ANGEL OF SLUMS MEETS REBUFF

Miss Luella Hawley, of Volunteer Army, Is Ejected From Saloon.

BARTENDER USES FORCE

Arrested for Offense, August Baker Escapes Penalty Because He Had Warned Her Not to Enter the Saloon.

To minister in the slums is worthy of higher respect, not to say apprecia-tion, than that accorded to one of these faunful workers last week by a bar-keeper in a North End saloon.

Three times a week Luella Hawley, a lieutenant in the Volunteers of America, calls at the saloons of the North End and passes the basket for contributions to assist in the work of brightening the lives of these whom good fortune has falled to visit:

Last Friday, as was her usual cus-tom. Miss Hawley entered the saloon on Burnside, near Second street, and, ac-Burnside, near Second street, and, according to her testimony in court, immediately August Baker, the bartender, rudely informed her that she was to stay out of his place, saying: "We want no beggars—you are not decent." Suiting his actions to the words, he took hold of her and ejected her by force.

Insults are common in the lives of these workers, but such coming from one who posses as a law-abiding citizen these workers, but such coming from one who poses as a law-abiding citizen was passing the pale of charity that suffereth these things for the works' sake. Accompanied by a brother member of the Volunteers, the little soldier returned to the saloon and gave the barkeeper an opportunity to apologize. This he refused to do and the protection of the law was asked.

of the law was asked.

In court yesterday morning Baker admitted ordering Miss Hawley out, also gently assisting her to leave, but claimed a charitable motive, saying he would spare her from the insults of men in the sales.

"She injures my business," continued Baker, "and we don't want her around. I have told her before to stay away," "Yes, that is true," said the prosecuting attorney, "the dimes ahe carries away would scarcely return to the bar."
The first that Raker had praylousely fact that Baker had previously told Miss Hawley to stay away was the basis for Judge Cameron's decision.

LONG LIVE CIRCUS PARADE

Costs Tidy Sum to Carry on the Great Spectacle.

"You may say in the biggest black-type you have that Ringling Brothers' circus will give a parade next Monus, said Special Agent Brady last night.
Continued Mr. Brady, "An effort was made to get Ringling Brothers to drop this feature on account of the big saving of money and work; but the public has been educated to look for it, and I am sure would resent its ab-sence. The local merchant benefits by the crowds it develops, and our country cousins come into town early to enjoy it. These rural folk are bundles of good nature, and have money to spend. Of course the young hopefuls of the family have a live-interest in the plodding elephants and meek camels, the bizarre clowns, dancing horses and graceful riders.

"It costs a tidy sum every year to carry out this custom. Fully $100,000 are tied up by Ringling Brothers in gilded chariots, musical vehicles, tableau floats and showy costumes; and the added daily expense, because of this street display, one way and another, would amaze you.

"To me a circus without a parade is suggestive of an opera without music. Take away this attraction and the human interest in the circus would be diminished by half. No city could afford the cost of a street pageant such as Ringling Brothers offer for a solltary occasion. It is a year's investment for them and a tremendous lever for popular liking.

"I have an idea that back of the ardent desire to drop the circus parade is a fault of organization which makes two shows a day on top of the morning procession difficult, if not impossible, for those who aspire to be "To me a circus without a parade is

CAUGHT SELLING LEVY LOOT

JEWELER'S CLERK CAUSES BURGLAR'S ARREST.

Police Convinced They Have in Harry Lents Man Who Ransacked Several Portland Houses.

To the prompt action of E. D. Smith, a clerk in the jewelry store of H. S. Ball & Son, 229 Morrison street, is due the very important capture yesterday morning of a man giving the name of Harry Lents. He is believed to be the burglar who stole valuable silverware and jewelry from the home of B. H. Levy, 781 Levejoy street.

home of B. H. Levy, 781 Lovejoy street. In attempting to dispose of some of the plunder in the store where Smith is employed, the alleged criminal was arrested, as the goods he offered for sale were recognized by Smith, who telephoned to the police.

Unaware that the plunder was recognized as fitting the description furnished to the store by Detective Sergeant Jones and Acting Detective Tichenor last week, Lents waited for a test of the jewelry and silverware. He was placed under arrest by Acting Detective Hellyer, who was sent over after him by Captain of Police Baty.

was sent over after him by Captain of Police Baty.

Lents submitted to arrest without any show of resistance, and went quietly to police headquarters, where he was searched and lodged in the City Jail. Some of the articles stolen from the Levy home were found in a white pasteboard box taken from Lents, in which other goods, supposedly loot from other residences, were also found. Knives, forks, and spoons of sterling silver. forks, and spoons of sterling silver, stamped with the letter "L," were taken from the prisoner. These convinced the police that he is the thief or that he has a partner in crime who committed the burglary. The police are inclined to believe also that Lents is implicated in the burglary of the home of M. Baruh, 809 Lovejoy street, where valuable furs were stolen.

Lents was dressed in well-tailored clothes, and is regarded as a criminal of the Raffles type. He carried a revolver, but made no attempt to use it when placed under arrest. He acted as one completely outwitted, when he found himself trapped, and seemed to realize that he could gain nothing by resistance.

