ters are in constant communication with their home governments upon this sub-ject, and as one of them today said, there is reasonable ground for hope that with-in a very short time, through an ex-change of notes or perhaps an informal personal meeting between the ministers here, an agreement can be reached for the convention of the delegates in Wash-ington some time next year. There have been other conventions between these countries looking to the preservation of the convention, but they were fatally de-fective in lacking a compulsory feature. So it has been suggested that if another treaty is drawn in Washington as the outcome of the projected convention, it shall clothe America and Mexico with the positive duty of intervening in the interests of peace in cases of disagreement that do not yield to treatment by the ordinary markets. dinary methods of diplomacy.

(Continued from First Page.) white-robed officials came to the British Consulate to surrender. The Consul referred them to the French Consul. They objected that it was impossible to reach the French Consulate because the Spanish Consulate was already firing at every Moor who passed in the street, and they feared a similar reception from the French Consulate. Consul Madden thereupon gave to Muley Amin a formal letter of introduction to the French Consul and advised the Moors to carry a white flag. They then went on. Their mission apand then went on. Their mission apparently was successful, for the firing soon ceased and at 9 o'clock public criers were about proclaiming that the town was to be shelled no longer. We ate our next meal with quiet minds.

dew the French had been with difficulty induced to adopt, and even over night, in announcing their intention of occupying the town, the French had apparently believed their fleet would arrive immediately and that no resistance could be expected. In fact, Muley Amin had previously declared his willingness to surrender the town on being informed that resistance would be futile. Whether the resistance ance actually offered was an outcome of a blunder on the part of some individuals or whether it was tempted by the smallness of the French landing party it is impossible to ascertain but what followed was exactly what was predicted by the best qualified to speak with knowledge

Arabs Loot and Kill.

"With the firing of the first shot the authority of Muley Amin and his organi-zation vanished. His soldiers boilted with their rifles, leaving the town exposed to rapine and pillage, in which they them-selves participated. By breakfast time we began to see men staggering along the streets under heavy burdens and flerce white-robed Arabs, carrying guns and mounted on fine horses, began to ride about directing the operations. Even the women were seen carrying loads and assisting in the pillage. At first rolls of cloth and other merchandise, which after money is first coveted by the Arabs, were taken from the shops, and then quantities of miscellaneous household articles were of miscellaneous household articles were carried away. After a time we watchers could hear the sound of hammering on metal, and we knew the looters were structed to go direct to Tangier and embark the officer-instructors of the Franco-Spanish police and convey them trying to force the safe of the State to Casa Blanca.

Will Not Speak of Horrors.

"The wailing and the size oting in the Jewish quarter and the section inhabited by rich Moors continued, and the horror that took place subsequently, in large sections of the town, not covered by the French and the Spanish rifle-fire, never will be told. From the 'suck of the consulate I saw Jews being beaten and shot and their houses being emptied by a rabble led by Arabs. I saw Moorish women being drugged sengaling from women being dragged, squealing from their houses. Bulkley Wells Finds Body of Barney Where Adams Said It Was to Be Found.

DENTIST IDENTIFIED BY

Body of Murdered Nonunion Miner Found Near Telluride, Confirming Adams' Repudiated Confession-Arrests Come Next.

DENVER, Aug. 8.—A special to the News from Telluride, Colo., says: What is said to be the skeleton of W. J. Barney, the timberman employed on the Smuggler-Union mine, who mysteri-ously disappeared in the month of June, 1901. was exhumed yesterday afternoon near the Alta mill, near Gold King Basin, 12 miles from town, by General Bulkeley Wells, manager of the Smuggler-Union Mining Company, and others. According to Wells' account, the remains were found in an improvised grave and its location was pointed out by Steve Adams, now in jail in Idaho awaiting a second trial on the charge of murder, when he was here in June, 1996, in the custoder of Walls Adams Showed Grave to Wells.

It was after Adams made the alleged confession which he afterward repudiated, and in which he is supposed to have acknowledged being the assassin of Arthur Collins, formerly general manager of the Smuggler-Union Mine, and to be familiar with the places where the bodies of W. J. Barney and Wesley Smith, a shift boss of the Liberty Bell Mine, were buried, that Adams was brought down here by General Wells to point out the graves of the missing men. When Wells and Adams went up into Gold King Basin, there was more snow on the ground than had been expected, and several years having expected, and several years having clapsed since the body had been buried. Adams was unable to determine exactly where the grave was. He showed General Wells the place according to the best of his recollection. Adams evidently gave an accurate description of the place, for it is understood little difficulty was experienced in uncovering the grave.

Part of the body, including the teeth and that portion by which identification could be most readily established, was brought to town by General Wells.

How Barney Offended.

Barney incurred the ill will of the union here by working at the Smuggler mine after the strike in April, 1991. It was this strike that caused the riots of July 3 of that year. Adams is said to have told Wells that Barney's body was stripped of his clothing, which was buried in another place. While here in 1906 Adams is said to have pointed out to Wells the tree, in the darkness of which he claimed to have stood when he fired the charge of buckshot into the back of Manager

Mr. Miller said that while the West-ern Union had never indirectly or di-rectly recognized the Telegraphers' Union, the company had not discrim-inated against men belonging to the organization, but had given the oper-ators to understand that the company meant to run its own business. The action of the men at Los Angeles, he said, was as unjustifiable as that of the operators in declaring the strike here several weeks ago, stating the officials were always ready to listen to grievances of the employes.

"IN SIMPLE TRUST"

One of the most common services a Trust Company performs, is to hold the title to real property 'in simple trust.'

This means the title is conveyed to the Trust Company, which issues a certificate reciting that the property is held in trust for you, and subject to your directions in writing. When you are ready to deed the property, on a written request from you the Trust Company executes and delivers its deed as instructed by you. You do not need to bother about drawing the conveyance, getting your wife's signature, hunting up a notary, and you may be in Portland or in Europe—your request is all that is required. The papers are sure to be right, a careful record of the transaction is kept, your papers safely preserved, and above all, the transaction is kept absolutely and unvaryingly confidential, and unless you disclose it, your interest need not be known. Fees moderate—msrely a reasonable compensation for the service rendered.
