HENEY SUDDENLY CLOSES EVIDENCE

Defense in Ford Bribery Trial Is Treated to a Great Surprise.

RUEF DOES NOT TESTIFY

Question Whether He Refused or Is Being Reserved for Rebuttal. Tracing That $200,000 by Elimination Process.

SAN FRANCISCO, Out, 2 .- To the Surprise of all in the courtroom, Assistant District Attorney F. J. Hency today closed the case for the proscution in the bribery trial of Tirey L. Ford without calling Abe Ruef as a witness. The day was spent in tracing the $290,000 drawn from the Mint by the United Railroads Company into the hands of Ruef and the Supervisors by proving that it had not been applied to any other purpose and had not been deposited to the credit of the company in any of its several banks,

Tracing the Bribe Money.

George P. Wilcutt, secretary and controller of the United Railroads, was recalled. He brought with him the corporation's journal and ledger for 1905-1206, from which the prosecution desired to show bank account credits corroborative of the $175,000 already testified to as having been deposited in the Wells-Fargo Nevada National Bank to the order of Thornwell Mulially, and the $200,300 in the Mint to the order of Ford. It developed that the desired records were not contained in the journal or ledger, and Wilcutt was dis-nissed without cross-examination.

Adam M. Dollar, cashier, was called by Assistant District Attorney Hency and testified that $199,390 of the $175. 300 in the Wells-Fargo bank was turned over to him by Treasurer Starr for operating expenses. The remaining 175,000 had been already accounted for it was paid to the relief corporation. The $200,300 credited to the order of Firey L. Ford was withdrawn by him from the Mint in currency. Mr. Heney frew from Mr. Dollar the fact that all frew from Mr. Dollar the fact that all money turned over to him for operating expenses by Mr. Starr was invariably gold or silver.

Mr. Heney called for the company's rash book, but Mr. Dollar asserted ignorance of its whereabouts. Under tross-examination by the defense, he corrected this by saying it and other books of the corporation are in New York, being experted. York, being experted.

The prosecution called Charles F. King United Railroads office boy employed in the law department. He was unable to say whether he had seen Abe Ruef visit Tirey l. Ford's office.

Ruef's Sister Testifies.

Mrs. Sittenfield, Ruef's sister and for 1 years his confidential secretary and stenographer, took the stand. Mr. Heney showed her the original of the trolley franchise passed by the Board of Supervisors, and asked whether she typed it. She said she did not think so. Cushier Rossetti of the Wells-Fargo-

Nevada National Bank was recalled to complete his testimony respecting United Railroads' deposits. His testimony established the fact that the $200,000 withdraws from the mint by Ford was not deposited in the bank. Mr. Honey's inference being that it was paid to Ruef. Several other bank officials testified that the United Railroads usually transacted busines with cash or checks, not currency.
The first witness called at the afterno session was Jesse B. McCarter, of the Crocker National Bank. He testified that no deposit of $50,000 in currency from the United Railroads was made in August. 1996, the time when that and like sums were withdrawn from the Mint by Ford. He said that currency is not much used in San Francisco and that receipt of such amount in bank notes would be memor-

Prosecution Abruptly Closes.

B. Dowling, cashier of the Union Trust Company, where the United Railroads kept of its many accounts, gave testimony similarly eliminative. It was 2:25 P. M. when Mr. Heney abruptly announced: "The prosecution

This sudden termination of the case for the people without the calling of its star witness. Abe Ruef, threw the big crowd in the synagogue into a buzz of excitement. It had been confidently ex-pected that Ruef would take the stand and tell of his dealings with the of-ficials of the United Railroads. His testimony was considered of great importance in the prosecution and the big erowd in attendance was manifestly disappointed by the unloked-for de-cision to get along without this vital

It is understood, though not by of-It is understood, though not by of-ficial announcement, that Ruef at the last minute refused to go on the sand and incriminate the officials of the United Rallroads. On the other hand, there may have been no breach at all between Ruef and the prosecution. Mr. Heney, surmising that Ford will take the stand in his own behalf and deny his guilt, may be reserving Ruef for rebuttal, meaning to make a whirtwind finish by swearing him to contra-wind finish by swearing him to contra-dict the defendant.

When Mr. Heney announced that the prosecution closed, Judge Lawlor di-rected the defense to open its case. Earl Rogers replied that the sudden action of the other side was a surprise. He asked for time to prepare his client's case for presentation and sug-rected an adjournment until 10 c'clock. gested an adjournment until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Judge Lawler so ordered. Mr. Heney and Ruef refused

(Continued from First Page.) explained with the statement that the explained with the statement that the Barber Lumber Company had pur-chased a quantity of land scrip and had prepared to scrip the sec-tion in which the state had finally de-clded to take up 4000 acres. The com-pany's idea was to scrip the land ahead of the entrymen. Mr. Morrison did not give him any specific information. not give him any specific information. As to the reports that deeds went through his office, Senator Borah said that altogether 339 deeds had been so recorded. He had nothing to do with any of the purchases, many of which were made long before he became attorney for the company. No contraversy arising over the deeds—nothing in regard to them—was ever referred to him. Mr. Borah said he had inquired as to why the land had been taken in the names of Band Jones and others, who were Rand, Long and others, who were brought forward by the Government as "dummy" trustees. Mr. Borah said the company officers answered that if it became known a corporation was in the field the price of the lands would have been doubled. For this same reason the Barber mill site here was also purchased in Rand's name. Mr. Borah called on the prosecution to produce these deeds in corroboration of his statement.

"I never prepared a deed from any entrymen or trustee." 'Said Mr. Borah.

"I do not and never did own a dollar of stock in the Barber Lumber Company.
My compensation has always been a fixed salary, and I never had any contingent fee or interest whatsoever."

Why He Called on Receiver.

Mr. Rorah was asked to explain his visit to the residence of Receiver Garret, of the Land Office, one night. He de-clared it was in regard to a rallroad prop-osition United States District Attorney Ruick had in Boise basin, where most of the Barber Lumber Company's land was located.

"We don't want to know anything about that," interrupted Prosecutor Rush in the midst of the applause.

Mr. Borah said the only general fraud charges he had ever heard had to do with a complaint that mineral land was being taken for timber lands in violation of the mineral land act. After he was informed that the Government was satisfied on this point, Mr. Borah said he was called upon for no further

At one point of his cross-examina-tion Mr. Borah was loudly applauded by a crowded courtroom. Judge Whit-son said a reptition of the demonstra-tion would result in excluding all spec-

All citizens, irrespective of politics, united in a general rejoicing that Idaho's foremost citizen had been that Idaho's foremost citizen had been relieved of the odium of a charge which has been proven completely baseless. He met the Issue in a straightforward manner, and has come through the ordeal in a way that is certainly gratifying to his friends and discomfiting to his enemies. Senator discomfiting to his enemies. Sanator Borah's ability as an orator and as an attorney has long been recognized, but today the entire Nation has learned what Idaho already knew—that he is an honest, upright man, representative of the citizenship of Idaho."
