That, in short, was the scene enacted yesterday from hour of opening until closing time at the great ASSIGNEE'S FORCED SALE of the MERCHANDISE STOCKS EMBRACED by the

GOLDEN EAGLE DEPT. STORE

When the big gong rang for closing the crowds were loth to leave. No such monster carnival of extraordinary bargains was ever before held in Portland. The peculiar and regrettable circumstances compelling this merciless and TERRIFIC SLAUGHTER OF SPLENDID NEW MERCHANDISE are well known. The condition is unusual and without precedent in Portland's mercantile annals. This great group of specialty stores that comprised the is stocked, basement to roof-tree, with the best and finest merchandise the markets of the world afford. Thousands of dollars' worth of new Fall goods had arrived and were in the stocks at the time of the suspension—all these are included in the sale, making this a most unusual opportunity for supplying the Fall needs in every line, for personal wear or household use, carried by this great "universal provider" establishment.

ALL RECORDS ARE BROKEN

Colonist Business of Harriman Lines for Week Very Heavy.

Colonist business carried by the Harriman lines during the past week has been the heaviest for any corresponding period of former years. Figures kept by Assistant General Passenger Agent Scott show that during the week ending September 15 the allied lines hauled 1561 people to this state on colonist tickets. This

Of this number, 414 people came to Portland and 1294 home-seekers stopped at Oregon stations on the Southern Pacific south of Portland. Spokane secured 133 visitors during the week, 68 went to points north of Spokane. The Dalles secured 19, Pendleton, 3, La Grande 18, Baker City 25, Walla Walla 17, Bridal Veil 12.

Traffic Managers Agree.

After a prolonged session yesterday railroad and steamship traffic men on the North Pacific Coast reached a definite understanding regarding the adjustment of rates from San Francisco to interior points in Oregon, Washington and Idaho, via Portland and the Puget Sound ports. An adjustment of rates will be made whereby charges will be made uniform by either the Puget Sound or the Portland gateway. The general basis for the new rates will be the water rates from San Francisco plus the local railroad charges to the interior. Tariffs will be revised accordingly and published.

Will Fix Tariff on Oats.

The transcontinental railroads will publish a rate on oats from the grain fields in Oregon, Washington and Idaho to the East within a short time. The tariff will be 10 cents higher per 100 pounds than the existing rate on wheat. At present there are no rates on oats for this haul. The Denver rate on wheat from the interior is 56 cents, and the tariff on oats for the same haul is 60 cents. There is no existing commodity rate for oats to territory east of that point.

Check Forger Set Free.

T. M. Hartman, arrested several weeks ago by the police on a charge of passing worthless checks, will escape the consequences of his acts. Hartman's relatives have made good the money he is said to have secured by fraudulent means and in this manner secured a dismissal. Hartman was released yesterday following a formal motion for dismissal of the case, which was made by the District Attorney's office.

At the same time another communication was sent to the Police Grizmacher, instructing him to proceed to remove at once all such signs that are not licensed.

Frank J. Motter, representing the People's Market Association, submitted to the committee another ordinance covering the subject of the franchise held by this association and providing for an increase from $100 to $200 a month in the rental of this property. No action was taken on the ordinance by the committee, but Chairman Vaughn announced that he would introduce it by request at the next meeting of the Council.

Plans and specifications from the City Engineer's office for a steel bridge on Union avenue across Sullivan's Gulch, similar to that constructed over the same gulch on Grand avenue, were approved and an ordinance directing the improvement ordered drafted.

E. Quackenbush, representing the people of Piedmont, requested permission of the committee to use gravel for the construction of streets and sidewalks in that suburb, the gravel so used to be taken from some point in the district to be improved and to be used only in that district. After some discussion, the committee referred the matter to a special committee consisting of Councilmen Vaughn and Kellner, City Attorney Kavanaugh and City Engineer Taylor.

These changes in the ordinance were made at the request of Councilman Willis, a brick manufacturer, who appeared before the committee.

The ordinance regulating the piling of brick in the streets and requiring that this building material be piled in racks was amended by the committee so as to apply only to quantities of 3000 and more. The same ordinance will require that contractors in removing brick from the street will work from the outer side of the pile of brick so that the least possible amount of street space will be required.

TO PROTECT DUMB ANIMALS

Appeal for Funds to Support Oregon Humane Society.