The police give all the credit for the arrest to Mr. Smith the clerk who say

FIGHT NEW LUMBER RATE

J. N. Teal Will Head Publicity Campaign for Manufacturers.

J. N. Teal, attorney for the Oregon & Washington Lumber Manufacturers' Association, has been appointed manager of the publicity campaign that will be waged by the lumbermen of the two states against the threatened advance in lumber freights to the Eastern markets. Mr. Teal will personally direct the fight, both in its legal aspects and through the medium of an appeal to public opinion.

A bureau for dispensing information favorable to the lumbermen's side of the case will be established during the next few days and the fullest possible publicity favorable to the manufacturers' conten tions will be sent out broadcast to the newspapers of the territory. It is hoped in this way to smoke out the opposition and induce the railroads to withdraw the proposed rate. It is expected final resort will be had to the Interstate Commerce Commission if the railroad traffic managers persist in the increase.

Police Detective Hellyer Is Forced to Surrender $125 Paid Him.

GOES TO THE RELIEF FUND

Bravery in Quelling Riot on Board Schooner Johann Poulsen Was Recognized by Owners of the Vessel.

Clifford R. Hellyer, police detective, has laid himself liable to dismissal from the force and to a fine or reprimand at the hands of the Chief and Police Commissioners for accepting a reward of $125 from the Inman-Poulsen Lumber Company. The officer took the money, in violation of the rules of the department, several months ago, and kept the mat-ter secret until two weeks ago, when it was reported to his superior officer from another source. Hellyer then admitted the facts, and was ordered to turn in the money to the Police and Firemen's Relief Fund, as prescribed by the man-

Chief of Police Gritzmacher confirmed these facts yesterday, when an investi-gation was made of rumors relative to the payment to Hellyer. The Chief said, however, that he did not believe charges would be preferred against Detective Hellyer, since the latter turned in the money he received. He held it, however, until his act was revealed in a secret manner to the head of the department and to the Commissioners.

It is regarded as quite probable that Chief Gritzmacher and the Police Com-missioners would have granted Detective missioners would have granted Detective Hellyer a special ruling on the $125 reward, had he but laid the case before them before accepting the money. The manual provides that this may be done at the discretion of the Commissioners, where an officer performs a meritorious and praiseworthy act. In ...s case, it is said at headquarters Hellyer practically, beat himself out of the amount cally beat himself out of the amount named by his attempt to keep the matter away from his superiors.

Andrew G. Vaughn, formerly employed as a city detective, and now in business for himself, is said to have accepted an equal sum, constituting the same breach equal sum, constituting the same breach of the rule, but because of his discharge from the force, he will be allowed to keep the money.

The rewards were paid to Hellyer and Vaughn because of what is regarded as a piece of bravery and meritorious work on their part in quelling a serious riot on board the steam schooner Johann Poulsen one night a year ago, during the progress of a strike. The two officers were ordered to the Inman-Poul-sen Lumber Company's dock, where some shots had been fired at the watch some shots had been fired at the watch-man of the schooner. 'Charles Bock, business agent for the Sallors' Union, was arrested and charged with assault with a dangerous weapon. He was con-victed by a jury in the Circuit Court. and the case was carried to the State Supreme Court, and was remanded for a new trial. Later District Attorney Manning filed not a true bill, and the matter ended. It was said that the wit-nesses could not be secured for the second trial.

a clear morning after the present almost full moon is set and just before dawn, about 3 o'clock, if one will look closely at the horizon at the point where the sun rises, he will see the new comet. It will appear more like a large, bright, hazy star to one with not over strong eyesight, or if the morning is a bit misty; but a small field-glass or pair of opera-glasses will show that the apparent star has a long, glowing, golden tail, pointing almost straight up; that is away from the sun. To be seen at its best advantage the new comet must be seen within the next two days. After that the comet goes so near the sun that it cannot be seen till after it has passed beyond and begins to go away into space once more. This will be some weeks hence, when the comet can then be seen in the evening sky after sundown, for it will then be on the other side of the sun as viewed from the earth.

The present comet is not as large as the great comet of 1882, but its "head" is fully as bright. How it will appear after going so close to the sun no knows, as comets frequently change their shape and size rapidly when in close WEATHER CONDITIONS. The pressure has fallen slightly over this forecast district during the last 12 hours, but the Dakota high area still exercises its controlling influence over the weather of the district, clear skies being reported from all oints over the Pacific Slope and Inter-Mour ain region. No precipitation occurred. Tem erature changes were unimportant.

HERE is an ideal place for the man to build his home who is fond of Nature, while at the same time, he desires to be near the advantages and features of a large city. If that man will visit Rose City Park, he will find an excellent combination of both. There are several fine locations in Rose City Park for what might be called a country home place. By the way, is it not a pretty good suggestion, that you buy your lot now? If you do, you will have it all paid for by the middle of next Summer. You will then be in fine shape to figure on building a home for yourself and family. You will easily have it completed by Fall and be able to move in long before Winter breaks next year. At any rate, now is the time to consider it and repare for it.