PORTLAND, Or., Sept. 20.—(To the Editor.)—Perhaps no organization in our city or county is more deserving of liberal support than the Oregon Humane Society. The Oregonian has said, editorially, "It merits all the aid it will receive, and more, too. For a third of a century it has done very effective work in teaching kindness to the brute creation. While results cannot be easily measured, the Oregonian, in common with all observant citizens, knows that through the constant teaching of the society, mainly in the public schools, abuse of animals has been greatly reduced. It is to be hoped that this condition may be maintained, but let it be remembered that a little money is needed. Let it be promptly and cheerfully given."

It has been proven beyond question that humane education as inaugurated by humane societies has lessened crime in a remarkable way, thereby saving a large tax to the public and creating a sentiment and love for the brute creation which extends also to mankind. Humane societies spread their influence over all other institutions.

The work of the Oregon Humane Society, through the public schools of Portland, during the past 23 years, in teaching kindness to animals, stands as a living monument to the benefits of humane education.

But with the rapid growth of our city and the universal demand for horses to meet the increasing traffic in transportation of all kinds of material, the demands upon the Humane Society have likewise greatly increased, and the time has come when substantial provision must be made if the work is to keep pace with the demands upon the society during the past few years. The society during the past few years has been able to meet its increasing expenses. Our treasury is overdrawn and the only means of support the society has ever had is through contributions and membership dues. Portland cannot now afford to dispense with a society that has been in existence for a period of 23 years, and which is called upon many times daily for its protection to dumb creatures, and its usefulness can be greatly extended through the liberal support of its citizens, which we feel confident will be given when called upon.

The Humane Society has been overlooked in the bequests of wealthy estates. But were the lasting and beneficial influence of humane education and prevention of cruelty more fully understood a higher appreciation of the necessity of ample support would certainly follow.

The Humane Society, through its efforts, has secured contributions from several benevolent citizens, to be used in the purchase of furniture for the city, which, we are advised, will be shipped from New York next week.

Thus it will be seen that the field of work is not confined solely to the prevention of cruelty to animals, but is working in behalf of every cause which is intended to better the conditions of man as well.

Therefore we now appeal to all citizens of Portland interested in humane education and the prevention of cruelty to all living creatures to join the Humane Society and contribute to its support.

Persons desiring to become members or to contribute any amount can remit by mail or call at the office of the society in the

Saturday's Bargains Are Sensational and Unparalleled

NO PRUDENT MAN OR WOMAN WILL SPEND A DOLLAR ELSEWHERE TODAY FOR GOODS THAT MAY BE GOTTEN HERE. Good reason why—for A DOLLAR HERE TODAY WILL BUY TWO DOLLARS--OR MORE--IN DEPENDABLE MERCHANDISE. Competition there cannot be! One might as well try to lift himself by his own boot-straps as to equal such values as offer themselves here in the MONSTER ASSIGNEE'S SALE! The sacrifice will be merciless. Everything included and nothing reserved. It's useless to quote prices here--ABSOLUTELY EVERYTHING IN THE HOUSE IS DRASTICALLY REDUCED. Cost, value and loss will be ignored in this imperative slaughter. Orders are authoritative. Our command is positive and unmistakable. "Sell everything--Clean to the bare counters and walls--for what 'twill bring, regardless of cost, worth or loss." "Sell, Sell, Sell." "Get the money for the creditors"--"and that without delay," comes the order from Major Kennedy, assignee in charge.

Brass Band for Grants Pass.

GRANTS PASS, Or., Sept. 20.—(Special.)—Through the efforts of Dr. F. W. Van Dyke, Grants Pass will soon have a first-class brass band. In his recent visit to Portland the doctor prevailed upon Professor Stanton Rowell to visit here, look over the field and see what the prospects were.

Rowell was so well pleased he immediately re-organized the present orchestra and now has well under way a band composed of the old musicians and also a

Suspect Is Set Free.

Frank Johnson, alias Frank Noland, alias Frank Williams, suspected of being "Big Johnny," the Sellwood post-office robber, was yesterday released from custody by the order of Judge Wolverton of the United States Court at the request of Assistant District Attorney Cole. The record, at the request of Mr. Cole, shows that the man was arrested through a mistake in identity. The man was arrested Tuesday by Officer Goltz and was arraigned in the Federal Court as "Big Johnny."
